$55,000,000 PERMIT FOR POTOMAC POWER PROJECT IS SOUGHT

Great Falls Included in Application Filed by Col. C. Keller.

FOUR STORAGE DAMS TO EQUALIZE FLOW

Chicago and Cleveland Capital Behind Company Headed by R. J. Bulkley.

Harnessing of the turbulent waters at Great falls and Chain bridge, so as to give Washington and the vicinity a new and greater supply of electric power, loomed as an actuality yesterday.

The Potomac River Corporation, composed principally of Chicago and Cleveland capitalists, filed an application with the Federal power commission yesterday for a preliminary permit to establish a hydroelectric power plant on the Potomac river and its tributaries.

The project, even mightier than the one that has been agitated by engineers and members of Congress for a decade or more, will cost approximately $55,000,000, it is estimated.

Col. Charles Keller, former engineer commissioner of the District of Columbia, applied to the Federal power commission for the preliminary permit Col. Keller, who was deeply interested in the power project when he was in office here, resigned from the army engineer corps to join the utilities firm of H. M. Billebys & Co., of Chicago.

300,000 Horsepower Planned.

The H. M. Billebys Co. owns one-half the stock in the Potomac River Corporation. Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland, is president of the corporation. The corporation has its headquarters at Wilmington, Del. The project planned by the corporation would develop about 300,000 horsepower, enough to supply electric power not only to Washington, but to communities for miles around.

In its application for a preliminary permit the corporation states that the power to be generated will be sold for public utility purposes "to operating and distributing companies, to industries and to other users of electric energy."

Officials of the Potomac Electric Power Co., which now supplies Washington with electric power, have always maintained before committees of Congress that it could supply such power just as cheap as any concern generating the power at Great Falls.

It was the opinion of officials of the Federal power commission that the Potomac River Corporation would offer to sell its electric power wholesale to the Potomac Electric Power Co.

$100,000 Spent on Survey.

That the new corporation "means business" is indicated, it was said last night, by the fact that it already has spent nearly $100,000 for a survey of the proposed power sites.

The proposed scheme of development is similar to that recommended by Maj. M. C. Tyler, former army engineer in charge of the Washington district,

Man Gives Up Son To Retain His Auto

Special to The Washington Post.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 13.—H. W. Sherwood, an employe of the Rock Island shops, lost the custody of his young son today when he told juvenile court officers that he would let the boy starve rather than give up his automobile. He told the court that he did not intend to work hard all day and not have a car to ride around in at night.

"You'd rather have a car, even if your own son goes hungry?" asked a court official.

"Yes, I would," he replied. The child was sent to the Home for the Friendless, and Sherwood was ordered to contribute $4 to its support.

Officer Is Acquitted Of Killing With Aero

Montgomery, Ala., May 13 (By A. P.).—Lieut. Arthur J. Lehman, a Maxwell field flying officer, was acquitted by a court-martial board today of charges connected with the killing of Frank G. Browder last October. The aged cotton broker was killed when an airplane swooped low into a cotton field.

Lieut. Lehman was charged with perjury and manslaughter.

U. S. Plane, in Flames, Brought Down Safely

Jackson, Miss., May 13 (By A. P.).—An airplane carrying Lieut. George Finch, Atlanta, and Lieut. David M. Ramsay, Greenville, S. C., was forced down at Edwards, 25 miles west of here, today when it caught fire from motor trouble. Lieut Finch leaped in a parachute while Lieut. Ramsay piloted the plane safely to land

The fliers were en route to San Antonio, Tex., from Atlanta, where Lieut Finch had gone to attend the funeral of his wife.

200,000 Being Driven Out By Flood After Levee Fails

Bayou Des Glaises Dike Finally Gives Way After Long, Heroic Fight by Hundreds to Strengthen It. Rescue Fleet Busy at Scene.

New Orleans, May 13 (By A. P.).—The vast lake of overflow water covering northeastern Louisiana crept steadily southward toward the gulf tonight as waters from the Bayou des Glaises crevasses rolled over three additional parishes.

Within a few days the lake will cover sixteen parishes, stretching from the northern boundary of the State to the gulf, an area 225 miles long and ranging from 50 to 100 miles in width. Ultimately driving upward of 200,000 people from their homes.

Rescue fleets operating in the Bayou des Glaises section were tonight removing hundreds from their homes around which the water already swirled, while thousands of others were making for high land over high lands that will in a few hours be obliterated beneath a heaving torrent.

More than 1,000,000 acres will be included in the vast lake, when the torrents now moving southward reach the gulf. Coming from the air, naval pilots report that northeastern Louisiana as far as the eye can reach is covered with water, only the roofs of houses, church spires and tops of telegraph poles in the agricultural areas marking the sections where fertile farms existed.

The first rampart to crumple on the main Bayou des Glaises defense gave way early today at Moreauville. The breach rapidly widened and before noon a stream of water 9 feet deep and 600 feet wide was roaring down upon five parishes in the Atchafalaya basin.

The Moreauville break followed a crevasse on Bayou Rouge, an extension of the Bayou des Glaises system, yesterday and ended a fight of more than a week to save the embankments guarding the lowlands.

Shortly after the break there, Flood Relief Dictator John M. Parker at Baton Rouge, was informed that there has been a second break at Bordelonville. This was denied by a merchant there who said that while work had been abandoned and the town virtually deserted, the levee had not broken. The workers had become disheartened and exhausted, he said, and had given up their efforts to save the town, with

BERLIN STOCKS CRASH AFTER LIMIT ON CREDITS

Banks Restrict Funds for Speculation; Rush to Sell Sends Leaders Down.

SOME SLUMP 130 POINTS

Berlin, May 13 (By A. P.).—Prices on the Berlin bourse today underwent a tremendous slump in a panicky sale of stocks, chiefly by speculators, which followed the announcement that Berlin banks had decided to restrict credits for speculative purposes.

The crisis, which was compared to the Wall street panic of 1869, swept many stocks down from 10 to 40 points as large holdings were thrown on the market at any price by panicky holders.

As stockholders continued all day to throw shares on the market in the hope of losing as little as possible, a continuation of the crisis is feared tomorrow. All classes of industrials were hit by today's break, Vereinigte Glazstoff Fabriken shares dropping 130 points on the day and a big brewery concern's shares declining similarly.

Despite the crash in the speculative market, a degree of optimism was reflected in the post-bourse trading, in that it was believed that the peak has now been reached in the speculative wave which has been going on for almost a year.

It was revealed today that Dr. Hjalmer Schac[illegible] president of the Reichsbank, some time ago apprised the government that he proposed to initiate measures which would restrict severely the ease with which speculators have been able to borrow money in the open market for bourse gambling and that private banks would definitely support him. In view of his notification the government has not felt

Hit and Run Dry Boat Kills Man and Girl, 6

Detroit, Mich., May 13 (By A. P.).—Taking his motor launch out for a trial trip on the Detroit river early tonight, James Lee and a 6-year-old daughter were killed when an unidentified Federal prohibition patrol boat crashed into it amidships while traveling at a high rate of speed.

Police of the harbor master's division said the government boat failed to stop after the accident.

Italian Crown Prince May Marry Cousin

Rome, Italy, May 13 (By A. P.).—The engagement of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy to Princess Maria Adelaide, daughter of the Duke of Genoa, soon will be announced, it is stated in authoritative circles here.

The princess is a third cousin of the prince. Both were born in 1904. Her mother was Princess Isabelle of Bavaria.

The crown prince's grandfather, King Humbert, also married his cousin, Princess Marguerita of Savoy, daughter of the Duke of Genoa.

9,917,361 Bibles Put In Circulation in Year

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Circulation of the Bible during 1926 was 9,917,361 volumes, an increase of more than 600,000 volumes in one year. Circulation reports presented at the annual meeting of the American Bible society show that during the 111 years of the history of the society 184,028,860 volumes had been circulated.

Marriage License 13 Used on Friday, 13th

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—The reputed unluckiness of 13 had no horrors for Ray Theodore, 24, of Niagara Falls, and Miss Mary Ella Myers, 22, of Key West, Fla. They got a marriage license today, Friday, the 13th, and when the clerk explained that it was license No. 13, they laughed.

3,000 SLAIN BY BANDITS IN CHINESE MASSACRE

Women and Children Put to Death With Men; Village Looted and Burned.

HEROIC DEFENSE USELESS

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Peking, May 13.—Only 30 of the entire population of Hengshan, Shantung province, in the Chefoo region, escaped death today at the hands of bandits. The victims total approximately 3,000.

Telegrams reporting the massacre relate indescribable horrors, including children hacked and burned. The brigands did not respect infants or women. Adults were hanged to trees and made to suffer slow death. The limbs of children were first severed and then the bodies tossed into burning buildings. The village was reduced to ashes.

Owing to the concentration of the Shantung troops in Anhwei province combating the southerners, bandits are overrunning all Shantung. The band, under leadership of Liu Hei-Chi, besieged the town, which gave stout resistance, with heavy casualties. Owing to lack of water the head of the village personally visited the bandit camp, offering all the wealth of the village if the attack, then of five days' duration, was discontinued and the inhabitants spared.

The bandit chieftain refused and renewed the attack. The women and children of the town joined in the defense when the chief said he would

ELOPERS ARE SOUGHT; MARRIAGE ILLEGAL

Members of Wealthy Chicago Families United on Train on Way to Derby.

Chicago, Ill., May 13 (By A. P.).—Derby crowds at Louisville today were searched in vain as Louis Nettelhorst continued his chase after his young daughter and her newly acquired husband to tell the elopers their wedding aboard a special train for the Blue Grass race classic had been declared illegal.

The "newlyweds," Ruth Nettelhorst; and Ellsworth Wilt, both of prominent Chicago families, had fled here to attend the derby as honeymooners. They were married by a former justice of the peace as their special train halted in Indianapolis and sped on to Louisville, all unmindful that the ceremony was illegal, the girl's father claims.

Not only was the former justice of the peace not qualified to perform the service, but their marriage license was illegal, the father charges. The Indianapolis law says the bride must reside there 30 days, the father said, and the former justice of the peace, although now a deputy justice, could not act legally unless specially appointed to perform the ceremony.

Marchioness Travels In Dog Pen on Liner

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 13.—Marchioness Giovanni Bertolini, a passenger aboard the Italian liner Roma, which docked here today from Italy, knows what it means to lead a dog's life. She swapped places with a dog for a whole day on the trip to New York. Rather, she occupied a dog's pen on the liner and won $200 from Generro Papi, one of the leaders of the Metropolitan Opera company's orchestra, who wagered that a woman could not withstand the rigors of the dog pen aboard ship and survive.

PANAMANS CHARGE CANAL ZONE STORES WRECK THEIR TRADE

Coolidge Told U. S. Shops Undersell Merchants by Unfair Methods.

$100,000,000 YEARLY BUSINESS REPORTED

Denial Is Entered by Federal Officials; Sales Limited, Statement Declares.

By JOHN J. DALY.

Government officials yesterday took cognizance of certain charges made by George D. Arias, president of the Panama Association of Commerce, and Enrique A. Jeminez, former vice president of the Republic of Panama. The Panamans assert that all commerce in their country will be virtually wiped out within the next two years unless the American government ceases expansion of its commissariat activities in the Canal Zone.

A letter to the President of the United States, signed by a representative group of American business men, high in the chancels of American industry, expressed the opinion that "unintentionally an injustice was being done to the commercial interests of the Republic of Panama and indirectly affecting relations with the other Latin American Republics." The contention is set up that, because of goods sold duty free in the Canal Zone, the activities of the commissaries work "to the serious and increasing detriment of the material prosperity of the Republic of Panama * * * *."

Started in Roosevelt Regime.

Specifically, the so-called abuses mentioned have to do with the operation of the United States commissaries, started back in the Roosevelt administration as supply stores for workers on the Panama railroad.

Similar to commissaries furnishing foodstuffs and clothing to the army and navy, these stores were originally intended to provide only the necessaries of life. Now, according to Mr. Arias, and Mr. Jeminez, representing the merchants and government of Panama, respectively, the commissaries furnish luxuries—even to diamonds and jewelry.

The Panamans assert that the commissaries have attained such gigantic business importance that they have taken on an international trade complexion, growing to such proportions that they now operate offices in London and Paris; that a new office is about to be opened in Germany for the purpose of furthering trade in the Canal Zone. In the hands of private capital, the Panamans allege, the total investment would amount to more than $100,000,000.

Panamans at Conference.

Attending the inter-American commercial conference recently held here, Arias and Jeminez remained over to set their charges before the American government which holds to the right of the United States to obtain clearance

Major Dodge's Dog Follows Him in Death

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 13.—A German police dog, the pet of Maj. Earl Dodge, who died in Paris two weeks ago, refused to live longer without his master, it was learned today when the Cunarder Berengaria docked here with the body of the master aboard. The dog, left behind when his master went abroad, howled mournfully the night Dodge succumbed in Paris. The following day Mrs. Ella Lynch Dodge, wife of the major, received word of his death. For the next two weeks, until today, the dog continued to pine, despite the services of veterinarians. Today as Dodge's body was taken ashore the dog died.

COOLIDGE IS SILENT ON REPORTED STAND AGAINST THIRD TERM

Said to Have Signed, in 1912, Petition Directed Against Roosevelt.

EXPLANATION SOUGHT, BUT NOT OBTAINED

O'Shea, Bay State Politician, Has Copy With Signature, Statement Avers.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

The rule of silence, which has governed the political ambitions of President Coolidge, was not violated yesterday when more than half a dozen efforts were made to obtain from the chief executive a statement in reply to that of Michael J. O'Shea, of Worcester, Mass., in which the latter said that he had obtained in 1912 the signature of the then State Senator Calvin Coolidge to an antithird term petition directed against President Roosevelt.

The fact that O'Shea, a Republican politician of some importance in Bay State labor circles, said not only that he had got the signature, but that it had been made in duplicate, and that one copy was still in his possession, made the matter the most pressing that the chief executive has yet faced in respect to his plans for 1928.

The original report that the President at the behest of W. Murray Crane, who was an ardent champion of President Taft, had associated himself with the antithird-term movement of that time, was printed in Boston and New York early in the week, but the story at that time lacked any supporting evidence connecting the President with the political effort.

Coolidge Statement Expected.

Yesterday's assertion made by O'Shea was devoid of any qualification and would result, it was thought, in some statement from the White House, either of denial or explanation of the circumstances that surrounded the actions of fifteen years ago. Instead the direct assertion went unchallenged by anyone connected officially with the Coolidge administration.

The presentation of a petition in 1912 questioning the right of any man to have a third term in the White House was easily established. The Congressional Record of that year shows that it was offered in both the Senate and the House and that it carried the signature of the late Senator Henry W. Blair. Original copies of the document in the records of the two houses failed to show the presence of any other names, much less that of President Coolidge.

When this report was published officials at the White House said that it would not be called to the President's attention. The supporting evidence of O'Shea, which changed the situation from a report to a fact at issue between the Masachusetts politician and the President, caused the matter to be brought to the attention of the chief executive, but did not furnish a reply.

Not a Word as to 1912 or 1928.

A variety of other subjects were informally discussed on behalf of the President, but not a word was said

Woman Faces Charge Of Murder With Brick

Chicago, May 13 (By A. P.).—Miss Violet Bender, 35, today was held without bond, charged with having murdered Albert W. Valecka, former chief of police of the suburb of Cicero. He died last Thursday night after a beating.

Miss Bender is an aunt of Grace Woodrick, Valecka's fiancee, whom he was alleged to have struck, causing Miss Bender, according to one woman witness, to strike him with a brick.

Dot Mackaye Called 'Wife' In Paul Kelly's Love Notes

Raymond's Widow Smiles on Stand as She Reads Letters at Trial of Film Juvenile Charged With Killing Her Husband in Fist Fight.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 13 (By A. P.).—The love affair of Dorothy Mackaye, actress widow of Ray Raymond, and Paul Kelly, who is on trial for Raymond's death, was revealed by the prosecution in the trial today as one of passionate wooing, instead of the platonic friendship previously described by the woman over whose affections Kelly is said to have pounded his rival in a fight that ended tragically.

Love letters and telegrams which the State contends comprise evidence of the love affair were introduced into the case today.

One letter identified by Miss Mackaye on the witness stand as received by her from Kelly, passionately expressed his love for her over and over again and referred to her in endearing terms and as "my wife" several times. The letter was signed "Paul," with a row of crosses.

Portions of the letter in a childish alphabetical code were translated by Miss Mackaye as meaning "I love you, really and truly I do."

Telegrams sent by her to Kelly expressing her love and signed "Dot" and "E. Mrs. K.," which she testified meant "Elegant Mrs. Kelly," were identified by the actress and submitted as evidence.

Two telegrams were introduced as evidence in the afternoon session and identified by Miss Mackaye falteringly as from her husband to her, the first of which read:

"Fresno, Calif., April 3, 1927.—You are my wife and mother of my baby. There is no such thing as a loan. My heart is breaking. Dorothy, for God's

PHONE RATE CUT TO $4.75; TO BE DATED FROM 1925

Valuation Proceedings to End; Credit Will Be Given on Bills.

PARTY CALLS INCREASED

The public utilities commission yesterday entered into a compromise agreement on rates with the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., whereby all valuation proceedings and litigation are to be terminated, the company is to accept the rate as ordered reduced by the commission two years ago and the commission foregoes the fixing of any valuation of the company's property and agrees to order no further rate reductions until June 1, 1929.

As a result, the bills for individual residence lines henceforth will be $4.75 a month instead of $5, and 40 instead of 35 calls will be allowed for the $2.50 subscribers who pay monthly for two-party lines. The rates will be made effective as of June 10, 1925, and the refunds dating from that time will be effected by means of credits on bills instead of cash payments.

The valuation on which these rates were based and the rates themselves are pending in the District Supreme Court in a proceeding brought by the company for an injunction to restrain the commission from effecting the rates. The case was heard a year ago and a decision has been expected for a long time.

The compromise arrangement was suggested by representatives of the company. Its terms, as stated in a memorandum issued by the commission, are as follows:

"1. The company accepts the rate reduction ordered by the commission two years ago.

"2. The company and the commission will join in an application to the court for an appropriate order to dispense with the pending cases in

3 MEN DIE IN PACT; POVERTY IS BLAMED

One Thinks Others Will Fail; Reads of Their Deaths and Kills Self.

San Francisco, May 13 (By A. P.).—Despondency brought on by poverty caused three men to take their lives here in a suicide pact. The bodies of two of the men were found in one room, while the third died alone.

Each had made efforts to remove all marks by which the body could be identified. The bodies were identified, however, as those of Edward Stratton, 28; Sam Lehrer, 40, and George Taschner, 26. The men sealed cracks in their rooms with plaster, and turned on the gas.

Friends of the trio declared today that the men had tried various religious creeds, including occultism, and finally had turned to atheism. The suicide pact was said by acquaintances to have been made after a long discussion in Taschner's room Monday night.

Taschner told friends he expected the other two to back out of the agreement, but on reading of their death, killed himself.

Japan's Moratorium Ends; No Bank Runs

Tokyo, May 13 (By A. P.).—The three weeks' moratorium decreed by the privy council on April 22 to stem the run on banks throughout the country, ended today. The banks resumed payments and no runs were reported.

It is the general belief that the financial crisis has passed, although withdrawals from small banks may continue.

$210,000 New Record For Seat on Exchange

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Value of New York Stock Exchange membership soared to further record levels today, officials announcing arrangements had been made for the sale of a seat at $210,000, which exceeds the recent high mark by $10,000. The purchaser's identity will be made public next Thursday.

WEATHER HOLDS UP FLIGHT FOR FRANCE; RACE MORE LIKELY

Sunday Earliest Day of Start, but Airmen May Be Delayed Longer.

LINDBERGH WILL FLY QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE

Search of the Northern Wilds for Nungesser and Coli Is Intensified.

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—The weather man raised a warning hand tonight and the American airmen waiting to hop off on a race to Paris for fame and fortune heeded his signal.

Hangar doors were closed and the contest for the $25,000 Orteig prize was definitely postponed until Sunday morning anyhow, and probably until later next week.

"A couple of days ago it looked as though it might be going to clear," said James A. Scarr, of the weather bureau, "but now it's getting worse all the time. It would be foolish to expect a turn for the better over the week-end."

So Clarence Chamberlin and Lloyd Bertaud announced that their Bellanca monoplane Columbia would not start over the ocean in the morning, as had been their hope. Capt. Charles Lindbergh had previously stated that his Ryan monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, would not be taken from its hangar until the weather man gave the "all clear" signal.

America Not Yet Ready.

The Fokker monoplane, America, in which Commander Richard E. Byrd will attempt the crossing, has not yet completed its factory tests. He had not intended to leave for several days so he was not affected one way or the other by the weather report.

Scarr's prediction concerning several days of stormy weather increased the likelihood, however, that when clearing does come the American flight may be a three-cornered race with each of the three monoplanes striving for first place.

As Byrd, however, is not "in the money," not having entered his plane for the Orteig prize, and as he has said that his flight is to be purely for science, he may be content to let the others go ahead.

The weather report late today was the most unfavorable of the week. Scarr pointed out that he only furnished the facts and the fliers made their own decisions, but he expressed the hope that they would not leave until good conditions were indicated.

Squalls Growing Worse.

"The squally condition is growing worse instead of better," he said, "and extends beyond mid-Atlantic. Of course you know the old saying that fools rush in where angels fear to tread. Well, some one might go ahead and come out all right. But it seems to me the contest has cost enough in human life already without adding to it unnecessarily."

He said he would give the fliers a special report at 11 o'clock tonight but that there was no possibility that it would show favorable conditions. Later the fliers themselves cancelled their request for this special report.

The fliers were quick to make their decision on postponement as soon as they had seen Scarr's late afternoon report. They were content to wait, they said, until everything was right.

"But as soon as the weather report shows conditions good," Lindbergh said, "I'll be gone and I don't care what hour of the day or night it is either."

The Long Island flying fields were crowded today with spectators anxious to view the three planes on the ground and watch them in the air. The Fokker and the Chamberlin-Bertaud Bellanca were put through tests in the air in preparation for their flight. Lindbergh's Ryan was thoroughly gone over in its hangar by mechanics working under supervision of the young air mail pilot and was pronounced ready to hop off as soon as weather permits.

No Trace of Frenchmen.

While the three American planes waited for a propitious moment to hop off for Paris, searches continued for the two Frenchmen who had tried the flight in the other direction and failed. But the search was unavailing and no word was received to indicate whether Capts. Nungesser and Coli died when their "White Bird" came down out of the air or whether they are alive in some Northern wilderness.

Coast guard boats pursued their search in American coastal waters, the maritime provinces of Canada lent all their resources to the hunt, ocean liners scanned the seas and radio cracked its calls through the air, all with no result.

The only chance that the missing aviators have survived still seemed to lie in the hope that the White Bird had come down somewhere in Newfoundland and that the airmen have not yet been able to communicate with the outside world.

The theory has been bolstered by the reports of numerous persons of a droning plane that passed over Newfoundland at a time when Nungesser and

REBATING IN SECRET CHARGED IN CUTTING OF GASOLINE PRICES

Penn Company President Accuses Standard Oil of the Practice.

WILL MEET CHALLENGE OPENLY, HE DECLARES

Reduction of 2 Cents Brings Gas to 17 Cents a Gallon; Motorists to Pay.

There is no gas war on in Washington—it's just a grand little party. And like all parties, somebody is going to have to pay for it when it is over, and that somebody is going to be the Washington motorist, who is enjoying the merry dance at present.

So spoke Robert Worthington, owner of the Columbia Oil Co., one of the firms which has become involved in the price war between the Standard Oil Co. and the Penn Oil Co. which began Monday. "You know as well as I do that if you throw a party tonight you will have to pay for it," Mr. Worthington said. "Just at present the public is in on the party, but later it will have to pay."

A reduction of 2 cents a gallon brought the service station price of gasoline to an even level of 17 cents yesterday. Paul Himmelfarb, president of the Penn Oil Co., declared last night that further reductions are possible.

Secret Cutting Charged.

"The Standard Oil Co. today offered to rebate to one of my customers, making the price below the usual one. If they continue to do that, I will drop my price again and openly give everybody the benefit of the price they are quoting secretly," he declared last night. He said that the little dealer is the sufferer in the price war, because the tank wagon price has not been reduced and the retail price has been cut to within a cent of the tank wagon price, "unless they are given a price below the standard tank wagon price."

The Texas and the Tidewater companies refused to lower their tank wagon price yesterday to meet the new reduction. They do not have service stations and sell only at wholesale. In the meantime, Washington motorists are having their gasoline served at a price not equaled since the war.

Barry Mohun, national commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, last night addressed 250 Scouts composing the thirteen troops of the second division, at a scout rally in the gymnasium of the Boys club, Third and C streets northwest. The following troops and scoutmasters participated: Troop, 2, A. W. Davis, scoutmaster; Troop 16, G. O. Woodhouse; Troop 19, F. F. Foster; Troop 45, W. S. Warren; Troop 48, Edward Chaney; Troop 56, Kenneth Foote; Troop 59, Raymond Nott; Troop 60, Howard Chamberlin; Troop 63, U. S. Lyons; Troop 68, Alex Jardin; Troop 85, L. M. Pace; Troop 93, Eugene Dwyer; Troop 200, W. R. Ren, and Upper Marlboro Troop, Dr. J. C. Shrewsbury. Capt. J. J. Staley, U. S. M. C., is deputy commissioner in charge of the division. Last night's program was arranged by Scoutmaster Woodhouse.

Play to Aid Veterans, War Mothers Told

Funds for continuance of relief work among war veterans in local hospitals will be raised by a benefit performance of "Pollyanna" by the National Players, June 14 at the National theater, Mrs. E. C. Wagner, president of the American War Mothers club of Washington, announced last night at a meeting of the club in the Hamilton hotel.

The club last night voted that $25 be sent to the Red Cross for relief of the flood sufferers. Mrs. M. C. O'Neill, national custodian of records, reported the carnation sale May 7 a success, and reports were made of visits to Mont Alto, St. Elizabeths and Walter Reed hospitals during the month. The club appropriated funds to aid in the G. A. R. exercises at Arlington cemetery Memorial day. Visitors included Mrs. H. Fred Pierce, a war mother, of Stanstead, Canada.

Knights' Debaters Win Noonan Prizes

Orators of the Knights of Columbus evening school convinced judges last night that the District should have a representative form of government, supporters of the affirmative side of the argument winning all three prizes in the first annual debate in the John J. Noonan annual public discussion contest in the school last night.

John Fitzpatrick and Emmett Jones tied for first place and Frederick Roy was awarded third prize in the speaking contest. All of them supported the representative form of government for the District. Judges were Charles W. Day, the Rev. Francis X. Cavanaugh and Frederick J. de Sloovere, of Georgetown university.

Pupils Acknowledge Gift of Playground

Pupils of the Hyattsville elementary school yesterday acknowledged the gift of a 12-acre tract by William P. Magruder for use as a playground.

The pupils, led by Mrs. Hontas M. Sturgis, principal of the school, marched in a body to the home of Mr. Magruder, sang songs and thanked him for the gift. Dr. H. T. Willis, mayor of Hyattsville, and Robert C. Gallagher, chief of police, addressed the children. Mr. Magruder thanked the children for their visit.

CENTENNIAL OF NEGRO JOURNALISM NOTED HERE

Colored Members of Fourth Estate of District Give Entertainment.

GREETINGS ARE RECEIVED

Observance of the centennial of negro journalism in America was held last night at the Musolit club under auspices of the colored members of the Fourth Estate in the District of Columbia. The program included a news reel, and issuance of the Musolit Mirror containing the news of the hour between 10 and 11 o'clock of Friday, the thirteenth.

Participating in the observance were Ernest H. Daniel, Avery C. Marks, jr., William Moore, and Dan O'Connell of The Times, Willis Thornton, of the News, and Aubrey E. Taylor, of The Post.

Carl J. Murphy, of the Baltimore Afro-American, represented the negro press. Mortimer M. Harris, president of the club, presided, introducing Perry W. Howard as master of ceremonies, and Robert J. Nelson as managing editor of the Mirror.

The Pen and Pencil club, from which the Musolit grew, was subject of reminiscences by Lafayette M. Hershaw. Robert A. Pelham, of the census office, presented statistics concerning the negro press. A decided hit was a paraphrase of the appeal of Cassius to Brutus to oppose Caesar by Edward B. Saunders. Charles E. Hall, as Herbert Hoover, represented the modern Brutus, and Saunders, as Will Hays, the modern Cassius, who sought to have his Brutus oppose "the modern Caesar" for a third term in office.

Willis Thornton cited misunderstandings which cause interracial trouble, and bespoke a broader and deeper understanding between men of the press. O'Connell advised his hearers to give editors of newspapers their confidence with the assurance that they were worthy. Avery Marks termed the modern newspaper a constructive force, and urged support of papers of every description.

John H. Wilson, attorney in the Jackson case, thanked city editors present for the dispassionate and nonhysterical manner in which this case had been handled by them. Other speakers were Dr. George H. Richardson, Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Ralph W. Matthews, W. N. Jones and Mortimer M. Harris. The news reel covered phases of the Little theater presentations.

Most interesting was the facsimile reproduction of the Freedom's Journal, edited by John Russwurm, an American negro, in New York, in 1827 and for several years following. A telegram was received from J. Finley Wilson, local colored editor, and grand exalted ruler of the colored Elks, conveying felicitations.

3,000 PUT TO DEATH BY CHINESE BANDITS

put all to death by the sword. Finally the bandits broke the defenses, setting the village afire after looting it, and then began their systematic massacre.

A belated report reached the provincial capital, Tsinanfu, from where troops have been dispatched, who are reported to be pursuing the bandits into the mountains. All foreigners previously had evacuated the town on consular orders, except German Catholic priests, the fate of whom is not reported. Incidental with China's widespread warfare, banditry is rife in many other regions.

TWO-MAN RAID SQUAD BROKEN BY SHAKE-UP

Hesse Makes Shifts in Police Precincts to Take Effect on Monday.

TWO ARRESTED AS CLIMAX

The police department's most famous two-man raiding squad of precinct detectives, Howard Ogle and William F. Burke, of the Fourth precinct, conducted its last raid early last night. Burke and Ogle have made more than 300 liquor raids in Southwest Washington since their assignment to the liquor squad of the Fourth precinct more than two years ago. The breaking up of this raiding team came as a result of a minor shake-up in the police department, which yesterday resulted in orders being issued for the transfer of fifteen police privates. The transfers, which will be effective Monday, are as follows:

William F. Burke, prohibition enforcement officer in the Fourth precinct, was relegated to duty as foot patrolman in the Sixth. William S. Brown, precinct detective, Twelfth precinct, was sent to the Fifth as foot patrolman. His place will be taken by Arthur T. Fihelly, First precinct. The other transfers are as follows:

Edward D. Healy, Twelfth precinct, patrol signal to foot patrol service, exchanging places with James H. Murphy; Anthony W. Sannella, bicycle to foot patrol; Albert I. Bullock, clerical to bicycle duty, and Charles R. Blick, foot patrol to clerk, both in the Third precinct; Samuel F. Smith, Tenth to First precinct; Joseph H. Dellinger, Sixth to Fourteenth; Johan G. Middleton, Fourteenth to Fourth; James W. Peters, Tenth to Fourteenth; Hugh F. Cornwell, Fourteenth to Tenth; Edward M. Jett, front doorman, Sixth precinct, to foot duty in the Eleventh; W. N. Kellum, Fifth precinct to Twelfth precinct.

As a parting shot to their endeavors to clean up Southwest Washington, Ogle and Burke last night conducted raids on the premises at 334 Armory street southwest and at 125 F street southwest. At the former address 24 gallons of alleged corn whisky was confiscated, while at the F street address 11 gallons of alleged whisky was seized.

William Penn, colored, 34 years old, and Lillian Henry, 31 years old, were arrested by the detectives. Both were charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquors. Penn lives at the Armory street address and the woman at the F street address.

LOCATION OF SCHOOL ARGUED AT HEARING

Dispute on Site of Brightwood High Carried to Commissioners.

The dispute among groups of citizens concerning the location of the proposed Brightwood Junior High school was carried to a hearing before the commissioners yesterday. No decision was reached.

Ernest H. Pullman, persident of the Manor Park Citizens association, headed a delegation of Manor Park and Takoma Park residents who urged purchase of the Heine tract and location of the school thereon, between Third, Fifth, Sheridan and Underwood streets northwest.

Charles W. Ray, president, and William McK. Clayton, of the Brightwood Citizens association, headed a group from Brightwood and Sixteenth Street Highlands, protesting that the Heine tract would be too far for their children to go and arguing that a Brightwood school ought to be in Brightwood. They urged a site north of Concord street, between Eighth and Ninth streets.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, said he had no personal inclination toward either site, but that the school-building program contemplated two junior high schools in the north center of the District, and that if that idea were to be adhered to the Concord street location would be more appropriate in that it would leave an area in which the second school could be centrally located.

New Cooledge Baby Christened Calvin

Atlanta, May 13 (By A. P.).—The arrival of a third cousin of President Coolidge became known here today with the announcement of the birth of a son last Tuesday to the wife of Fred J. Cooledge, local paint dealer, who is the President's second cousin. The child, who weighs 9 pounds 14 ounces, has been christened Calvin.

The fathers of the nation's chief executive and the Atlantan were brothers, both born in Plymouth, Mass. The difference in spelling of their names originated years ago when a printer misspelled Cooledge's father's name in a letterhead. The family subsequently adopted the "e" instead of the "i." Mrs. Cooledge is the former Miss Floyd Matthews, of Atlanta.

Wan to Celebrate Year of Freedom

Ziang Sun Wan, the Chinese student who once was within three days of being hanged, will celebrate the first anniversary of his release from the District jail today.

In the year he has been out, Wan has established a candy business, incorporated it at $25,000, and is now on the road to wealth. When he was released, he not only was "broke" but was heavily in debt. A year ago Wan was exonerated of all blame for the Chinese triple murder of 1919, a crime for which he had spent seven years in jail.

Oakes, 42, of Orange, Va., and Mrs. Mollie E. Jett, 30, of Spotsylvania county, Va., and John A. Hellman, 24, of Hyattsville, Md., and Miss Birdie O. Cline, 30, of Washington.

8 Continents Represented In 20 Rare Zoo Specimens

Snow Leopard Cub, Only One in U. S.; Andean Condor, Largest of Winged Birds, and Most Intelligent Monkeys Received.

The eight continents of the globe are represented in a collection of 20 unusually rare animals, birds and reptiles, together with a handful of newly-hatched birds, just arrived at the zoo.

Not only that, but the new arrivals hail from the most far-flung reaches of latitude and longitude, and the greatest range of altitude. For so small a number the collectoin is well representative of the earth.

The rarity of the specimens, however, is the most outstanding feature of the collection. And in this respect first prize goes to a snow leopard cub, 10 months old, a denizen of the Himalaya mountains of northern India, and the only citizen of its tribe now residing in the United States. The zoo now has black, white and spotted leopards.

Another valuable addition is an Andean condor, largest of winged birds. Three antellus monkeys were received, the most intelligent of the monkey family. Another arrival is a red, tufted-eared Indian caracal, one of the rarest of cats. The specimen is said to be the finest in America.

Others in the collection are a northern fisher from Manitoba, of reddish-brown color, and one of the finest fur-bearing animals; a pair of breeding zebra; three baby mouflon, or rare Sardinian sheep, from Egypt; four pandas, or cat bears, from India, also inhabitants of the Himalayas; a matamata turtle from Brazil, which will take the prize for the ugliest of creatures, and a rare Blanding's turtle from Missouri.

Then a baby pelican, one of the few ever hatched in captivity, has just arrived, absolutely without any clothes whatever, for he hasn't a sign of a feather, and a brood of rare Australian silver gulls have broken their shells.

of all materials and supplies, duty free, through Panama territory, when intended for use on the Canal Zone.

This right, it was explained at the White House yesterday, was established by John Hay when he was Secretary of State. The provision was agreed to at that time because originally the United States had no port of entry except in Panama. Since then, ports of entry have been established at both Cristobal and Balboa, so that many importations do not go through Panama.

So far as the sale of supplies in zone commissaries is concerned, White House officials said that the treaties between this country and Panama had always provided that the United States should have complete jurisdiction over all matters within the zone, and that the conduct of the commissaries was one over which no other government could assume the least control.

Letter Sent to Coolidge.

Placed before American business men appointed by President Coolidge as delegates on the part of the United States to the Pan-American commercial conference, the charges made by the Panamans were viewed to be so important that, after becoming acquainted with the Panaman version, a letter was drafted and forward to the President, signed by the following:

Roy D. Chapin, president, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Madison avenue and Forty-sixth street, New York; Gano Dunn, president, J. G. White Engineering Corporation, 45 Exchange place, New York; F. Abbot Goodhue, International Acceptance Bank, 52 Cedar street, New York city; John L. Merrill, All America Cables, president, 89 Broad street, New York city, also president, Pan-American society; Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board, American Exchange Irving Trust Co., New York city; vice president, United States Chamber of Commerce; Franklin Remington, chairman of the board, the Foundation Co., 120 Liberty street, New York city; Frank D. Waterman, president and treasurer, L. E. Waterman Co., 191 Broadway, New York city; Daniel G. Wing, chairman of the board, First National Bank of Boston, and Matthew Woll, vice president, American Federation of Labor.

Aside from being President of the Panama Association of Commerce, George D. Arias is proprietor of one of the largest mercantile establishments in Panama, a commercial house that has 50 years' achievement behind it, and one that is known as the strongest institution of its kind in the republic. In the face of present-day conditions, it is ready to bow to the inevitable and go out of business, according to the statement made yesterday.

Changes Categorically Stated.

In categorical order the charges which have been brought to the attention of the President of the United States are:

First—Because of certain incongruities and irregularities that would never have been countenanced by the late President Roosevelt, under whose administration commissaries were opened in the Canal Zone, to take care only of clerks and employes of the Panama railroad, unfair competition has been set up by the United States government against the merchantmen of Panama.

Second—In violation of article 13 of the Hay-Banau-Varilla treaty an injustice is being done commercial interests in the republic of Panama. The merchants there are unable to compete with stores operated by the American government, as owner of the Panama railroad; stores that purchase their goods at approximately 40 per cent less than the merchants of Panama pay for the same merchandise. Further, the American government imports its goods without duty costs, enjoys the advantage of much lower freight rates than those charged Panamans and generally, all round, undersells its competitors who, under a grant made by the republic of Panama to the American government, should not be competitors.

Third, it is alleged by President Arias that the necessaries of life, and only these necessaries, should be sold in American commissaries; whereas, under the present-day arrangement, anything from a pin to a diamond may be bought in these stores. As a matter of fact, he states, "the only thing you can not buy in the commissaries is liquor, and this only because America is a prohibition country. Were it not for the sales of spirituous liquors in Panama, and the imports secured from these, the Panama government would be in dire straits.

Commissaries Now Octopuses.

Fourth, the commissaries of the Canal Zone, set up to take care of the primary needs of workmen employed by the United States government in the construction and maintenance of the canal, have now grown to such proportions that they are not only octopuses about to devour the neighboring merchants of Panama, but are department stores the equal of some in New York city, Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Fifth, the commissaries operate in contradiction to the spirit of America in that they not only tread upon the rights of Panama merchants but, likewise, step on the toes of fellow American citizens, especially the farmers of this country and workers in the industrial fields. It is charged that, aside from other activities, conceded to be detrimental to the peaceful relations now existing between the Panaman and American governments, the commissaries in the Canal Zone unlawfully import provisions from Australia and other foreign nations in direct competition with American interests.

So serious are the charges made by President Arias, of the Panama Association of Commerce, the the American delegates to the inter-American commercial conference, appointed by the Pan-American union, passed a resolution recommending the appointment of a commission to investigate the foregoing charges.

Commission Is Proposed.

William M. Benny, manager of the trade department of the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States, elected secretary to the committee which recommends the appointment of a commission, in his minutes outlines this plan: The appointment of "a joint commission consisting of three representatives for each government, to be selected, respectively, from the shipping and mercantile interests and the legal profession for the purpose of making a joint study in the City of Panama" of charges made by the delegates to the inter-American commercial conference. These men assert that "one of the principal economic reasons why Panama desired its independence from Colombia was that it expected to augment its commerce and specially to supply the vessels that would make use of the canal in voyaging from one ocean to the other. When the canal was completed, however, local commerce suffered another bitter disappointment—and today is about to vanish campletely from the face of the earth because of unfair business methods sponsored and sanctioned by the American government."

"I have been given to understand," states Mr. Arias, who left Washington yesterday on a tour of the United States, as a guest of the American government, "that the operation of the Panama canal is considered of more importance than all the commerce of this country, but this hardly squares with the sentiments of Theodore Roosevelt, that far-sighted and energetic statesman, without whom there probably would be no canal today, who told Gen. Davis, the first governor of the Canal Zone, that he wanted to disturb the business of Panama as little as possible. I doubt that the American people have a burning ambition to exterminate the commerce of our city. If the facts are laid before their representatives, I believe they will readily agree that the activities of the commissaries can be restricted without, at the same time, causing injury to the Panama canal or to the railroad or to any of the auxiliary works."

The smallest republic in the world, next to Haiti, Panama has a population of only half a million people—the population of Washington, D. C. There are employed by the American government, on the railway and canal, 2,197 Americans, and 4,375 foreigners. The population of the Canal Zone, at present, is 27,692—and the business done by the Panama canal in any one month approximates $2,500,000 profit to the American government.

It is charged that a promiscuous use of privileges given by the commissaries in the Canal Zone, an abuse that permits of every Tom, Dick and Harry making purchases of articles far below their retail price, is putting the business of Panama on the rocks.

Similar Charges Made Before.

In the office of the Panama canal, in the munitions building, no knowledge whatsoever was possessed of current charges leveled against the commissaries. It was pointed out, however, that various chambers of commerce throughout the country, notably the New York and San Francisco chambers, have taken action on similar charges at various times during the past few years and that on one occasion, answering the president of the New York Chamber, M. L. Walker, governor of the Canal zone, furnished a copy of his letter to the United States Chamber of Commerce, excerpts of which follow:

"For years past, and even in the two years—June, 1924, to date, July 29, 1926—since the abrogation of the so-called Taft agreement, the operation of our commissaries has been so controlled as to give the merchants of Panama, in my opinion, greater protection than would be offered by your proposals.

"Sales from our commissaries are limited to sales of supplies to ships transiting the canal and to persons in government employ, including employes of the Panama railroad. In addition there are a few persons having contractural relations with the Panama canal, whose contracts carry the right to purchase in our commissaries.

No Business Done in Cash.

"Our commissaries do no business for cash, but we use coupon books, similar to railroad mileage books. American citizens who are in the classes who are permitted to purchase from our commissaries are permitted to purchase these books for cash and no limit is set as there has not appeared to be any necessity therefor. Alien employes can only secure these books by having them issued and charged on the pay rolls, and hence they cannot exceed their monthly wages.

"The Panama government is permitted to maintain in our commissaries an official who can observe the business being done therein for the information of his government.

"The administration of the canal makes every effort to prevent sales to unauthorized persons and it is quite certain that these efforts are successful. We are desirous of protecting the merchants of Panama as far as is consistent with supplying the needs of government employes, and this desire is realized.

"At no time have the commissaries been thrown open to the general public, nor has there ever been any intention of so doing.

"Our commissary policy is to deal in goods produced locally or in the United States. Our foreign purchases, which run about 7 per cent of our totals, are articles which are not produced in the United States, or of a special quality which is not there produced, and are merely such as are imported by any good business concern in the United States."

Preference Given to U. S. Products.

In a later letter, dated April 12, 1927, Gov. Walker states:

"No change has been made during recent years in the policy of operating the commissary division. Preference is and always has been given to handling American products. Merchants in Panama, of course, buy their goods in the lowest market. A number of canal employes live in Panama territory and have the right to purchase goods in the commissaries and take them into Panama territory without the payment of duty. The republic of Panama has in recent years increased its import duties on a number of articles, for example, sugar, rice, and soap. This has resulted, of course, in increased cost of these articels in the republic. Employes living in Panama are, therefore, purchasing these articels in the commissaries even though it would be more convenient for them to purchase in Panama

"There is no doubt that some smuggling is being done and always will be done while conditions are such that a large price differential obtains between prices in the commissaries and in the stores in Panama."

Gov. Walker points out that, "to prevent and restrict unauthorized purchases, disciplinary action is administered in all cases where employes are found to have violated regulations."

BRIGHTWOOD DENOUNCES TELEPHONE COMPROMISE

Victory for Company, With War-Time Valuation Maintained, Citizens Told.

SMALL RATE CUT CITED

Deploring the "complete surrender" of the public utilities commission in compromising the rate valuation case with the Cheaspeake & Potomac Telephone Co., the Brightwood Citizens association last night unanimously adopted a resolution protesting the action of the commission.

"The compromise is a complete victory for the telephone company," said William McK. Clayton, who introduced the resolution.

"The two-year contract the commission has made with the telephone company in which telephone rates will remain virtually unchanged; with the valuation of the telephone company's property undetermined, is subject matter of severe criticism," Clayton stated.

He pointed out that several months ago the utilities commission argued before the Supreme court of the District that the telephone subscribers were losing approximately $600,000 annually by being overcharged by the telephone company.

By the compromise with the commission, Clayton said, the telephone company will now reduce its charges less than $90,000 a year. The reduction will be confined largely to one class of subscribers, he stated, and the company will be allowed to maintain its values established during the war.

The commission also promised in the compromise, Clayton declared, not to request to telephone company to reduce its rates for the next two years.

The telephone company is saving approximately $100,000 annually by the discontinuance of its radio broadcasting operations, Clayton said. This will more than cover the loss which it will sustain as a result of the compromise with the commission, he pointed out.

"The utilities commission was recently authorized by Congress with ample power to protect and safeguard the interests of the people of the District, and the people should demand that they do so," Clayton said.

The attitude of the utilities commission regarding one-man street cars also was criticized in a resolution adopted by the association. A letter from the commission warning the citizens that unless the traction companies were allowed to replace a number of their two-man cars with one-man cars, they probably would ask for an increased fare, and that the commission felt the increase should be granted was read before the resolution was adopted.

court without any valuation of the company's property being fixed.

"The present case will be entered as discontinued.

"4. An appropriate order will be made by the commission continuing the reduced rates for a period of two years from June 1, 1927, and thereafter until further notice by the commission.

"5. The refund to subscribers will be handled by an appropriate order of the commission."

The compromise was reached at a conference attended by A. E. Berry, president; W. B. Clarkson, general commercial manager, and Dozier A. Devane, general counsel for the company; Commissioners John W. Childress and Harrison Brand, Maj. W. E. R. Covell, representing Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell; Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, and Earl V. Fisher, secretary of the commission.

Following the conference President Berry gave out the following statement:

"The settlement was proposed to the commission in general line with the policy of the company. It may mean that the earnings of the company will be somewhat less than the company is entitled to earn, but the settlement will dispose of a controversy that might be expensive and long drawn out. It will give the company a clean slate with the commission. To be brief, the settlement is just good business so far as the company is concerned, and I hope the company's patrons will be pleased."

45 TYPES OF CELLS ARE IN HUMAN BODY

All Exist in Different Arrangements, Pathologists' Convention Is Told.

The human body is a composite of 45 different types of cells existing in different arrangements, Dr. William Carpenter MacCarty, of Rochester, Minn., declared at the sixth annual convention of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists yesterday at the Willard hotel.

In a paper entitled "A key to the Diagnosis of Neoplasmata," Dr. MacCarty asserted that it is possible to diagnose malignant cells. Then, to forestall possible criticism, he declared that no man could properly form an opinion on this point until he had had some contact with the methods he had set forth. He presented methods for the determination of malignant cells. Dr. MacCarty, however, is attempting to work out a more definite method. Any determination of disease by the examination of a single cell, it was declared, would require great skill and experience.

The convention opened yesterday and will close tomorrow. Officers will be elected today. Sessions were held yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon. Other papers last night were by Dr. B. T. Terry, Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Robert A. Keilty, Danville, Pa.; Dr. A. S. Giodano, South Bend, Ind., and Dr. Russell Richardson, Philadelphia.

Gonzaga Boys Debate Debt Cancellation

Clarence Springman was voted the best speaker and the affirmative side was awarded the decision in the annual debate of the Phocion Debating society of Gonzaga College High school, held last night in the school auditorium. The question was, "Resolver, That the United States should not cancel or further reduce the allied war debt."

The winning side was composed of Lawrence McHugh, James Flaherty and J. Carlisle Ruddy. Springman, James Kane and Paul Kelly upheld the negative side. The judges were J. Burke Walsh, Leo Walsh and Leslie Duffy.

NEW BOMBER-COMBAT PLANE TESTED HERE

Combination Ship Capable of 130-Mile Speed With Crew and Load.

The new Martin bombing plane, capable of lifting a heavy load of bombs and still acting as a combat ship, has arrived at the naval air station at Anacostia from Cleveland and was given a demonstration yesterday, with Lieut. S. W. Callaway as pilot. Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett and other officials of the bureau of aeronautics witnessed the performance and were apparently satisfied. The plane made its first trip in Cleveland two weeks ago.

The ship, a biplane, developed by Glenn L. Martin, Cleveland, has a 525-horsepower air-cooled engine and can carry a full military load, including either a 2,000-pound torpedo or bomb of the same weight, with crew, fuel and armament, the total weight being 7,200 pounds, or 2,000 pounds lighter than the present torpedo and bombing plane. Its speed is 130 miles an hour and it can cruise nine hours on one load of fuel.

The framework is of metal, covered with fabric, and the bomber's cockpit is in front, immediately behind the engine, the pilot being seated behind the bomber, with the machine gunner a few feet back on the fuselage. The ship carries three men as a bomber or five on scouting work. Its wing spread is 53 feet and its length 37 feet.

BELLANCA FLIERS' WIVES NOT WORRIED BY PERILS OF TRIP

Put Trust in Husbands' Skill; Lindbergh Surprised by Aid From Rivals.

WESTERN PILOT STIRS ADMIRATION ON FIELD

Bertaud's Mother Tells How He Tried to Reach Paris; Married in Plane.

New York, May 12 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Clarence D. Chamberlin, whose husband will pilot the Bellanca monoplane on the New York-Paris flight, and Mrs. Lloyd W. Bertaud, wife of the plane's navigator, have become accustomed to looking danger in the face.

Like the Bellanca birdmen, neither woman suffers any undue apprehension as the hour for the take-off of the Columbia in the race to Paris draws near.

"We are not at all fearful for the success of the flight," Mrs. Chamberlin said. "I have the utmost confidence in the Columbia and feel that she will arrive safely at the goal. Not long ago I went along on a test flight in the Columbia. I can visualize how she will wing her way across the Atlantic, her engines in perfect tune. Knowing what the plane can do and what can be expected in case of emergency, I am not worrying."

She lifted her head proudly and smiled.

"I have supreme faith in my husband's ability to pilot her through and in Lieut. Bertaud's skill as a navigator. There is nothing to fear, nothing at all."

Sportsmanship Is Shown.

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Good sportsmanship and friendly feeling exists between the rival camps of Chamberlin and Bertaud and the youthful Capt. Lindbergh for the honors of making the first nonstop flight to Paris.

"Are you carrying a radio?" Bertaud asked.

"No, but I might," Lindbergh answered.

"We've got one at the hangar that we are not going to use," Bertaud said. "It is all ready, with a kite to carry an aerial, and you can install it without losing a minute's time."

"What's the matter with it?" Lindbergh said, laughing goodnaturedly.

"Nothing," Bertaud said. "We were going to use it ourselves, but we got a bigger one. It's a good radio. You're welcome to it if you want it."

"Thanks," Lindbergh said. "I may ask for it."

"And anything else we have that we can spare you can have," Bertaud added.

Lindbergh was impressed by the sportsmanship of his rivals.

Lindbergh a Revelation.

Slightly shy, Lindbergh countered the questions of many reporters with answers that were often half joking and noncommittal, but in keeping with the spirit of accomplishment behind the amazing flights which brought him here last night in two hops across the continent.

Stepping out of his plane, this pink-cheeked, blue-eyed youth caused the first gasp of amazement. The second came at his natty appearance. His white collar and flying uniform were unspotted by a single mark of work. The third surprise came when his plane was wheeled into a hangar. He examined the place quickly and asked:

"Aren't there any lights in this hangar?"

"Oh, no."

"Well, I'd like one with lights, if you have it. I intend to work on the plane most of tonight."

A smiling remark, made in the face of the threat which north Atlantic weather holds for airmen, was:

"The weather doesn't mean everything to me. If it is not absolutely terrible, I will fly when I get ready."

While Lindbergh stood beside Clarence Chamberlin, of the rival Bellanca, and some one exclaimed, "May the best man win!" Lindbergh smiled at Chamberlin with:

"I guess that goes both ways."

An airman who hopes to go from New York to France in one dash some time spoke for his fellow fliers when he gave his characterization of Lindbergh in these words:

"He's hot stuff."

Bertaud Natural Flier.

San Francisco, May 13 (By A. P.).—Lloyd Bertaud who, with Clarence Chamberlain, plans to fly the Bellanca monoplane to Paris, is making his second attempt to see Paris, it was revealed here today by the flyer's mother, Mrs. Florence Bertaud Callaghan.

Incidentally Bertaud was born in Alameda county, California, attended school in San Francisco, but did not care "a rap" for studying, according to his mother.

"He was born to be an aviator," Mrs. Callaghan declared. "He has been almost insane over aviation since he was 9 years old. In 1921, unknown to me, he took flying lessons here from Silas Christofferson."

Mrs. Callaghan laughed as she told of her son's previous attempts to get to Paris:

"Before Lloyd was 21 he wanted to enlist in the French army and fly in the world war. But I refused to give my consent, telling him to wait until America entered.

"He enlisted in the American forces and received his lieutenant's commission at Cornell, and was an instructor in Texas for some time. Suddenly orders came for overseas, but when the ship was eleven days out dynamite was discovered in the coal and it headed back for New York. Again Lloyd went to Texas and again started for France. But the armistice stopped that trip.

"After the war Lloyd was an air mail flyer from Cleveland to New York," Mrs. Callaghan continued. "Why, he even married in an airplane four years ago in the East. The flying parson, the Rev. Mr. Maynard, officiated."

Injection of Water Cures Many Diseases

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Fifteen to 75 drops of distilled water injected in the vein of a patient is efficacious in treatment of asthma, hay fever, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism and other diseases, the Homeopathic Medical Society of the County of New York was told in an address last night by Dr. William J. Schatz, director of the physio-therapy department of the Sacred Heart hospital at Allentown, Pa.

He asserted no discomfort is experienced following the injection of water and there is no intensification of symptoms. He said the treatment is entirely safe and far more rapid in action than the usual agencies used for injection in the treatment of disease.

WEATHER HOLDS UP AVIATORS IN THEIR OCEAN FLIGHT PLANS

Coli should have been flying there if they were on schedule.

The governor of St. Pierre announced today that he was sending a ship to search Placentia bay and nearby waters. It was believed quite possible that the Frenchmen might have been forced down by adverse weather conditions into some protected bay where they would be safe and would find natives to care for them, but where it would be impossible to notify the world of their arrival for days.

Foggy weather delayed the search in northern waters today, visibility being so poor that little hope was entertained of sighting the men or plane even though they might be passed close by.

The liner France, which is following Nungesser's course from France to America, reported to its office here that no sign of the missing men or any indication of their fate had been seen.

Cape Breton Reports.

St. Johns, N. F., May 13 (By A. P.). Another thread was added today to the thin string upon which may continue to hang their hope that Nungesser and Coli reached North America.

Two residents of Harbor Breton have forwarded reports of the passage of a mysterious airplane last Monday morning. Harbor Breton is 100 miles southwest of Harbor Grace, where half a dozen witnesses, independently, noted similar motor noises about the time the fliers may have arrived in the vicinity.

Although reports tonight from Harbor Grace indicated that hope was fading for the safety of Nungesser and Coli, the Newfoundland government planned to continue an energetic search for the airmen. Although the broken coastline and the vast unexplored stretches of interior Newfoundland presented terrific difficulties to success, reports that a plane had been heard over Harbor Grace on Monday morning gave direction, however vague, to the quest.

Los Angeles Returns.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 13 (By A. P.). The navy dirigible Los Angeles returned to the air station at 7 o'clock (Eastern daylight time) tonight from a fourteen-hour training cruise and search off the New England coast for the French aviators, Nungesser and Coli.

The search extended no farther north than Phelps bank, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl reported, because an intercepted radio message told of extreme low visibility north of that point.

"We covered about 600 nautical miles," he said, "and except for about an hour and a half, visibility was very good. If Nungesser's plane was anywhere in the vicinity we could, with the exception of that hour and a half, have sighted it at 10 miles in any direction.

"We started at daybreak and covered the coast from Point Pleasant, N. J., to Nantucket lightship. From there we searched northeasterly over Phelps bank and then northwesterly over Davis bank, where we encountered thick weather.

Hope of Paris Is Revived For Nungesser and Coli

Paris, May 13 (By A. P.).—The persistent reports from Newfoundland that the faint humming of an airplane motor was heard at several points there Monday has started a revival of French hopes that the transatlantic plane of Capt. Charles Nungesser may yet be found.

The feeling, largely as a result of these reports, is growing that the airmen may have landed somewhere in Labrador or northern Canada, far from communications. Dispatches indicating that the Canadian, Newfoundland and American governments are doing everything possible to trace the missing fliers have strengthened the hope that they will yet be found.

The revelation today of Dr. Corticchiato, a close friend of Capt. Nungesser, that the fliers carried rations sufficient for ten days, also has added to the hope that if the aviators landed far from human habitation, they will be able to sustain life until they can reach help.

President Coolidge's message to President Doumergue saying that the United States was doing everything humanly possible to find the missing men and the obviously painstaking searches which are being carried on by the North American authorities have done much to clear away the last smolderings of anti-American resentment which was manifested in some quarters on Monday and Tuesday.

"I see Nungesser and Coli wounded, but alive," said the clairvoyante, Francia, who broadcast from the Eiffel tower today to thousands of radio fans. The clairvoyante added that she was unable to designate the spot where they landed.

Great Variation Is Seen In Three Rival Airplanes

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Considerable variation exists in design, size and equipment in the three planes now poised on Long Island flying fields for proposed nonstop flights to Paris.

About the only points of similarity among the Bellanca entry, Columbia, the Ryan plane, Spirit of St. Louis, and the Fokker, America, are that all are monoplanes and are equipped with Wright Whirlwind motors. The America has three of these while each of the others has only one.

The Fokker plane in which Commander Richard E. Byrd plans the crossing is by far the largest. It is of wood and cloth construction, 48 feet long, with a wing spread of 71 feet and will carry 1,300 gallons of gasoline. Its cabin has room for three persons as well as observation instruments, radio and reserve supplies. It caries a collapsible boat and other safety devices.

The "Columbia," in which Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin established a record for sustained flight and in which Chamberlin and Lloyd Bertaud expect to hop across the ocean, is the lightest of the three, weighing 7,850 pounds. It is 26 feet 6 inches long and has a wing spread of 46 feet 6 inches. It is a metal plane and its cabin is equipped to carry two, with a small observation compartment and room on the shell of the gas tank for one man to sleep. It is fitted with a radio set and a sextant and carries 322 gallons of gasoline.

The Ryan plane, "Spirit of St. Louis," in which Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh flew in record-breaking time across the continent, weighs 5,000 pounds and has a body of metal and wings of wood. It has a wing spread of 46 feet. It can carry 425 gallons of gasoline and 28 gallons of oil. Its cabin will hold only one man and Lindbergh plans to make the flight alone. It is equipped with a pneumatic raft in case of a forced descent at sea.

Franco Plans Spanish Around-World Flight

London, May 13 (By A. P.).—A dispatch from Madrid says Commander Ramon Franco has submitted to the cabinet a plan for a flight around the world in an airplane of all-Spanish construction.

Commander Franco, who last year flew from Palos, Spain, to Buenos Aires, plans to take two companions with him on the world flight.

sake let me know what it is all about.—Signed, Ray."

With this telegram, the prosecution read a money transfer order showing Raymond sent Miss Mackaye $200.

The other, sent from Stockton, Calif., April 13, 1927, read:

"Can not understand no answer to my wire. Closing Monterey Thursday. Arrive Los Angeles Friday. Please meet me Stanford theater, Palo Alto, today. Love. Ray."

Miss Mackaye asked to be excused a few minutes at mid-afternoon, saying she felt ill. Her face was blanched and she trembled. The court ordered the usual mid-afternoon recess.

She was still on the stand under defense questioning when Judge Burnell adjourned the court until Monday afternoon.

The State brought out that Kelly and Miss Mackaye exchanged almost daily telegrams or long distance telephone calls while she was playing at the Curran theater in San Francisco.

The defense put up strenuous objections to the introduction of the love letters and telegrams which resulted in a sharp tilt with the prosecution winning.

Smiles at the Letters.

Miss Mackaye quailed at identifying or reading the missive at first, but after the defense lost its battle to exclude them and after she had read one or two telegrams and seen them entered in evidence, she became more composed, often smiling amusedly at extracts of the letter from Kelly.

One letter read, in part:

"Darling Mine:

"Oh, I am so terribly in love with you—so terribly—I am miserable here without you—I love you—love you—love you.

"I though I would die last week; haven't a civil word for any one when they speak to me—was always thinking of you and dreaming of you—oh, God, it was awful.

"Your first letter nearly drove me crazy—almost drank myself to death.

"* * * Take good care of yourself, darling, for my sake as well as for your own. I want you.

"* * * Glad you got the roses. * * *

"Now you must have received my wire telling you I would wait. But, sweetheart, it is bad enough not seeing you without thinking I'll have to wait much longer than I thought. Don't make it long, dear."

"Really Love You So Much."

Another code paragraph was translated:

"I want you so much, my little wife. I love you so much, really I do.

"PAUL."

The letter was dated March 28 last. A telegram March 26 from Miss Mackaye to Kelly said:

"Letter received. Arrive Monday by motor. Expect visit. Crazy to get home. Our home love and everything goes with it."

This signature, "E. Mrs. K.," which was on other telegrams also, the actress testified meant "Elegant Mrs. Kelly."

Miss Mackaye admitted that she had heard Raymond order Kelly from their home. She denied that she heard Kelly tell Raymond the order was because he was in love with Mrs. Raymond.

Miss Mackaye at first was controlled, but under the rapid-fire questioning of Assistant Prosecutor George Kemp she fidgeted and groped for replies. During a brief let-up in the questioning she bit her lips and appeared ready to cry.

Miss Mackaye testified Kelly took her home from the theater, where she was playing every night while her car was laid up for repairs. She also said he visited her in her dressing room and that she received letters and telephone calls from him while she played in San Francisco.

Kelly Asked Him Why.

She testified her husband, in ordering Kelly to leave the Raymond home, said, "Paul, get out of my house."

"Did you hear Kelly ask why?" Kemp asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Did you hear Raymond say: 'Never mind, just get out of my house?'"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you hear Kelly say he would tell Raymond the reason and that it was because he was in love with his wife. You were there, were you not?"

"No, sir, not all the time. I went to apologize to the guests."

"Did you apologize to Kelly?"

"Yes, sir."

Miss Mackaye in reply to questions placed the date of agreeing to separate from her husband somewhat prior to two and a half months ago. She said when she returned to her home from the Kelly apartment after Kelly had fought with her husband she found her husband with a towel about his head, his eye black and his face swollen. She did not remember what time she got home. She said she remained there an hour and a half.

Insists on Maryland Marriage.

Miss Mackaye said today "there must be some mistake" when informed of dispatches from Maryland, that under the law of that State marriages could be performed only by ordained clergymen.

Miss Mackaye, who had declared she was married to Raymond, August 1, 1921, "Gretna Green" Maryland, by a justice of the peace, said: "I was there and that's all I know about it."

She added that the papers were burned in a fire at her New York city home in 1923.

Informed previously that there was no town named Gretna Green in Maryland, Miss Mackay declared she had been told that was the name of the place at which she was married and said she could not identify the town.

LONDON AND SOVIET SEEN NEAR A BREAK AS RESULT OF RAID

Atmosphere of Secrecy Being Maintained in Official Circles at London.

SEARCH OF BUILDINGS CONTINUED BY POLICE

Diplomatic Consequences Are Believed Inevitable as Result of Seizure.

London, May 13 (By A. P.).—Rupture of Anglo-soviet relations was admitted by both British and Russian officials here tonight as being nearer than at any other time since they were resumed on the basis of the trade agreement of 1921.

The present tension in relations between Great Britain and the soviet government has arisen from the raid yesterday by Scotland Yard detectives and uniformed police on the offices of Arcos, Ltd., soviet commercial agency in London. A protest against the raid was lodged this morning with Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, by A. P. Rosengoiz, soviet charge d'affaires.

Raiders from Scotland Yard still were in possession of Arcos house tonight and were continuing their search of the safes, vaults and voluminous records of Arcos, Ltd. An atmosphere of secrecy regarding the raid and its results continues to be preserved in government quarters. Some newspapers of antisoviet inclination make a sensation of the announcement that some rifles were found in the Arcos building.

Home Secretary Questioned.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secreary, made the following statement about the raid when Arthur Henderson, laborite, aske for information regarding it in the house of commons today.

"Information was placed before me on Wednesday evening by the police, upon which I authorized them to apply for a warrant to search the premises of the Arcos. The warrant was granted and entry was made yesterday. The search is now progressing. I am not able and shall not be able for a day or so to give any further information.

Later he promised to give parliament a full statement Monday.

The raid has largely displaced the trades union bill as a subject of contention in parliament. The opinion expressed in the lobbies is that it is bound to have political repercussions. The appearance of the home secretary in the house of commons today brought ironical cheers from the laborites, who assert that at one fell swoop diplomatic privileges and the rights of private property have been destroyed. But the bulk of parliamentary opinion seems to support the secretary's approval of the request of the police for a search warrant.

Pact Violation Charged.

The strong worded protest of M Rosengolz to Sir Austen Chamberlain charging flagrant violation of the Anglo-soviet trade agreement, assaulting of soviet employes by the police and searching of women by the Scotland Yard men, brought little more information from the foreign office than the home secretary gave out in commons.

It was merely stated that the raid was not an administrative measure—that is, the cabinet had nothing to do with its inception—but that the police evidently had sufficient evidence to ask for a search warrant in the ordinary course of their duties. With regard to M. Rosengolz's charges that women were searched and employes assaulted, it was stated that the foreign office lacks details of the raid, but is convinced that it was carried out in the best tradition of the British police.

Government officials insist that they do not know whether the police are trying to locate some source of the subversive propaganda which is said to be constantly spread over the country, or whether they are atempting to break up a nest of foreign spies. Regardless of the outcome of the search, serious consequences are seen as possible. If evidence is found. Great Britain may be forced to take some such action as the severance of relations, while if the search is fruitless, the soviet government may take action.

Raid Called Provocative.

The Associated Press was informed in soviet official quarters here today that the soviet belief is that the raid was largely a provocative action on the part of the British government which recently has been "more and more swayed by the die-hards, who have been fostering a campaign for breaking off relations with Russia."

Whether the Moscow government will dismiss the incident for the sake of continuing relations with great Britain remains to be seen.

The soviet officials maintain that there is nothing to be found in Arcos house but trade statistics and a mass of commercial correspondence. It is remarked in some British official quarters that the soviet representatives are preparing the alibi of "forged documents" for use in case of any damaging discoveries. M. Rosengolz's protest today pointed out that the raid was conducted, for the most part, without any soviet officials being present.

The foreign office denies M. Rosengolz's contention that the soviet trade agent enjoyed diplomatic immunity and privileges. It is stated that the trade agent has personal immunity, protecting him from arrest or personal search, but this immunity does not extend to his offices or property.

Gum Chewers in U. S. Kind, German Asserts

Des Moines, Iowa, May 12 (By A. P.).—To find friendly Americans, look for those who chew gum.

This is the advice to visiting foreigners voiced by Dr. Ruth Weiland, of Berlin, who has spent three weeks in this country. Every day of that period, says the head of the children's bureau of the German Red Cross, has been brightened by a gum-chewing Yankee.

"I met my first unkind American yesterday," Dr. Weiland remarked. "He was a street car conductor. If he had been chewing gum when I stopped his car on the wrong corner, I would have fared better."

Dr. Weiland is a speaker here before the national conference of social work.

"I can't afford marriage," Dr. Weiland declared. "Many professional women in Germany do not marry because they would immediately lose their jobs. Our law does not permit a married woman to hold a state or municipal position. This is due to the large amount of unemployment in my country."

Nearly a dozen countries are represented at the conference.

TWO SLAYERS END LIVES AT APPROACH OF POSSES

Senator Norbeck Guards a Bridge in Search for One of the Dakota Killers.

ONE SHOT DRY AGENTS

St. Paul, Minn., May 13 (By A. P.).—Two men who sought refuge behind barricades today, following shooting affrays last night in which three persons were killed, today shot and killed themselves as posses pressed them.

Nead Redfield, S. Dak., Walter Chrisman, alleged bootlegger, killed two officers seeking his arrest and then killed himself.

Sayles Hastings, 50-year-old farmer, shot a neighbor after an argument and then killed himself on his farm near Cleveland, N. Dak.

Chrisman had been sought since May 5 for wounding a prohibition enforcement agent investigating charges that he was a bootlegger. Receiving word that Chrisman was at his farm house near here, four officers went to arrest him. Two of the officers—Carl Bintliff, of Mitchell, Federal prohibition agent, and Charles Halpin, Aberdeen, deputy state sheriff—were shot down when they approached Chrisman's barn, the assailant fleeing.

Within three hours 400 men in posses were searching for Chrisman, who took refugee in a straw stack on the Dave Jones farm, about five miles from the Chrisman home. There he killed himself.

The victim of the shooting near Cleveland was W. F. Flint, whose eldest son was married to Hastings' eldest daughter. His son, Roy Flint, also was wounded in the chest. Hastings had quarreled with Flint, according to the former's son, Ronald, regarding possession of some horses. After shooting Flint, Hastings went to his own home, told members of his family of the shooting, and then went to the granary, where he killed himself as a posse of national guardsmen approached the building.

In the search for Chrisman, one of the first to join the posse was United States Senator Peter Norbeck, who lives in Redfield. He was set to watch a bridge.

Halpin, one of Chrisman's victims, was a former Notre Dame football player, and in the world war was twice cited for bravery in action. After the war he was in the Federal secret service for a time. He was 29 years old.

GRAY-SNYDER PLEAS AGAINST EXECUTION TO REQUIRE MONTHS

Condemned Couple, Taut and Silent, Hear Their Death Sentence in Court.

HOPLESSNESS AND GRIEF VISIBLE ON THEIR FACES

Removal to Sing Sing Delayed Until Monday So They Can Arrange Affairs.

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—Taut and silent, with never a glance for each other, Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and her erstwhile paramour, Henry Judd Gray, stood within arm's reach of each other today while they were told they must die in the electric chair at Sing Sing the week of June 20 for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor.

Gray heard the sentence, read from notes by Justice Townsend Scudder, without a tremor, and his eyes peered through heavy lenses directly at the judge. But Mrs. Snyder, her hands clasping and unclasping and one foot rocking on the heel of a slipper, bowed her head.

They stood a few feet apart, these former lovers, as they heard the State's voice demand their lives in forfeit for that of Albert Snyder, whom they slew as he slept. They had testified to a love that could not be restrained, and, as the State alleged, they had hopes of sharing $96,000 of insurance surreptitiously obtained on Albert Snyder's life.

Small Crowd Is Present.

A smaller crowd than any day of their trial at Long Island City stood "at attention" as the death sentence was pronounced. The slayers' backs were turned to "their public," and only reporters who squeezed into spaces beside the bench saw the hopelessness and grief written upon their faces. Their attorneys replied for them when they were asked if they had aught to say before court imposed sentence, and the words of the attorneys were, "Nothing at this time."

Sentence pronounced, the steely, blond Queens village housewife and the corset salesman were led back, one at a time, to the seclusion of their separate cells in Queens county jail. They will remain there until Monday, when they will be whisked away to Sing Sing's deathhouse.

Mrs. Snyder was sentenced first, and several moments elapsed before Gray's fate was pronounced.

Motions to Set Aside Verdict.

Brief motions asking that the verdict be set aside were made by attorneys for both before sentence was pronounced. Justice Scudder immediately denied them. Notices of appeal were filed. By statute, those sentenced to death have the right to appeal directly to the court of appeals, avoiding the delay of laying their cases before the appellate division of the supreme court, as in the procedure in cases not involving the death penalty.

Two months will be required, attorneys said, for preparation of the appeals.

It had been arranged that Mrs. Snyder and Gray would be taken immediately after sentence to Sing Sing, but Justice Scudder granted counsels' request that Mrs. Snyder and Gray be permitted to remain in Queens county jail until Monday to arrange their affairs.

The New York American says that Justice Scudder today after passing the sentence of death issued a statement in which he expressed his personal views in opposition to capital punishment.

"I believe that the good Lord gave life," Justice Scudder was quoted, "and I do not believe that we have the right to take it away. These are my own personal views and in no sense reflect upon the verdict of the jury who convicted these two persons."

The American says Gray, after the sentence, issued a statement to the "public at large" in which he thanked those who had shown kindness toward him and in which he uttered a warning against those things which he blamed for bringing him within the shadows of the electric chair.

COURT POSTPONES FALL AND SINCLAIR TRIAL UNTIL OCT. 17

Defense Protests Against Motions Made by Government, Saying It Is Ready.

PEREMPTORY ORDER IS MADE BY JUDGE

Government Contends It Needs Testimony of Certain Witnesses to Prove Case.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Government special counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, succeeded again in postponing the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial, despite efforts of defense counsel to have their clients, Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, tried on May 23, the date set by Justice William Hitz in April.

After brief arguments yesterday, Justice Hitz granted the government's motion for another continuance, but in setting October 17 as the new date, the judge sought to cut short further delay by preemptorily ordering the case to be tried on that day. Chief Justice of the District Supreme Court Walter I. McCoy, or Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons will be the presiding judge at the trial in October.

Before granting the motion Justice Hitz inquired as to the effect this would have on the government subpena which has been served on Henry M. Blackmer, former president of the Midwest Refining Co., and one of the witnesses which the government has asserted it desired to reach. Blackmer who has been in Europe for more than two years and has been adverse to returning and becoming involved in the long-drawn-out litigation, is presumably ready to appear as a witness on May 23, defense counsel claimed, but the subpena which the government has served upon him is no longer binding. It will be necessary for the government to serve another subpena upon him for October 17.

Both Willing to Testify.

It is said that both Blackmer and James E. O'Neil, former president of the Prairie Gas & Oil Co., are willing to testify if they can have some reasonable assurance that they will not be called upon to mortgage months if not years of their time in connection with the protracted proceedings.

Government counsel contend that the testimony of these witnesses may throw light on the operations of the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., a Canadian corporation, bonds of which are alleged to have been received by Fall. Blackmer and O'Neil have already stated that their testimony would not bear out the government's expectations.

Owen J. Roberts made a brief argument when Justice Hitz convened court at 10:22 o'clock yesterday morning. Atlee Pomerene was not here, as civil proceedings in connection with the Pan-American receivership required his presence in Los Angeles. Roberts promised that if Justice Hitz would grant a delay until October 17 he would not again ask postponement on the ground that needed government withnesses were missing.

Continuance Is Opposed.

George P. Hoover, of Sinclair counsel, opposed the motion for a continuance and pointed out that Blackmer had been served and that the government could prove through his testimony any facts which testimony by O'Neil might be expected to disclose relative to the Continental Trading Co. O'Neil's testimony would be merely "cumulative," Hoover contended, adding that courts do not grant continuances merely to obtain cumulative testimony. Hoover also maintained that government counsel had not stated the facts they expected to disclose through the testimony of these witnesses nor had the government shown that any such testimony would be material to the case at issue.

Roberts replied that the government was under a burden to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt, and that every opportunity to obtain needed witnesses should be granted.

"What will happen if Blackmer comes here?" asked Justice Hitz.

Roberts, who had previously stated that Blackmer had been served on a train going from Nice to Monte Carlo, replied that all witnesses would be communicated with and told not to come.

Leahy Asks About Funds.

William E. Leahy, of counsel for Fall, asked whether there would be some assurance that funds would be available in October or whether lack of funds would be used as a reason for a still further delay. Roberts said the Department of Justice would provide the necessary funds despite the fact that the special fund appropriated by Congress for the oil cases goes back to the Treasury on June 30 because of the failure of the deficiency bill during the Senate filibuster.

Martin W. Littleton, of Sinclair counsel called attention to the "snail's pace" with which the arrangements for the trial of his client were proceeding and said that the indictment had been returned 2½ years ago and that now more delay was asked by the government.

"That may be Philadelphia speed;" Littleton said, adding that it did not suit him or his client.

"It's a Philadelphia lawyer," remarked Justice Hitz jokingly from the bench, and Roberts joined in the general laughter.

Roberts Leaves Loophole.

As Roberts had left a loophole for the government to again ask postponement when the case comes up in October, Littleton asked that the trial be peremptorily set for October 17. Roberts then said he only meant to guard against the contingency of some of counsel being ill at that time in not making the date absolutely binding.

"Do you want the government to prescribe that nobody shall fall ill?" Justice Hitz asked Littleton.

"Nobody but the government counsel and their witnesses," Littleton replied, with a broad smile.

Justice Hitz will impose sentence on Sinclair in the Senate contempt case next Friday.

Chauncey Depew, in City, Says Coolidge Will Run

No Other Man Within His Memory Has Possessed Such a Popular Hold on the People, Says Former United States Senator.

Democrats Will Approve Gov. Smith After Plays for Their Favorite Sons, Forecaster, Here on His Usual Visit, Declares.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There is not a doubt in the world that President Coolidge will run again and be the next President, Chauncey M. Depew, the country's foremost near-centenarian, declared yesterday. Here with Mrs. Depew on one of his periodical visits, the venerable commentator said he did not know of any other man within his memory who had such a popular hold on the country as Mr. Coolidge.

He believes Gov. Smith of New York will be the Democratic nominee.

Explaining that until a politician is 90 years old his fellow politicians look upon him as a potential candidate and talk with him of their plans guardedly, but that after that age they consider him a "shelved patriarch" and talk with him freely. Mr. Depew said he had nowhere heard any suggestion that Mr. Coolidge would not be a candidate in 1928. It is inevitable and other Republican aspirants have become reconciled to it, he said.

The third term issue, in Mr. Depew's opinion, is dead, and "it is a good thing that it is." The tradition never meant that a Vice President elevated to the Presidency could not twice be elected anyway, he said.

The psychology of national conventions—and he recalled that he had been observing them for a long, long time—will nominate Gov. Smith after his party's conclave has quit making a play for favorite sons and come to the point of acting for the good of the party, Mr. Depew said.

Underwood & Underwood.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

It is still a firm belief in the minority party, he said, that it can not win without carrying New York. Smith has demonstrated that he can carry New York and this will be his greatest asset, according to Mr. Depew. But after this asset serves to get him the nomination it will be of no more good, for he can not carry it against President Coolidge.

Everybody is doing well in New York, he said. The man in the street is making a satisfactory living and the conditions that bring this happy situation about are attributed to President Coolidge, he explained.

Discussing Smith's availability for the Democratic nomination, he said that no other members of the minority party, save Tilden, Cleveland and Wilson, had reached the position which he has. "He is a very remarkable man," said Mr. Depew, and he believes his answer to the Marshall letter on Catholicism has greatly strengthened him.

Aside from the fact of Mr. Coolidge's popular hold, Mr. Depew believes he is an "able" man.

"What do you mean by able?" he asked. "The business man is measured by his ability to control business; other men by their ability to get things done. Well, Mr. Coolidge has made astounding progress in the liquidation of the country's war debt. He promised that he would make thrift and economy in government popular and he has done it. He has accomplished the things he wanted. I would therefore call him an able man."

As to whether he is a statesman, Mr. Depew declared there is nothing more statesmanlike than to balance the nation's budget. "Certainly he has done this," he said.

Mr. Coolidge does not try to set himself up as a "leader" of Congress, Mr. Depew said, but he has the faculty of stating something that he wants done in "plain, concise language" and having the country agree with him that it should be done. As a result it is done, Mr. Depew said.

The Senate has its good and bad spells in Mr. Depew's opinion, but he does not share the belief that it is "degenerating." Looking backward to his twelve years' service in that body he often thinks there were perhaps abler men in the body at that time, but the "Senate is still a very strong body."

As to the Senate's collective strength he considered it to be at a rather low ebb when Woodrow Wilson was President. While there may have been greater individual senators than at present, the Senate was but a rubber stamp for Wilson, he said. Mr. Wilson set himself up as a leader, and big and small men alike in the Senate simply followed him.

The Democratic party finally has come to be "proud" of Senator Reed, of Missouri, he said. At first it considered him as sort of a radical, but it has at last come to an appreciation of his greatness. He does not, however, consider the senator stretgically located enough to get the Democratic presidential nomination.

The series of election scandals has not lowered the venerable man's faith in Democracy, and he is far from being a member of that school which thinks Democracy has been a failure.

"Ours is the only government to go 150 years without a radical change in its Constitution," he said, explaining that he did not consider the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments as coming within the meaning of his term. Every other government has radically revised its constitution from one to twenty times, he said.

"We can go into any world conference and say we speak with the authority of a government that has not altered its form for 150 years."

Mr. Depew does not believe prohibition will be an issue next year. Neither party will take it up, he said.

And finally, he believes "humanity is getting better and better every day." Stopping at the Willard hotel, Mr. Depew will be here about ten days.

COOLIDGE IS SILENT ON THIRD TERM STAND

touching the third term, either as of 1912 or 1928.

Political circumstances during the Taft-Roosevelt campaign furnished circumstantial background to the report from the beginning. Winthrop Murray Crane, political mentor of the President in those days, was an ardent supporter of Taft. It is considered likely that he had a guiding hand in the circulation of the antithird term petition, and that if Crane so desired State Senator Coolidge would have signed.

In his statement yesterday O'Shea said that as a part of the Taft campaign in Massachusetts he circulated the antithird term petition among prominent Republicans and obtained the signature of Calvin Coolidge. One copy of the document, he said, was still in his files and he will make it public at the "proper time."

Petition in Record.

The text of the resolution, bearing the signature of the late Senator Blair, as printed in the Congressional Record of May 16, 1912, said in part:

"Believing that the framers of the Constitution acted wisely in providing, after long and careful deliberation, that the term of the President should be for the period of four years and that the unwritten law which prohibits any person to hold that office a third term should be made a part of the written Constitution, I do respectfully petition that during the present session you will submit to the States for their action a joint resolution proposing to amend Article II of the Constitution so as to provide that:

"'No person who has held the office of President for two terms, or for any of two terms, whether consecutive or otherwise, shall thereafter be eligible to be chosen to the office of President or Vice President.'"

NICARAGUAN LIBERALS DENY A SETTLEMENT

New Imposition of Force Is All That Has Taken Place, Say Sacasa Delegates.

Panama, May 13 (By A. P.).—Passing through the Panama canal yesterday on the way from Managua to Puerto Cabezas aboard the United States destroyer Preston, the liberal Nicaraguan peace delegates made the statement that "nothing is settled; what has prevailed is new imposition of force."

The delegates recently were in conference with Henry L. Stimson, representative of President Coolidge. They are on the way to report to the liberal president, Juan B. Sacasa, on the result of the parleys.

They said that Gen. Moncada, liberal commander, who recently arranged with Mr. Stimson for the laying down of the liberal arms, had completely defeated the forces of Diaz, conservative president, which had withdrawn from the neck of land separating the great lakes. This territory, they added, had been occupied by United States forces. "Gen. Moncada," they said, "thus has not a Nicaraguan enemy in the field, with the Americans blocking the way to Managua."

Vierkoetter in Swim Contest.

Hamburg, Germany, May 13 (By A. P.).—Ernst Vierkoetter, channel swimmer and German long-distance champion, is leaving for New York with the intention, it is understood, of participating in the marathon swims in Lake Ontario this summer.

VATICAN ORGAN PRINTS SMITH LETTER STORY

Correspondent Says His Reply Has Untipped Arrows of His Opponents.

NO EDITORIAL COMMENT

Rome, May 13 (By A. P.).—Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ, under title "How Alfred Smith Answers Unfortunate Questionnaire," prints a dispatch from its New York correspondent describing the recent exchange of open letters on the relationship of church and state in which the Governor of New York participated.

Osservatore makes no editorial comment.

The news dispatch declares: "Gov. Smith gave undoubted proof of his qualities as administrator of public affairs. Having acquired a large following, owing to his personal gifts, there is no doubt that many Americans would be ready to let the question of his religion pass to the second line and vote for him, but the Methodist sect, which one of the former Presidents called the 'third party,' is fighting tooth and nail against the supposed possibility of a Catholic's candidature."

After quoting extensively from Gov. Smith's letter setting forth his position as an American Catholic in political life, the correspondent concludes:

"Gov. Smith's answer has untipped many of his opponents' arrows. Many newspapers, although unfavorable to Catholicism, have showered approval and praise upon the governor. The attempt made to shake his popularity has had the effect only of augmenting it. Anyway it is not a case of speaking of Gov. Smith's candidature for the presidency at present, but his Catholic faith will not be the predominating objection in case of his eventual candidacy."

German Is Killed By Mexican Bandits

Mexico City, May 13 (By A. P.).—One of the most prominent German residents of Mexico, a business man named Schondube, was killed yesterday morning by an outlaw band which attacked his ranch in the state of Jalisco, it was learned today.

President Calles has personally ordered Federal forces to do their utmost to punish the outlaws, who were described as "rebels" in advices from the ranch.

Civil and press dispatches from Jalisco said that Schondube, who was more than 70 years old, was shot in the abdomen and died quickly. The advices indicated that the outlaws were subsequently routed by the ranch hands and fled to the mountains with federal troops in pursuit.

Victoria Premier Out; Laborite Takes Reins

Melbourne, Australia, May 13 (By A. P.).—Because of strong criticism over the Victorian government's continuance in office despite its recent defeat at the polls by the laborites, Premier John Allan has resigned without awaiting an adverse vote in parliament.

The governor summoned Mr. Hogan, labor party leader, who is expected to complete the formation of the new government within a few days.

Health Authorities Open Session Today

The health officers, from many sections of the United States and Canada, will have a two-day session, ending Monday afternoon.

The president of the conference is Dr. R. M. Olin, of Detroit.

Mexico City, May 13 (By A. P.).—Mgr. Louis Altamirano y Bulnes, bishop of Papantla, and Mgr. Francisco Campos, former bishop of Tabasco, have been taken from Mexico City to Laredo, it was announced tonight.

The government announcement made no explanation for the departure from Mexico City of the Catholic prelates.

OIL DRILLING CURB, GOAL OF DICTATOR, MEETS OPPOSITION

Producers of Seminole Field Put R. H. Collins at Head of Movement.

LEGALITY OF PROJECT BEFORE U. S. OFFICIALS

Primary Concern of Officials Is Given at White House as Conservation.

New York, May 13 (By the Associated Press).—Acting quickly after his appointment as a dictator over the Seminole oil field, in which nine prominent producing companies have agreed to cease drilling for the next two weeks, Ray H. Collins, of Tulsa, Okla., today called a meeting of oil men for tomorrow, when further steps toward curtailment of output will be discussed. The principal aim of tomorrow's conference will be to interest companies not represented at the recent meetings in New York in the proposed program for limitation of production in the Oklahoma area.

Some opposition, it is understood, has developed among independent producers in the Seminole field. E. B. Reeser, president of the Barnsdall Refining Co., today announced that his company would not participate in the plans proposed at the meeting here. Oil company officials in New York declared that they had received no direct word from Mr. Reeser and withheld any comment.

U. S. Officials Approached.

Meanwhile there were indications here that the restrictive plans were being put under way. Petroleum men are understood to have approached the Department of Justice informally to ascertain whether the proposed steps to curtail the output would be in violation of the antitrust laws. William J. Donovan, Assistant Attorney General, was in New York, and his presence here led to reports that he would confer with local petroleum men concerning their plans. This, however, Mr. Donovan denied, declaring that his visit to New York was to gather data concerning litigation involving the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

The committee of five, which was appointed yesterday with Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, at its head, held no meeting today, and it was understood that its plans were still in an embryonic form. This committee was appointed for the purpose of formulating a program, if possible, of extending curtailment of production to the industry as a whole.

It was freely admitted in oil circles that the present crisis can not be eliminated unless regulatory measures are taken in prolific oil fields other than the Seminole. The hope of a solution, therefore seemed to lie in the success of conferences which the committee of five is to have soon with the Federal oil conservation board and other government officials in Washington.

Interest in Conservation Here.

(By the Associated Press.)

The Federal government is keeping a close eye on the gasoline and oil situation with a view to conservation of the supply, it was said yesterday at the White House, and while interested in the prevention of exploitation of both products it intends to take no part in price fixing.

On behalf of President Coolidge it was said, however, that the government is ready to do anything it can to prevent illegal combinations which might unduly increase the price of oil or gasoline.

The President, it was said, believes that the primary concern of the government in the oil situation is the problem of conservation.

His views were elicited by inquiries regarding the government's attitude toward the announced intention of oil producers in the Oklahoma Seminole field to artificially restrict production.

LEVEE BREAK SENDS FLOOD RACING ON HOMES OF 200,000

water lapping over the dykes and a breach expected momentarily under pressure of the pounding waves, they quit the fight and fled from the town.

Evacuation of the Bayou des Glaises inhabitants was proceeding rapidly with seaplanes, boats, barges and other rescue equipment being concentrated in the section. Many of them had been taken to Bunkie, but plans were being made to transfer them to Marksville and Mansura, since the spreading flood waters might endanger the water system of Bunkie. Later it was expected they would be concentrated at Marksville and Alexandria, where housing facilities were more abundant and food supplies more easily obtainable.

Evacuation of Melville, the largest town in the direct path of the flood, had started tonight. More than a thousand were to be moved there.

The weather bureau at New Orleans warned that the breaks along Bayou des Glaises would not remedy the situation along the main stream between the mouth of Old river and New Orleans, although it reiterated the statement that the artificial crevasse below the Crescent City would prevent the river from exceeding a stage of 21 feet here.

The sweep of the water escaping from Bayou des Glaises crevasse will take them into Avoyelles, St. Martin, St. Mary, St. Landry and Iberville parishes, two of which are large producers of sugar cane and one of which, St. Martin, is in the heart of the Evangeline country, made famous by Longfellow's poem of the same name.

An estimated acreage of 1,198,720 acres stands in the path of the released waters, and 105,000 people are expected to be affected.

In southern Louisiana, along the Mississippi, the fight to hold the rising waters continued with unrelenting energy. A weakness developed in the levee at Morganza, about Baton Rouge, but quick work checked the waters, and tonight it was believed in good condition.

Still further north in eleven northeastern parishes only house tops, church steeples and tree tops protruding above the surface of the inland lake marked the location of numerous towns and villages.

Pope Conveys Sympathy For Flood Victims to U. S.

(By the Associated Press).

Sympathy of Pope Pius XI for Mississippi flood sufferers was conveyed to President Coolidge yesterday in a message delivered by Monsignor Fumasoni-Biondi, the apostolic delegate. The message assured the President of the Pope's "continued prayers for the unfortunate sufferers." President Coolidge's appreciation of the Pope's concern was voiced in a message to the apostolic delegate from Secretary Kellogg.

The text of the apostolic delegate's letter to the President follows:

"Your excellency: I have the honor to inform you that his holiness, Pope Pius XI, directs me to convey to you the expression of his deep sympathy in the great calamity which has fallen upon the good people of the Mississippi valley, and to assure your excellency of his continued prayers for the unfortunate sufferers.

"In complying with the instructions of his holiness, I take the occasion to offer my own profound sympathy.

"Renewing my expression of highest esteem, I have the honor to remain

"PETER FUMASONI-BIONDI,
"Archbishop of Dioclea, Apostolic Delegate."

Replying, Secretary Kellogg wrote:

"My dear Mgr. Fumasoni-Biondi: Your kind note of May 6, 1927, to the President, in which you convey to him the expression of the deep sympathy of his holiness, Pope Pius XI, for the sufferers in the Mississippi valley disaster, and to which you also add your personal sympathy, has been sent to me for acknowledgment.

"The President trusts that you will convey to his holiness his deep and sincere appreciation for this kind message, and charges me to express to you likewise his appreciation for your personal sympathy.

"I am, my dear monsignor,
"Very sincerely yours,
"FRANK B. KELLOGG."

$168,624 in Estate Of Luther Burbank

Santa Rosa, Calif., May 13 (By A. P.). Luther Burbank, internationally-known naturalist, who died here April 11, 1926, left an estate amounting to $168,624.22, it was disclosed here today when his will was admitted to probate in the superior court.

Of this amount, $62,400 represented real estate and $106,224.22 personal property, stock, bonds and cash. His widow, Elizabeth Burbank, is sole heir and executrix.

Cotton Textile Industry Would Control Production

Atlantic City, N. J., May 13 (By A. P.).—Capping a day's suggestions for betterment of the textile industry, William B. MacColl, of Pawtucket, R. I., president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, tonight declared that cotton manufacturers should have the right "to organize to regulate production and establish uniform cost standards under proper government control."

The declaration was made at the joint banquet of the national association, composed of Northern mills and the American Cotton Manufacturers association, whose membership comes from the South. Both associations held separate meetings today and then gathered for their first joint convention since the world war.

Mr. MacColl said the antitrust laws never had been workable, and unfortunately the work of the cotton textile institute had been hampered thereby.

Future Naval Trials For Records Secret

Following a policy of "silence until success," inaugurated prior to the altitude record made recently by Lieut. George R. Henderson at Anacostia naval air station, the bureau of aeronautics will make no announcements of dates of future attempts to break records and avoid publicity in case of failures.

During the last three weeks when four seaplane records were made by naval airmen here and at Hampton Roads, all successful attempts were made with secrecy and no information was given until their records were verified by officials of the National Aeronautic association or bureau of standards experts.

U. S. FLOOD RELIEF FUND CLIMBS TO $11,064,849

$118,099 Is Collected Here, With Benefit Show Expected to Increase Total.

HEALTH WORK GOES ON

While the Mississippi continued to force gateways through the levee banks for pouring off its surplus waters, the Red Cross fund for the relief of the thousands driven from their homes reached $11,064,849 yesterday, more than $1,000,000 in excess of the $10,000,000 asked.

At the same time the Red Cross continues its battle against disease. Reports received at national headquarters here yesterday from workers in the flood zone stated that between 75 and 80 per cent of all refugees had been inoculated with antityphoid serum.

The Red Cross has stationed 92 nurses and 58 doctors in the flooded region to protect the health of the thousands of flood victims and to care for those stricken with disease. It is estimated that 112 counties have suffered in the flood which has affected seven States.

The Red Cross meanwhile is preparing for another activity. As soon as the waters recede, it is said, the Red Cross will supply the farmers with seed for planting crops, as well as feed for their stock, and will take other measures to insure their proper rehabilitation.

The Red Cross received what is probably the most unusual contribution yet made yesterday. A Maryland donor, who described herself as a "laundry woman" earning her livelihood "by hard work," sent $50 as the combined contribution of herself and her son.

Local collections continued to soar and last night had reached $118,099 nearly $30,000 more than the double quota of $90,000. Washington has made one of the best records in the country in contributing to the fund. Additional thousands are yet to be received. The unusual benefit performance at Poli's theater last night is expected to net a considerable sum.

Contributions totaling $42 were received by The Post yesterday toward the fund, bringing the total amount collected by The Post to $4,158.05. Contributions are received and turned over to the Red Cross daily by The Post. Those who contributed yesterday were as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$4,116.05
Grace E. Glance	2.00
Men's Club of the Hecht Co.	40.00

Capacity Crowd Attends Flood Benefit at Poli's

Probably one of the greatest all-round theatrical performances ever staged in Washington was given in Poli's last night for the benefit of the Mississippi flood sufferers.

Acts from every theater in Washington—headliners from Keith's, the Strand, the National, Palace, Columbia, Metropolitan, Rialto and even from amateur circles—crowded fast upon each other, so that Manager Theodore Barter, in charge of the house, had difficulty in keeping track of them. For once in the history of benefits there was enough entertainment, and more, to go around—and some of the acts were not allowed to go on to prevent the show from running all night. The theater for the occasion was donated by Lee and J. J. Shubert and S. Z. Poli.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, thanked the capacity audience for the response to a worthy cause. While complete returns were not checked up last night, some $2,000 in cash returns were accounted for in the box office sale, with sales of boxes yet to be accounted.

Will Rogers Holds There Is No Quota For Relief in Flood

Special to The Washington Post.

Rutland, Vt., May 13.—Have just been reading some English papers commenting on Secretary Mellon's attitude toward the note they sent him about the debts. Fine chance England has of getting the better of Mellon on notes. That's how he got what he has now—out of notes. Notes are one of the best things he handles. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—I am tired of reading about "our town has reached its quota of flood relief funds."

There isn't any quota. A new break is reported every day and thousands more are in need.

If you were hungry and some one gave you a sandwich, would you have your quota?

Can that quota gag and keep on working.

RADIO COMMISSION WARNS STATION WARS

New Jersey Station Complains of Interference by Brooklyn Broadcasters.

(By the Associated Press.)

Disciplinary action against radio broadcasting station WARS, at Brooklyn, N. Y., was officially threatened yesterday by the Federal radio commission.

This station has been assigned a part-time use of the 1,340-kilocycle channel, which it shares with station WBMS, at Union City, N. J., and, according to complaints to the commission, has been disregarding the time schedule and interfering with the Union City station's transmission.

O. H. Caldwell, commissioner for the Eastern district, after investigating, late yesterday sent a telegram to station WARS notifying its management of the complaints, and adding that the radio channel assigned to it was available for it only so long as it rendered public service.

An immediate reply to the charges was demanded and notice was given that the temporary permit under which WARS operates would be immediately canceled if further difficulty was occasioned.

C. & O. MANAGER PREDICTS BIG SAVING IN MERGER

Could Move Coal to Chicago at 45 Cents Less Per Ton, He Says.

3 TESTIFY BEFORE I. C. C.

(By the Associated Press)

W. J. Harahan, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, went through another round of cross-examination yesterday at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on the proposal of his road to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette systems, and later two other Chesapeake & Ohio officials, G. D. Brook, general manager, and F. M. Whittaker, traffic vice president, offered testimony as to what they believed the merger would accomplish.

Brook and Whittaker were put on the stand after H. W. Anderson, attorney for the group of Chesapeake & Ohio minority stockholders opposed to the consolidation plan, had concluded, for the time being, his examination of Harahan. He also questioned Brook, who had given estimates of the economies in operation he said he expected from the merger, but deferred cross-examination of Whittaker.

Whittaker declared the Chesapeake & Ohio found it necessary to extend its system by the purchase of connections and terminals to sustain itself against competition of the great Eastern trunk lines, such as the New York Central and the Pennsylvania.

Brook calculated that the Chesapeake & Ohio could move coal into Chicago for 45 cents less a ton by utilizing the Erie west of Marion, Ohio, instead of its own lines from Cincinnati, to Chicago. At Chicago, Marion and Toledo, he estimated that large sums annually could be saved by the railroads if they operated as a unit and made the best possible mutual disposition of their facilities.

Before Harahan left the stand, counsel for short-line railroads which are intervening in the proceedings, questioned him as to what would be the fate of the small roads which operated in the merger territory. He said he would be willing to have the Interstate Commerce Commission lay down conditions to govern their fair treatment by the larger roads in traffic and other matters.

THE FIGHT FOR BUSINESS.

The United States produces more manufactured goods than any other country in the world, and the value of these manufactures is thrice that of any other three countries. The annual value of American manufactured commodities is placed at upward of $60,000,000,000, and the volume is still increasing.

The volume of manufactures produced per person engaged in manufacturing increased nearly 50 per cent from 1899 to 1925, reflecting a growth of nearly 180 per cent in quantity. Growth in output per person is attributed to increasing utilization of machinery and power, the introduction of labor-saving devices and methods, the elimination of waste, the growth of mass production, and planning in relation to markets.

The tendency in American production of manufactured goods is also toward standardization and fewer styles and sizes, so as to permit large production with the least possible number of changes, which increase cost and waste time and energy.

American manufactures are the wonder of the industrial world. Sixty years ago they barely supplied American wants, which then were meager as compared with today, the consuming power of the American people having increased fivefold in 60 years.

Today, American manufactures not only supply a domestic market consuming more than $50,000,000,000 worth, but also supply the needs of other countries to the extent of more than $10,000,000,000 in value.

The fight for foreign markets is becoming active as European manufacturing countries increase their output. Some of them have a surplus which collides with the American surplus. How will Americans compete with Euroe in world markets?

Some foolish American manufacturers listen to the siren song of Europeans who suggest that Europe can not pay its debts to the United States unless they can sell in the American market. These American manufacturers are half inclined to think that the United States tariff should be reduced, so that European goods may flow in while American surplus goods are flowing out. They think the process will enlarge the foreign demand for American goods.

The dog that dropped a bone to reach for the shadow of a bone in the water was wise compared with these Americans. They would sacrifice their 90 per cent home business for the sake of trying to increase their 10 per cent foreign business.

American manufactures can compete with foreign manufactures in outside markets, because American goods are well made and cheaply produced by machinery in immense quantities. If Americans will study foreign markets and adapt themselves to foreign peculiarities in shipping, credit and styles, they can beat the foreigner. In general, the American is inferior to the German, Britisher or Frenchman in adapting himself to his foreign market. He relies too much upon the quality of his goods and too little upon expert salesmanship. He is intolerant of foreign credit methods. He tries to force American methods upon foreign customers.

If American manufacturers continue to increase their surplus and expect to sell it abroad in competition with experienced Europeans who are back on the job, the Americans must study their markets better and must modify their credit practices to suit the peculiarities of the country with which they are dealing. They can get their share of the business if they are willing to do this, but they need not expect South Americans and Chinese to change the habits of centuries merely to favor Americans.

ONTARIO QUITS PROHIBITION.

Monday will mark the end of the experiment in prohibition of the sale of liquors in Ontario. Under the law enacted by the provincial legislature May 15 was designated as the day upon which the sale of intoxicants might be resumed. All sales will be made under licenses which will assure the bulk of the profits to the government of the province, and such sales may be made only "to be consumed elsewhere than on the premises of the vendor." Thus the people of Ontario have abolished the saloon, and instead of trying to change the habit of mankind in the matter of alcoholic stimulants, which has existed since the days of Noah, the Canadians will "regulate" consumption in a manner calculated to assure temperance.

Within two weeks from the resumption of the legal sale of intoxicants in Ontario the new peace bridge will be opened to traffic between Buffalo and Fort Erie. It is built for vehicular traffic only; no railway will interfere with the passage of automobiles or pedestrians. That it will be well patronized, not only by residents of Buffalo and the immediate vicinity but by tourists from all over the country, is a foregone conclusion.

That bridge, which is commemorative of the "century of peace" that has existed between the people of the republic and those of the Dominion, will be formally dedicated in the autumn, when it is expected that President Coolidge and the Prince of Wales will take part in the ceremonies. In the meantime it will be used as the highway over which will pass every day many thousands of Americans who make their summer homes on the Canadian side of the Niagara river. For, while attracting less attention than the various developments in Florida real estate, several thousand acres adjacent to the border have been transformed from farm lands into thriving communities within the last two or three years. Buffalo was never a "dry city." A very large percentage of its population is composed of people of foreign birth or parentage, who have always regarded wine and malt beverages as natural components of their diet. Hundreds of such families will make their homes during the summer in the province of Ontario where, after Monday next, it will again be lawful to purchase liquor.

IMMORAL BOOKS.

Gen. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of customs, has ruled that certain books already imported may be allowed to enter, notwithstanding their questionable character, but that similar importations will be seized and forfeited. The books in question are "The Arabian Nights" and Boccaccio's "Decameron," both in unexpurgated editions.

The ruling has raised the temperature of certain "liberals" who fear that the liberties of the American people are to be trampled upon by petty bureaucrats setting themselves up as censors. These guardians of liberty point to the Bible as a work that could be classified as immoral. Unable to draw a line themselves, they contend that no line whatever should be drawn; that no official "censorship" can be set up without encroaching upon the freedom of the press, and so on.

The law for many years has prohibited the importation of immoral books. If the Treasury has been lax in enforcing this law, it is high time that it should reform its practice, in view of the flood of filthy literature that is imported.

There is no question of the liberty of the press involved in this matter. The law prohibiting the importation of immoral books and pictures is the will of the people. Obscenity is not the equivalent of liberty in any sense. The Constitution declares that Congress shall make no law against freedom of speech or the liberty of the press, but slander and libel are crimes, and so is obscenity. Slander, libel, and obscenity are outrages of liberty, and if protected by law they would destroy freedom of speech and of the press.

No one need fear that a censor in Washington will ever encroach upon freedom of speech or of the press. The danger is in the other direction, as witness the spread of obscene publications through the mails and custom houses. The Treasury and Postoffice authorities will be sustained by the public, instead of being condemned, when they impartially suppress immoral publications in pursuance of law. If they should make a mistake in any case, the courts will furnish a remedy.

MUSIC FOR MILLIONS.

Walter Damrosch, former director of the New York Symphony orchestra, has been retained by the National Broadcasting Co. to act as musical counsel. In the newly created position he will officiate in all matters relating to higher musical activities and will attempt to extend orchestral music by radio throughout the country. This constitutes the first step toward organization of the great "university of the air" about which so much has been heard. Mr. Damrosch proposes to give a series of 24 orchestral concerts, with explanatory remarks on the works presented and on the instruments used by members of the symphony orchestra. The concerts will be carried direct to 35 stations for rebroadcasting, and will be carefully graded for elementary school students, high school students and college students.

Mr. Damrosch's efforts to bring genuine music to the public are already well known, particularly in the Eastern States. He has been listened to with avidity during his weekly recitals. His radio appearances have been pleasurably anticipated by thousands.

In all probability Mr. Damrosch will find himself speaking to many millions. He will reach the country districts, and forgotten corners of great cities into which music seldom penetrates. What an opportunity, what a lifework for any one man! What satisfaction there will be in the accomplishment of bringing the solace and beauty of music to the millions whom so far the muse has not been able to reach!

DEATH TOLL OF THE ROAD.

Since January 1, 1922, according to a survey recently completed by the American Road Builders association, more than 100,000 persons have been killed in highway accidents in this country. At least one-third of these were school children. During the same five-year period more than 3,000,000 additional individuals have been sent to the hospital for injuries received in highway accidents, and more than $2,000,000,000 worth of property has been damaged. One casualty occurs on the roads every 42 seconds.

These are startling figures, particularly when shown by comparison. During the five years just passed, an equivalent of practically one-fifth of Washington's population has been killed, and during the same period more than as many people as there are in all of Indiana or Iowa have been injured.

No matter what the cause of these accidents, there is but one remedy, and that is education. A fool-proof automobile can not be built—any piece of machinery is potentially dangerous. Industry has been able to educate the operators of its machines in the least dangerous methods of handling them, however, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that if a safety-first program were brought to the attention of every man, woman and child in the country a betterment of highway conditions would soon follow. The directors of the association have approved a national highway safety campaign and have authorized an appropriation to defray its cost. Such an undertaking, properly put on, would necessitate the expenditure of a vast sum of money—much more than has been appropriated by the association. It would be money well spent, however, from which a more than adequate return would be received. Millions of dollars should be raised for the education of the public in the prevention of the death toll of the highways.

BUS TERMINALS.

Joseph A. Warren, police commissioner of New York city, has advised motor bus operators that after August 1 they will no longer be permitted to use the streets for terminals or waiting rooms. In his order calling upon them to establish private garages and terminals he says that with the rapid multiplication of buses within the last two or three years, abuse of the streets has brought about increased danger to pedestrians and other drivers, and has been responsible for congestion resulting in loss of time and money to the general public.

The statement is of local interest, because Washington before long will face the same problem. New York knows what traffic congestion really is. If in any city the mythical automobile saturation point has been reached that city is New York. Washington's congestion problem already has assumed major proportions and gives every indication of increasing daily. Parked buses, making use of as they do several times as much street space as the private motor car, are to a considerable degree responsible.

There is no reason why bus operators should be given the unusual privilege of appropriating curb space for their private gain. Streets are public property, and no one has a right to utilize them exclusively. Some relief was accorded during the winter, when a number of lines moved their terminals to a waiting room provided in the downtown section by private capital. Nevertheless, other lines continue to use public property, despite the fact that it would be to the convenience of the public to have all lines operating from a central terminal. Sooner or later Washington will have to follow New York's lead, and the sooner the step is taken the better it will be.

LONDON, THE NIMROD'S PARADISE.

For many weeks the people of England have been circulating all sorts of attractive literature designed to attract American visitors away from the continent and into the highways and by-ways of the "tight little island." But until now the bait has taken the form of pictures and descriptions of rural England, Scotland and Wales, with reference to the historically interesting spots which abound in all sections of the kingdom.

Deer-stalking in the highlands and grouse shooting on the moors have been graphically described and the glories of fox-hunting have not been neglected. Now the Britishers have gone one step further and have undertaken to prove that there is plenty of sport for the Nimrod right in the heart of London.

According to an Associated Press dispatch London is simply overrun by wild game. It all comes about through the rapid growth of the metropolis into the suburbs. Having been caught napping, as it were, rabbits and hares gambol in the streets. Hedgehogs, which are the British species of porcupines, are common in some of the suburbs, and frequently visit the city proper, if we are to believe the yarn. It is even asserted that foxes are seen within a few miles of Piccadilly and that even deer stray cityward from Epping forest. Summing up the attractions that London offers, the correspondent states that "weasels, stoats, foxes, hares, hedgehogs, sly badgers and slier polecats are sighted within the greater London area."

Here appears to be the opportunity for some friend of Mr. Coolidge to add a few zoological specimens to the President's private menagerie, while viewing Westminster Abbey.

AVIATION ANTICIPATED.

A visionary of the seventeenth century, who had an inventive mind and an unbounded imagination, bodied forth a scheme for reaching the moon, which foreshadows in a remarkable way the accomplishments of twentieth century aviation. In 1638 John Wilkins, afterward master of Trinity college, Cambridge, dean of Ripon and Bishop of Chester, published "The Discovery of a New World," in which he endeavored to prove that there is a habitable world in the moon. To the third edition, which appeared in 1640, he appended a "Discourse Concerning the Possibility of a Passage Thither." In this appendix he discusses three possible ways of making the flight—the first by the use of wings applied to a man's body, as angels are pictured and Mercury and Daedalus are feigned; the second by training a great bird, such as Marco Polo mentions as being found in Madagascar, and riding him up, as Ganymede does upon an eagle. He thinks, however, that it is likely that neither of these ways is practical, and so he comes to his third solution of the problem, which, as couched in his own words, is as follows:

> If neither of these ways will serve, yet do I seriously, and upon good grounds, affirm it possible to make a flying chariot, in which a man may sit, and give such a motion unto it as shall convey him through the air. And this perhaps might be made large enough to carry divers men at the same time, together with food for their viaticum and commodities for traffic. It is not the bigness of anything in this kind that can hinder its motion, if the motive faculty be answerable thereto. We see a great ship swims as well as a small cork, and an eagle flies in the air as well as a little gnat. This engine may be contrived from the same principles by which Archytas made a wooden dove and Regiomontanus a wooden eagle.

This intelligent anticipation of future discoveries makes it seem a pity that Wilkins, instead of devoting himself to securing perpetual motion and devising one of the most ingenious of the impossible schemes for that end, did not apply himself to the invention of a flying machine. He might have been beaten on the question of what he calls the "motive faculty," for locomotion by steam or gasoline was then unknown, but his theoretical plans would have been at least interesting and possibly useful.

He was steadfast in his belief that the thing could be done and one of his most cherished tenets he expressed when he said: "It is possible for some of our posterity to find out a conveyance to this other world, and, if there be inhabitants there, to have commerce with them." We have not yet got as far as the imagination of Wilkins carried him; but who knows what the future holds in store? As he elsewhere says, many things formerly supposed impossible have actually been accomplished.

Helpful Fashion.

Harrisburg Times: Fashion has lifted a considerable burden off the clothesline.

Works Both Ways.

El Paso Times: Tabloids have contributed much to crime, according to members of the New York crime commission. Yes, and vice versa, brothers.

This Prosaic World.

Atchison Globe: A man who swears he would wade through hell, fire and high water for a girl, generally finds that she would rather have him pay the bills.

Trouble Ahead.

Boston Globe: With the Treasury surplus for the current fiscal year likely to exceed $500,000,000, the President will have to do his darndest in urging Congress to be economical.

Too Busy.

Layfayette Courier: Modern man doesn't develop leadership qualities for the reason that it takes all his time to find a place to park.

Friends in Need.

Lawrence Telegram: If the horses didn't do any work all the rest of the year except that they alone can do when the milkmen's auto trucks and other auto trucks are put out of the running for several days by a big snowstorm, they would be worth their keep

Of Academic Interest.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The fact that only about 960 of the Women's National Republican club out of over 2,900 who were asked their opinion on prohibition took the trouble to reply to a questionnaire suggests that most of the excited debate on the subject is carried on by a small minority on each side. To most persons the matter has now become merely of academic interest; the larger majority doesn't care to stub its toes kicking against the pricks.

The Missionaries.

Philadelphia Record: It is good to read of the recent activities of the American tennis stars, Tilden and Hunter, in Germany. Of course, the result of the play was pretty well determined in advance, for it was well known that Germany has no player who could be considered a worthy opponent of Big Bill, although it was conceded that some one there might succeed in downing Hunter. He was, in fact, defeated by the German champion, Froitzheim, but the Americans had won the championship in the previous two days' play This excursion into Germany was a good thing—an excellent piece of missionary work. It should have the effect of proving to the Germans that their methods of training and of play have been wrong. Experts have told them this often enough, but the opportunity to see Tilden in action was probably worth reams of academic discussion and wordy argument.

Not Even Organized.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: When Joseph W. Bailey, Texas statesman, sang his senatorial swan song he told his startled colleagues that the Democratic party was "only an organized appetite for office." Since "Joe" Bailey was a stalwart of the stalwarts, his remark echoed around the country. It needs revising now. Democrats are approaching a point where they are not even organized. The National Democratic Women's Enforcement league, recently formed in Washington, makes harder the problem of Democracy's harmony makers. The women are about to organize their sister Democrats of the nation against Gov. Smith in particular and all wet candidates in general. They will pledge delegates to stand by the two-thirds rule which always makes Democratic conventions so entertaining. This is one of the many blowing straws that indicate everything may soon be ready for a repetition of the 1924 Madison Square Garden hari-kari party. Republicans have their troubles, but the Democrats always seem to need a wailing place.

Or Less.

Richmond Times Dispatch: Pekin police have executed eighteen reds—about one-thousandth of 1 per cent of the Russians murdered by reds.

Roop Says It.

Omaha World-Herald: Hervin Ulysses Roop, A. M., B. D., Ph. D., LL. D., L. H. D., member of N. E. A., Am. Acad. Polit. and Social Science, A. A. A. S., Phi Beta Kappa, president of Wheaton college, author of "The Science of Christian Living," "General Psychology" and "The Truth of Christianity," reveals authoritatively the truth about student suicides.

It is, says Dr. Roop, the teaching of a materialistic conception of the universe which is responsible "When you convince a man that he is nothing but an animal," says he, "he will act like an animal."

Now there is logic for you, convincing logic, darn near irrefutable logic. It lacks absolutely nothing but evidence that suicide is common among animals.

Booze Does It.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland deplores "the palpable decline in the deeper political consciousness of the people." Do you suppose bad booze has anything to do with it?

Severe Punishment.

Detroit News: The most appropriate punishment for the criminally reckless motorist is a sentence to perpetual pedestrianism.

Chicago Shares Blame.

Milwaukee Journal: When that bill for flood control comes up in Congress that body will be betraying its trust if senators and congressmen from every State, and especially from the Mississippi valley States, fail to rise with indignant demands that, before the millions of the people's money are spent to dam the Mississippi's torrents, the city of Chicago shall be made to stop the torrent she extracts from Lake Michigan and sends down upon the valley's people.

Simplicity

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YEARS ago I endeavored to help my little girl with her arithmetic lesson. I tried my hardest to make the thing clear to her, and failed utterly because my reasoning was too complicated. I didn't know my job well enough to do it simply.

Once in a while you will hear some ass, trying to gain recognition as a writer or speaker, say in explanation of his failure: "I write over the heads of the people;" or, "I talk over the heads of the people."

What insufferable conceit! What ghastly rot!

Is the Gettysburg address over the heads of the people? Is the Sermon on the Mount? Here were two masters, saying great things in a masterly way—that is, in a simple way, so simple that a child could understand.

Unless your subject is technical, you aren't going to write "over the heads of the people." If they don't get your idea, and don't understand what you are driving at, it isn't because they are dumb. It is because you don't know your art well enough.

It is your dumbness—your want of skill—that makes your thought obscure.

You will hear people of the simian type say of a poet: "He is wonderful, but he is a little too deep for me at times." Deep, your grandmother's ducks! He is simply unintelligent. He hasn't the wit to say his say in such a way that people can understand it.

A certain French statesman was praised because his sentences "flowed so easily and were so obviously spontaneous." And he answered that the spontaneous quality in his speeches cost him many nights of toil.

Any man accustomed to public speaking can hold the floor for two hours without previous labor. But an orator who would put over an idea in 20 minutes must work for many hours to eradicate the puzzling unessentials and prepare himself to say the necessary thing clearly and simply.

Children and adults with feeble minds delight in big words.

If you say a thing so well that sophomores exclaim: "Why, I could have done that!"—then you have produced a masterpiece.

Don't be awed by the modern or ancient who seems "too deep." He is a poor craftsman who either has nothing to say or else doesn't know how to say it.

No woman feels that she has done her duty by house cleaning unless she moves the sofa to the other side of the room.

"Keep cool in the presence of a burglar." This advice probably refers to the head; the feet will take care of themselves.

Correct this sentence: "I married her for her beauty," said he, "and never once was ashamed of her dumbness."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The War Memorial.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Kate McCoy's letter in this morning's Post gives me the courage to say what a great many people in Washington are thinking. Why should the memory of our dead soldiers be perpetuated in a memorial that is esthetically impossible? The idea back of it is fine and generous, but why add one more "horror" to the already overburdened National Capital? See H. G. Dwight's highly amusing article, "Horrors of Washington," in Harper's for December. It deals with various "works of art" which we rushed into with a greater courage than the angels, then lived to regret when our taste became more evolved. The band stand memorial suggests nothing so much as a mold of vanilla ice cream fresh from the caterer's. Is it too late to change this victualer's design and have something better? From all I can hear it would have the effect of bringing in the contributions more rapidly.

ABIGAIL W. MORGAN.

Third Term Observations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The papers are trying to make a sensation out of the fact that Calvin Coolidge once expressed opposition to a third term for Roosevelt. Well, George Washington once wrote: "I am a loyal subject of King George." Abraham Lincoln once said: "If I can't save the Union without accepting slavery, I will accept slavery." And Roosevelt, after opposing a third term, tried to get one.

Times change and circumstances alter cases. If the situation in 1928 requires that Coolidge shall remain in the White House, it will not matter what he said about a third term. Americans are practical, and deal with each situation as it arises, without submitting too much to the control of the past. Washington was loyal to King George until his duty required him to rebel. Lincoln tolerated slavery until he could slay it. Coolidge may have opposed a third term and may still be reelected.

NUNC PRO TUNC.

MOURNING N MAY.

By STEPHEN B. STANTON.

This rush of sudden color midst the green,
This gush of joy that wells from depths unseen—
What have you at your heart that gladdens so,
What leap of life while filled my heart with woe?

Earth, feel you not the burden of the years,
The minishment of life, the death that nears,
The pain of parting, old-time friends grown few,
The disappearance of the world we knew?

Have you no memory of former Mays
When yet the springtime brought no heightened pang?
Bows you no sad reminder of the days
When gleeful woodlands with our laughter rang?

Or is it haply given you to know
That all that ever was is sweetly blent
With all that is—that still somehow
The olden days in these is resident?

Not quick-forgetful of companions gone,
Not wheedled by new joys from whilom grief,
But pushing through the mould by sorrows sown
That life to which all lives are prelude brief?

YES, lovely roof gardening time is here again and Paris, with apparent great forethought, has designed a frock that will charm the most attractive roof party.
IT is chiffon in the sheerest shades of green, set off by a yellow organdie flower tucked to the shoulder. It smartly combines Chanel's use of the bolero and the uneven hemline sponsored by Martial et Armand. Come adventuring here—for the most thrilling frocks summer has to offer!

CONCORDIA LUTHERANS TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Dedication of Present Edifice 35 Years Ago Will Be Observed.

David Bruning, pastor of St. Matthews Evangelical church, Baltimore, Md., and president of the board of educational institutions of the Evangelical Synod of North America, will be the speaker at the German services at 10 o'clock and the English services at 11:15 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Two years after the organization of the congregation, January 17, 1833, the first church edifice was built at Twentieth and G streets northwest. A movement for a new edifice large enough to accommodate the rapidly growing congregation was started at the fiftieth anniversary of the church organization in 1883.

Due to differences of opinion as to the location and to a change of pastorate, it was not until 1892 that the new edifice was built and dedicated. In this year a Sunday school building was erected on the site of the old parsonage. In 1900 the building was partly destroyed by fire, necessitating some rebuilding and redecorating. Extensive improvements were made in 1906 and in 1925. The present pastor is the Rev. Charles Enders.

Gov. H. N. Spaulding of New Hampshire will have his turn before the microphone tonight at 8 o'clock in a series of governor talks by station WMAQ, Chicago.

With flood waters from the Arkansas, White, Red, St. Francis, Mississippi and other rivers half covering the States of Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, radio amateurs in that section are tirelessly standing watch day and night in order to be of service to the flood victims, according to latest reports received at the national headquarters of the amateur association.

Although radio conditions are exceptionally poor, the amateurs are managing to keep communication open at all times between Meridian, Memphis, Cleveland, New Orleans, Shreveport and Plaquemine, with the result that much information is passing in and out of the danger zone which would be blocked but for the work of the amateur. Many of these amateurs are staying day and night at their sets in order to be on the job in case they are needed.

Judges to Be Guests At Bar Outing Today

Judges of the various courts will be the guests of honor at the annual outing of the Bar association of the District, which will be held today at Sherwood Forest, Md., and which promises to be one of the most interesting and successful outings that the association ever has staged. The feature of the sporting events of the day will be a baseball game between teams captained and trained by Fred Stohlman, attorney, and Milton Kronheim, bondsman. Each year these teams meet, and the rivalry, which has grown, promises a hotly contested game. Horseshoe pitching contests, foot races and similar games will be staged. Heading the list of entertainers are George O'Connor and Matt Horne.

CHURCH ADVERTISING

By REV. E. V. STEVENS, of Eugene, Oreg.

I was taking the pastorate of a badly divided, discouraged and dying church. They were heavily in debt and had lost all hope of ever coming out of what seemed to them an utterly hopeless condition. One of the first things I asked of that church was the privilege of expending a certain sum of money for advertising. True, it was money they did not have, nor did it seem possible for them to get the money to spend in this way. I was repeatedly refused the appropriation, until I promised them that if they would try the experiment for a period of three months, and if after that experiment they found that it had not been successful, I would personally pay the entire bill. You can well imagine the result that came, for by the close of the three months not only had the advertising paid for itself several times, but the church had been filled with interested people, and the years of prosperity for that church had begun. The strange part of this matter of advertising to me is, that there should be any objection to it, when we remember that the church has been advertising practically during all her history. Church bells, tower chimes, steeples and physical equipment were the methods of advertising in the past, and many who have accepted these ancient methods without a word, criticize the modern plans of church publicity.

LAW INSTITUTE STUDIES AGENCIES AT CONVENTION

F. R. Mechem Presents Draft Covering Subject at the Annual Meeting.

TORTS ALSO DISCUSSED

The American Institute of Law, meeting in annual convention at the Mayflower hotel for the purpose of restating the common law, continued its discussion yesterday, taking up the highly controverted subject of "agencies."

Floyd R. Mechem presented the draft covering the subject in its entirety and dealing especially with the question of when an agent's authority is ended. Collaborating with Mr. Mechem in the formulation of the draft were Frederick Green, of the University of Illinois; H. Claude Horack, of the University of Iowa; Calvert Magruder, of Harvard; Harry S. Richards, of the University of Wisconsin; Marvin B. Rosenberry, of the Wisconsin supreme court, and Warren A. Seavey, of the University of Pennsylvania.

It is the second draft on the subject which the institute has considered, some sections having been accepted at the last meeting. The subject is so broad that it is likely sections will be left for restatement at the next meeting with changes in the light of discussion developed yesterday.

A draft on the subject of torts was presented by Francis H. Bohlen, who had collaborating with him Rousseau A. Burch, of the supreme court of Kansas; Herbert F. Goodrich, of the University of Michigan; James P. Hall, of the University of Chicago; Emmett N. Parker, of the Washington supreme court; Owen J. Roberts, member of government counsel in the oil cases; Warren A. Seavey, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Edward S. Thurston, of Yale.

The restatement defined torts, generally, as an "inflicted wrong or injury (other than breach of contract) for which one can bring an action for a civil wrong or trespass independent of a contract."

Three prominent men are to speak at the banquet of the institute tonight. They are Mr. Roberts, Dr. William Searle Holdsworth, of the University of Oxford, and Silas H. Strawn, American member of the Chinese extraterritoriality commission.

Winship's New Duties Defined.

Col. Blanton Winship, military aid to President Coolidge, may not maintain an office at the White House for some time, pending completion of his work with the judge advocate general's department, remaining at the War Department until the President leaves on his summer vacation.

Y. W. C. A. Vesper Service.

Dr. Edward Elliott Richardson, professor of philosophy at George Washington university, will be the speaker at the Y. W. C. A. vesper service tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The services are held in the Y. W. C. A. residence, 1104 M street northwest.

G. R. Farnum Host To Department Aids

Judge George W. Anderson, of the circuit court of appeals for the first circuit at Boston; Dean Homer Albers, of the Boston university law school, and John E. Hannigan, of the Boston bar, were guests of honor at a luncheon yesterday at the University club, at which Assistant Attorney General George R. Farnum was host to his assistants in the Department of Justice and to Paul A. Chase, special assistant to the Attorney General. Judge Anderson, Dean Albers and Mr. Hannigan spoke.

All three stressed the compensations to be derived by lawyers from experience in government service and the importance of industry and loyalty in attaining success in the legal profession.

Girls, Build a Foundation For Your Future Health!

The Rembrandt Studio.

Charlotte, N. C.—"There is nothing in the medicine line that can compare with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for young girls. About the time I was growing into womanhood I got in a rundown state of health, was nervous and weak and had to be absent from school a part of the time. I doctored and took medicine but got little relief until my mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it built me up, strengthened my nerves and I was able to resume my school work. I do not hesitate to advise all mothers to give it to their girls, if they get rundown or are backward in development."—Mrs. G. L. Austin, 1110 N. Tryon St. All druggists. Fluid or tablets.

The Housekeeper

SOMEHOW I think there are more Saturdays on our calendar than we know about—something is certainly wrong, for it always seems to be Saturday and the day to plan our Sunday dinner. The weeks fly for us here at the studio; we are either rushing to get our cook books out to the friends who write to us for them or rushing to get our mail up—or rushing to test recipes—or rushing for the shopping column, and the result is that we are rushing always toward Saturday and the Sunday menu—and as for myself—I think that there are no other days in the week any more—all Saturdays.

It is the cry of the housekeeper—(and incidentally a subtitle to a very good book on the subject of foodstuffs)—but even here I ask, "What shall we have for dinner?" Sometimes, frequently in fact, we have menu suggestions from our friends that are immediately incorporated in our column, and I long for these suggestions as they keep me from the rut with which we are constantly threatened here at the studio, and than which nothing is more deadly. Send me suggestions—help me plan these menus that go out to our friends through our column. Or shall we have a contest of best menus, that I may have your suggestions by the hundreds to incorporate in the column?

Beginning Tuesday, provided we overtake today the list of requested recipes for the column, I am going to pass along to you a few at a time the good recipes for fish dishes that came to us at the time of the contest, but that were not prize-winning recipes. We shall give each recipe with the name of the contributor. If any one fears that she may open the morning paper one fair day to find that her name, because of her good fish recipes, has burst into print—when she does not want her name in print—will she communicate with me now that I may check her recipe as one to be printed with initials only?

Shall we have a stuffed, baked chicken for dinner tomorrow—and with it a recipe for chicken curry that will serve to do away with the remnants of the fowl. We have not had a chicken on our menu for some time, if I remember correctly.

MENU.

Jellied Consomme.
Toasted Crackers. Celery.
Olives. Nuts.
Roast Stuffed Chicken.
Pan Roasted Potatoes. Giblet Gravy.
Asparagus With Cream Sauce.
Fresh Green Peas.
Dressed Watercress With Sliced Cucumbers.
Strawberry Ice Cream or Strawberry Tarts With Whipped Cream.
Coffee.

We have had our recipe for the jellied soup and for our stuffed chicken. The asparagus and fresh peas explain themselves, but the salad, simple as it sounds, may need a word or two.

We recall that when we prepare fresh cucumbers for the table (to be eaten raw), we are first to peel them, to run long lines from end to end down their sides with the point of the knife, and then to slice them very thinly, as thinly as we can, and let them stand in salted water in the ice box for several hours. After this has been done we must—for the salad mentioned in this menu—arrange the slices of cucumber on a bed of crisp watercress that has been well washed, and then over the cucumbers pour a very little French dressing that has been made in a bowl that has been rubbed with garlic. Garnish the whole with a dash of paprika and serve thoroughly chilled. It is a tasty salad, really a delicious one. It is especially suitable to serve with a hearty dinner.

We have not had a recipe for ice cream in some time. Shall we have one today.

Strawberry Ice Cream.

Wash and remove the stems from two boxes of good berries, sprinkle over them two cups of sugar and let them stand for an hour and a half. Mash them and squeeze them through a cheesecloth and then add the juice to three pints of cream and add to the whole a few grains of salt. Some of the pulp of the berries may be added to the cream, but this must be done before the berries are put through the cloth, not after. Freeze and serve in stem glasses with cup cakes or a plain white cake that has been frosted with white or strawberry frosting.

Chicken Curry.

Cut remaining cold chicken into pieces about a half-inch in size until there measures two cups of the pieces. Place two tablespoons of butter and one of flour in a double boiler and add pepper and salt to taste. Stirring constantly add 1½ tablespoons of curry powder and blend these materials well. Add to them a cup of chicken stock (which may be made with chicken boullion cubes), and cook, stirring constantly until the sauce is quite thick. Add the chicken and cook a short while longer until it is thoroughly heated. Have ready a generous amount of cooked rice and make an indentation in the center of the rice which has been mounded on a hot platter. Put the chicken in the center of the rice (which is to be hot, of course), and garnish with sprigs of parsley. Chutney is a most delicious condiment to serve with this dish. We may also serve, to be used over the combination of rice and curried chicken, hard boiled egg that has been finely minced, thinly sliced onions that have been fried in butter until brown and crisp and dried on a brown paper; peanuts that are finely chopped, crisp chopped bacon and cocoanut that is moist and shreded. With these condiments this dish of curry becomes very nearly the East Indian curry of which we hear—and which is, without doubt, a most delicious dish. Some of us may say that the taste for curry is a cultivated one. If that is the case I am not conscious of the stage of cultivation through which I must have passed, for I am at the present time neither too old, too young or too fastidious to hugely enjoy a dish of rice and curry when I am fortunate enough to have it offered to me. Enough for the curry. We shall have room for one request receipt—possibly two.

Marconi Soup (Mrs. Howard.)

Cook a fourth cup of macaroni that has been broken into small pieces in boiling salted water until it is soft. Drain and add to one quart of brown stock heated to the boiling point. Season with salt and pepper and add to it just before serving, a fourth cup of shaved green pepper that has been cooked until tender in boiling salted water. Serve with croutons.

Lemon Pie (L. N. V.)

Line a pie pan with crust and bake it in a hot oven until browned. Cool both the shell and the filling before it is added. The cover with meringue and brown under the broiler. This last operation requires constant watching as meringue should be browned only—not cooked. I should add that this reader wishes only the manner of putting the pie together. She has the filling and the crust recipes.

Housewives' Market Guide

By NANCY CAREY

The market offers but slight change this week-end. A few delicacies have put in an appearance, but not a remarkable number. This condition may or may not have been brought about by the sudden sharp change in the weather that we have just experienced. However, a few things are worth particular note. For one thing, cherries have arrived from California, the eating variety, of course; and they are good, although at a dollar a pound we feel that they should be. French endive—the form of lettuce that is really a delicacy and that carries with it something of renown because it is an importation—is very good at this time, and brings 50 cents a pound with five or six good stalks to the pound. As a few leaves constitute a serving, we may safely indulge in a half pound for the average family of four persons.

The strawberry market has dropped materially since first we spoke of the arrival in market of this fruit, and berries are bringing 30 cents—at some stalls 25 cents a quart. Corn is still three ears for a quarter, but grows constantly better as the weeks go on. From the Eastern shore of Maryland do we now receive home-grown asparagus, which brings 50 cents a bunch and is well worth recommending. Spring lamb, cheaper than last week, is now to be had at 55 cents, which is its lowest point to date.

Blackberries we find in some of the stalls, but they were not worth buying—at least those that came under the shopping eye. They are somewhat rusty and somewhat crushed—as though they had made a long journey under not too favorable conditions—which they doubtless had. They sell for 25 cents a basket. Stringless beans are very good again this week, and are bringing 20 cents the pound.

Poke salad, which is to be cooked as we cook spinach or kale, is selling now for 10 cents the bunch, and cooking onions, of the big brown order, are three pounds for 25 cents.

Shad roe, which has been more—and less—than its present price, is bringing a dollar a pair this week-end, and smelts, that come to us from the land that is so close a next-door neighbor—Canada—are bringing 40 cents a pound. If we contemplate buying this small fish by the pound it may interest us to know that from eight to nine smelts, on the average, constitute a pound.

HEARTS' HAVEN

CONCERNING THE ACTIONS AND CHARACTERS.

Christine Farr, pretty, popular, just 18, is invited to the commencement exercises of Reserve university by two inseparable friends of her childhood, both of whom are in love with her. They are:

Harvey Blanton, handsome, brilliant, aggressive, and his chum and roommate,

Lewis Hayes, grave, dependable, doggedly determined to make his mark in the field of chemical experimentation.

Harvey proposes to her, and is accepted, so Lewis goes away without telling her he loves her on the eve of the wedding. Christine and Harvey elope and are married quietly. A year later their son is born.

Lewis had returned to town, meanwhile, and is working for the firm which employs Harvey. He tells Harvey that he had discovered a chemical formula of great industrial value. Harvey undertakes to get his uncle, the president of the company, to put it across.

CHAPTER VII.

New Happiness.

ONE evening several months later, Christine came downstairs to the living room an hour after dinner. Junior had been wakeful and she had left Harvey to have his coffee alone, while she hurried to the nursery.

In the kitchen, the maid-of-all-work was rattling the dishes, eager to be off for the evening.

Harvey was seated under the reading lamp, surrounded by official-looking papers over which he was poring with interest. His lighted cigarette on the edge of the table, was rapidly burning its way toward the wood.

Christine picked it up and supplied an ash-tray.

Harvey glanced up with a grin.

"Thought I was going to spoil your beautiful table, eh?"

"Well, it's a nice table—the nicest one I've ever had," she returned.

"But not by any manner of means the nicest one you will have, when my ship comes in," he boasted.

Her little, disdainful shrug showed her indifference to greater affluence. She perched on the arm of his chair and put her arms around his neck, locking her small hands under his chin.

"I don't want anything better than we have; I have all I need in the world—this adorable house and Junior and you."

"I notice you rate me last," he laughed.

Her lips quivered in a smile, as if at some tender, secret thought; her eyes were shadowy and dreaming.

"Not quite last," she said softly.

She bent closer to him, laid her lips against his ear and whispered.

His face showed his astonishment; in fact, its expression dismayed her.

"Good heavens, Christine, I never suspected! Whew!" He took out a handkerchief and mopped his brow.

"But you don't seem pleased," she said.

"I was just thinking that it's a pity we'll have to miss a wonderful vacation. I was saving the news as a surprise for you. My chief is going to Europe later in the summer, so I have to take my vacation in June, and Dane—our vice president, you remember—is taking his at the same time, and has asked you and me up to his place in the Adirondacks. It's a peach of a place. I've been looking forward to it a lot."

"But, darling, you must go. Everything will be over by that time, and another will look after me beautifully."

"Nonsense!" he declared.

"It would be nonsense not to," she said, firmly. "I won't have you miss your vacation. Mother and Lew will be here."

"But you don't seem pleased," she said.

He lit a cigarette with elaborate care before replying.

"Lew won't be here," he said. "He's gone back to Chicago."

"Back to Chicago?" she echoed. "Without saying good-by?"

He began to move his papers about uneasily.

"Well, he was in a great rush; got a sudden opening and had to take it. It was along about the time that Junior had the croup and you were too upset to see anybody. He sent his good-by through me; I'm pretty sure I told you. You must have forgotten."

"But what about his job with your firm?" she asked. "And that wonderful formula he discovered—the one you both were so enthusiastic about?"

He extinguished his cigarette in the ash tray, and was careful not to look at her.

"Oh, that!" he shrugged. "That was no good. It didn't pan out; in fact, it lost him his job, just as I feared it would. You remember, I warned him about it. Well, the old man went up in the air. He thought the idea was no good, and some one told him Lew had worked it out. He said Lew was wasting the firm's time and material, and kicked him out. It's a pity, because Lew is a great chap, but he wastes too much time dreaming and fussing over the impossible. He ought to get out and rustle for a living like the rest of us. I tell you, Chris, I'm going to have some results to show you soon. I have done a lot of promising and I haven't been so bad at producing, but believe me, I'm on the right track now. We're going to be rich, girl of mine."

He rose from his chair and drew her up with him; he cupped her face in his hands and looked down at it from his splendid height.

"I'm going to give you everything, Chris, that a woman could want—gowns, jewels, servants, a whale of a house——"

She listened absently. Her thoughts were busy with Lewis Hayes' strange behavior. It wasn't like good old Lew to go away without saying good-by.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TRUTH AND FICTION.

I know a man who loves his wife
And all his children three;
There's much within his daily life
That's beautiful to see.
He kisses them, I dare to say,
At morning when he goes away.

I've watched him through the years, and I
Have watched his children, too;
They've waved at me in passing by,
As neighbors often do.
A younger woman dressed in red,
I'm sure, has never turned his head.

His hair is now a silver gray,
His wife still seems to smile;
I know that grief has come their way,
For back a little while
I saw the crepe upon their door,
And then a mourning band he wore.

I think I'd like to write a book
About this man I know,
Who's neither rascal, drunkard, crook;
But if I tried to show
A man devoted to his wife,
They'd say: "It isn't true to life!"

Jacket to Match

© VOGUE 8585

ONE of the most decidedly new fashions of 1927 is the printed dress with a jacket to match. It appeared in the spring collections and has been one of the most widely copied ideas of the season, simply because it was very chic and decidedly sensible. This is a fashion that the business woman will take to her heart because, very often, mornings and evenings are cool and lunch hours are warm, and so she needs a light wrap to wear to and from work that can be omitted at noon without spoiling the success of the costume. The short jacket sketched here answers the purpose admirably. It gives just the extra warmth that one needs on a summer morning. It is also a very useful combination of a town and country costume, for many women will want to have a little sleeveless printed frock to wear in the country this summer, and, if they cover them with a short jacket to match, they immediately become appropriate for town, as well.

We sketched this frock on a very smart business woman of our acquaintance. She chose a print in navy-blue ground decorated in tiny beige and yellow flowers—her hat, shoes and bag were beige. She looked very cool and summery and she tells us that it is one of the most satisfactory dresses she has had.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Women and Courage.

DEAR Miss McDonald—Won't you write a few words of encouragement not just for me but for thousands of other fellows who are just as discouraged as I am. Here is what I want to know. Will women ever again have courage, and the real hearts that our mothers had? Will they ever be brave and ready to do their part or will women always from now on be the little playthings they are today, just dressed up and waiting for entertainment with nothing at all in their hearts, and nothing much in their minds, but the idea of enjoying the moments that drift by regardless of the future? It makes a fellow sore to have a girl "laugh off" any serious talk of the future together. I am only 26, but already I am sure that I will be always a bachelor. I asked one girl to wait for me, when I entered college, and she had a good laugh over it. She was married when I was in the second year. I hear she only knew the man three weeks. Evidently "waiting" wasn't her style. I have been out of college now over a year and am getting along fairly well, but I am the sort that sort of "hankers" after some one to work for and talk to. But the last thing any girl wants today is to talk. They don't want to even sit down unless it's in a car. That's the first thing they ask you—have you a car? It makes you feel awfully "unnecessary" when you have to admit you haven't even a car. I'd love to have a girl. I like ones that are lively with quiet moods. I knew two but they are both married now.

One of them asks me to come and see her, as her husband is away sometimes two months at a time. She says he would be only too glad to have me do so. Should I do it? I liked her once a great deal, and it would mean a lot to me to see her sometimes just as a friend. She is not the one that laughed. She never knew I cared for her, as I did not take a chance on being laughed at again. She married some sort of cousin of hers, a good deal older and has a lovely home. He was married before. What do you think of the girls today? Are the days gone when a woman would dare fate for the man she loved? Do they even love any more? I read over again today the story of Mary Todd—and her love for Lincoln. Of course, I'm no Lincoln, but will girls ever love like that again?

'DISCOURAGED TIM."

Tim, courage is a thing bred of necessity. It is eternal in the human soul, but lies dormant until called into action. These are days of luxury, and age of softness. Women are not being tested as once they were. They are showing the effects of their pampering. But given the occasion, they would prove themselves equal to their mothers.

Do you know Tim if men would begin to expect things of girls, the girls would begin to show their mettle. But so long as boys offer only rides, and entertainment and good times, the girls are satisfied to just drift. No demands are made upon their real womanhood. Few men expect naything of a girl beyond the ability to dance and keep the party going. I think the girls are as weary of it all as the boys, and in a few years there will be a reaction and some real standards. Meanwhile, 26 is very young, Tim, and there are lots of girls "lively with quiet moods." Just look until you find one, and do not seek companionship in the girl who is married. That would be unwise—for both. Find a girl, who can be all yours, and do not rush her. Just show your capacity for friendship, and since you have no car, plan other forms of entertainment. Give her a chance to really know and value you, before you ask her to do any waiting or even any serious thinking. Often a girl "laughs off' proposals that seems to her premature. I think you are impetuous, Tim, and impetuous lovers are a real problem to woman. So calm down, and let the next girl learn to care. It is worth all the time it takes.

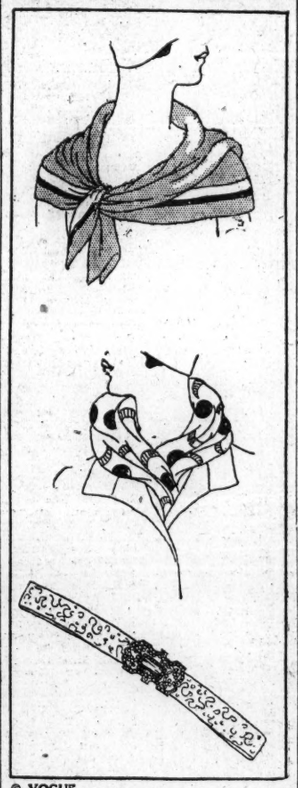
NOW, I'LL ASK ONE!

Everybody's doing it! Get in the swim. Test your own knowledge—and that of your friends. It is a delightful game and is educational at the same time. Printed below are ten questions—if any of them stump you, you will find the answers on the last page.

QUESTIONS.

1. What was the legendary food of the gods?
2. Are there more men or women in the United States?
3. Could a woman become President of the United States under our present laws?
4. Where is the Cape of Good Hope?
5. Where is Gen. Grant's tomb?
6. What is the name of the United States' largest dirigible?
7. According to present boxing rules, how long is a round?
8. Who is credited with drawing electricity from the sky by means of a kite string?
9. Name the four largest cities in the United States in the order of their size.
10. According to Biblical history, who lived the greatest number of years.

EVE IN PARIS



© VOGUE

DEAR CLARIBEL: The new accessories were by far the most fascinating things about the Openings, to me, and perhaps the most interesting of all were the scarfs. There are no fur collars on the new coats of this season, as you know, so the couturiers decided to do something to fill the gap and the result was a number of new and enchanting variations of the scarf. In the center is Chanel's square scarf of printed silk that is worn both with dark coats for town and with tweeds for the country, or even knotted about the neck of the country frock like a handkerchief. Chanel showed it in a crepe de chine. There are other variations of printed chiffon.

The scarf at the top of the page is Patou's new triangular sports scarf, of plain crepe de chine bordered with bands of contrasting color. When I saw it, the scarf was beige and the bands were black and white, but, of course, it could be developed in all sorts of other interesting combinations.

The buckle is one that Chanel used on a lace evening frock. It is made of brilliants in a design copied from an old paste piece. Really, it seems that the smallest detail in the mode these days has innumerable smart variations. I could write you at least three letters simply on buckles I have seen this season—buckles such as that in the sketch, buckles of metal in modernistic design, buckles with fastenings copied from details of harness, buckles made of metal links or of crystal. I am thinking of starting a collection to change the aspects of my various belts, only I suppose that wouldn't be too practical, because the buckles are always so neatly fastened on! But I think I shall collect them, any way. With love, EVE.

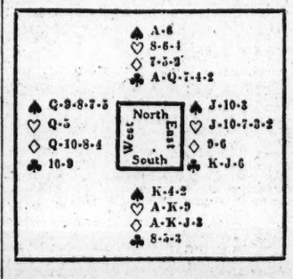
Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

A TENACE SUIT IS NOT USUALLY THE ONE TO LEAD; BUT NO BRIDGE RULE IS INVARIABLE.

Yesterday a hand was given in which the cards of Dummy and Declarer were named, together with the lead to the first trick; and the reader was asked to put himself in Declarer's place and scheme the play of the first trick and the remainder of the hand. The location of the entire 52 cards, with both finesses losin, is now shown; contract No Trump:



On the first trick West leads the Seven of Spades and Declarer can see that he is sure of two Spade tricks, two Heart tricks, two Diamond tricks and one Club trick—two tricks short of game. He has a finesse in Clubs and a finesse in Diamonds, each of which stands an even change of making an extra trick. The chance against the success of both these finesses is, however, three to one; and due to its length, the Club suit is the better to try because game probably can be made with the aid of that length, even if both finesses fail.

Declarer should therefore win either the first or second Spade trick with the Ace in the Dummy (keeping his King of Spades to block the third round of that suit), and should then lead a small Club from Dummy. One Club trick must be lost, and the first Club lead can be made just as advantageously from one hand as the other. With the first Club trick won by the adverseries, they will continue Spades and clear their suit when South plays the King on the third round. Declarer should then (trick 5) lead a Club from Closed Hand and finesse. The finesse would lose, but East would not have another Spade to lead and Declarer would therefore secure a total of two Spades, two Hearts, two Diamnods and three Clubs, winning the game in spite of the fact that both of his finesses were losers.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

DEAR VIOLA PARIS: My hair is that indescribable, undersirable shade called "dishwater blond." I do not believe it will ever be any darker than it is at present, and I was wondering if a blond shampoo would give it a prettier color. My hair is not absolutely colorless, because it has lights in it, but would brightening it up a little hurt? Although my hair is not quite straight it needs a little waving, which I can not afford to have done at a shop always. Several times a week I steam my hair to give a slight curl. Is this harmful? My skin seems unsuited to powder. I find that, while vanishing cream is useless, putting on a little vaseline and then rubbing most of it off before powdering is successful. Does vaseline grow hair on the face any more than cold cream or any other like preparation? PAT.

Answer—I am sorry that it is not possible to publish letters and answers more quickly, and I hope that this information reaches you before you have started on the trip mentioned elsewhere in your letter. Both of the shampoos named in your letter are good ones. They are neither bleaches nor dyes and will not give an artificial effect. I believe that either of them, particularly the first one, would just suit your purpose. But don't go farther and experiment with any chemicals to "touch up" the hair. I consider that a great mistake. Keep your hair clean and well cared for and it will grdually assume natural high-lights.

The steaming method that you use to induce a natural wave is not at all harmful.

Whether or not preparations grow hair depends largely upon the skin of the individual. Some people have such a natural tendency toward superfluous hair that any cream appears to further the growth. Greasy creams are, of course, the worst offenders in this regard. I do not think vaseline would be quite so good for your skin as a light cream or lotion (not of the vanishing type). If you have any tendency at all toward having superfluous hair you are taking a little risk. On the other hand, if you have the sort of skin that is naturally free from hair, then probably your method would do no harm at all.

Dear Viola Paris: Please give me a formula for making a harmless cleansing cream. PEARL M.

Answer—Since you have asked me for it, here is a formula for a cucumber cleansing cream. But let me say that (although this is good and perfectly harmless) I think it almost always more satisfactory to get a ready-made preparation by a specialist of recognized standing. It is difficult for an unexperienced person to follow even a good formula properly—and in the end just about as costly.

2 oz. cucumber juice
½ oz. white wax
½ oz. spermaceti
¼ oz. essence of cucumber

Melt oils, wax and spermaceti together, adding essence of cucumber and beating in cucumber juice while cooling.

As I said before, I think it is easier and better to spend a dollar or so on a commercially known cleansing preparation that has a good reputation.

Dear Viola Paris: My hair is medium brown and is getting darker. What can I do to make it lighter without harming it? MAE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ORANGES AND FIGS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

FROM California there comes another piece of clinical work which shows that oranges and figs can take the place of the ordinary school lunch given underweight children.

Misses Morgan and Tanner took three lots of underweight children, and after weighing and measuring them carefully, put them on the several diets. One lot got a diet consisting of the ordinary foods eaten by children and in the ordinary amounts. A second lot had the same diet, but in addition each child was given one orange a day at some proper time during school hours. The third lot also got the ordinary school child diet and in addition a school luncheon composed of four pulled figs.

The children in all three groups were underweight. At the end of the eight weeks' period the children who got oranges had made an average gain in weight of almost two pounds. The children who got figs had done almost, but not quite, as well. The third group had not gained particularly.

This trial confirmed earlier trials which showed that a little fruit was about equal to a glass of milk in promoting the growth of children.

Fruits are high in minerals and vitamines. They are called base foods because the ash formed from them is alkaline and tends to neutralize the ashes of meat, bread and cereals which make for acidosis. Of course, growing children need meat, bread and cereals. They need them above everything. But if they are eaten to the exclusion of everything else, or nearly everything else, they make an excessive amount of acid ash. We say there is too much acidity, or a tendency toward acidosis. Out of this malnutrition may develop. The ash of milk is pretty nearly neutral; it is about border line. That of oranges and figs is alkaline or base. If milk has some advantages over these fruits in its proteins and fats, oranges and figs have some advantages in their basic ash, and that about evens matters up.

Misses Morgan and Tanner found in this study, as so many others have found in other studies, that we do not exactly know what is undernourishment. It is not that we have no standard, for we have several. The trouble is that we have too many standards, and the results of measuring the same case by several standards do not agree. When we use one of these standards on a given case, we may have him undernourished, and then we may turn around, try another standard, and find that by that yardstick the case is not undernourished.

CURING SEVEN-YEAR ITCH.

R. E. P. writes: I have been bothered for about four months now with a breaking out all over my body. At first it was very bad. It appears as hard pimples and itch. When squeezed a watery liquid comes from it. After that passed off another breaking out comes. This looks like a rash, is red and makes the skin scaly and hard. It is also contagious. I use sulphur and lard to dry it up. Sometimes after a week or two it goes away. But always it comes again as bad as before. What is it and what can be done to stop it?

REPLY.

If you have old-fashioned itch, sometimes affectionately called "seven-year itch," you can be cured by suphur ointment if you will use it right.

It seems that you use it vigorously enough to kill most of the bugs, but not all. When a new crop hatches they begin eating you again.

Rabbit-Skin Jackets For Sports Attire

Paris.—Rabbit skin short coats, some of them shaved and some with long hair, are in favor for spring sport events which require a comfortable wrap easily discarded and not easily damaged.

The rabbit jackets are usually hip length, made single or double breasted with small slit pockets. The skins are not dyed, but are used in natural colors.

True Paris Costume Is Black and White

Paris.—No matter what the favorite shade of the season, the average Parisian woman builds up her wardrobe on a foundation of black and white. This spring, when black and white is more than ordinarily popular, foreigners complain that Parisian women are wearing nothing else.

One of the favorite costumes of the women of Parisian sophistication is the unmatched jacket and skirt. Crosswise stripes in a heavy black and white cheviot made a smart tailored jacket worn recently at the Longchamps race course. With it went a black skirt of short-haired imitation pony.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

THE NEIGHBORLY FEELING.

IN large cities I have often heard newcomers complain of loneliness, and I have often had letters asking me how a new arrival can make friends among her neighbors. Today I have quite a different sort of letter.

Dear Miss Singleton: The other night a group of neighbors called upon my husband and me, declaring we have never been properly welcomed to the street we lived in and that they were going to welcome us now. When they departed they left us with a nice, warm feeling toward them, especially since this neighborly feeling is all too rare in the city. M. F.

I can easily understand the pleasantness of being welcomed to a locality, and the sense of loneliness one feels when one settles into a strange place and has no way of making it less strange. But in defense of large cities I must say that to call upon one's next door neighbor just because she has become your next door neighbor (without in the least knowing who she was), might prove to be very awkward. In small places people don't arrive unheralded or entirely unknown. Some one has generally heard something about them. The same may be said about certain localities in large places. There are many such, for instance, in New York, and in arriving and settling in any of them you may find that one person who knows something about you tells another, and gradually the community feels it must show itself your friend. This is nice, and human, and just as it should be.

But, if you do find yourself in a large town, where you have no letters of introduction or means of meeting your neighbor in social ways, do not feel yourself unkindly treated because they have not visited you. If any one could visit anyone else without any form of introduction, you might be the prey of undesirable acquaintances as well as the companion of delightful ones. It is safer to trust a little to time and find your bearings before you commit yourself to real intimacy.

Women's New Hygiene

Ends disposal problem—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called KOTEX.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better class women now use it. Great hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Costs only a few cents for a package of 12. Be sure you get the genuine KOTEX, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

MODISH MITZI

Next Stop, France!

By Jay V. Jay

You've never seen them weep before, but it seems to them both the thing to do at this moment. Mitzi is wondering if she really needed a sea trip after all and Polly is wondering why she thought she wanted to go along. They'll probably feel this way for half an hour more. It doesn't really interfere with the extremely smart effect of Polly's matching scarf and hat of fine checked wool nor with Mitzi's matching hat and bag, with their trimming of golden balls. The lady to Mitzi's right also has a matching hat and scarf—hers is of navy blue crepe and Mitzi will admire it shortly.

Aunt Sophia wonders if she shouldn't have gone along, and Adelaide knows she should have. Dad is thinking that it's going to be pretty lonesome until the Paris bills come in. The Goofer is wondering how soon Mitzi would enjoy receiving a radiogram; meantime, if you have heart for such interest, you may notice the back of the coats the ladies are wearing. Back trimmings are most fashionable and they are usually formed of the material itself. Aunt Sophia's consists of seaming in the material and Adelaide's of bands of the fabric stitched on in pointed lines.

MOST STOCKS RECEDE; OTHERS GAIN SHARPLY

Nickel Plate, With a Net Advance of 19 Points, Proves Day's Sensation.

SPECIALTIES IN DEMAND

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 13.—Mixed influences were at work on sentiment in the stock market today and the irregularity of prices reflected them. The trend in more than half of the list was rather broadly downward, with the rest surging forward to create numerous high records. Gains extended up to 19 points. The day's turnover, 1,737,000 shares, was well under yesterday's. After early selling had been well absorbed and a good rally started, profit taking checked the movement and the market closed unsettled.

The stiffening of call money to 4½ per cent when the banks called about $20,000,000 in loans to strengthen their clearing house position, appeared to encourage realizing rather than increased selling pressure. More serious flood news was utilized as ammunition by the bears. News that the leading producers of oil in the Seminole field had agreed to curtail operations temporarily created little comment. Possibly the street had expected more radical action. It also may have been skeptical of the efforts being made to check overproduction, as the obstacles against concerted action are recognized as being very great.

The General Motors extra dividend appeared to have been pretty well discounted, for the present, at least, although the stock advanced for a net gain of 2¼ points, after experiencing several sinking spells. Hudson also stiffened up in the last hour and ended with a net gain of 1⅛. Most other members of the group were apathetic and closed with fractional losses for the day.

United States Steel common showed distinct signs of reinvigoration, both classes becoming active on the up side, and finishing the day near to their record peaks. The old stock closed up 2⅝ net, and the new at a gain of 2⅛. The independent steels were firm, although not active.

High-priced specialties attracted much attention during the day and, as a result, there were several wide advances. Nickel Plate and Chesapeake & Ohio led the carrier group to new tops and Houston Oil, International Harvester and Case Threshing Machine soared sensationally. Baldwin displayed renewed vigor and Pullman, Allied Chemical, Brooklyn Union Gas, By-Products Coke, Commercial Solvents, Cast Iron Pipe, Christie Brown, Coca Cola, Corn Products, Loose-Wiles, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Delaware & Hudson, Woolworth, Radio Corporation, Yellow Trucks and others joined spiritedly in the rise.

Nickel Plate soared from 209¾ to 223 without a setback, closing at that figure for a net gain of 19 points. This stock was the sensation of the market. Apparently it took Wall street two days to make up its mind as to the real worth of Nickel Plate on the basis of the disclosed holdings of Chesapeake stock. Nickel Plate stockholders will be given nothing they did not already own, it is true, but they have just found out what they do own, and besides, they are being given a chance to cash in some of their holdings without relinquishing their position in the railroad stock. On top of this Wall street is swinging around to the idea that all the so-called Van Sweringen stocks have been undervalued, too much attention having been given to the merger plan and not enough to current earnings and the growing efficiency of operation.

The sharp rise in Montgomery Ward and lesser strength in Sears-Roebuck revived the talk of a merger of these two mail order concerns. This story has been denied often enough to discourage most people interested, but constant repetition finally wears away incredulity.

The disastrous break in stocks on the Berlin boerse was followed with interest by the financial district, but it had little effect on our markets. American securities are not largely held in Germany. Some German securities listed here were heavy, but their number is small. The German difficulty apparently has been brought on by an overextended speculative position, and when the banks tightened the credit lines the inevitable crash came. Something of the sort happened here last year, and the market was all the better for the clearing away of the unsound superstructure.

Sterling featured the foreign exchange market, being heavy all day and finishing ⅛ off. The Spanish rate suffered another decline, falling 12 points, but subsequently recovering 3 points. Lire were 3 points down early, but closed a point net higher. Japanese showed a firmer undertone. Uruguayan and Mexican exchanges were heavy.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—An opening advance in the cotton market today on unfavorable weather and crop news was followed by reactions. July contracts sold off from 15.81 to 15.61 and closed at 15.56, the general market closing steady at net advances of 2 to 5 points

The opening was firm at an advance of 7 to 17 points, and active months sold 16 to 19 points net higher in early trading on reports of additional overflows in Louisiana, rains or showers in the central belt and firm cables from Liverpool. There was a good deal of covering or rebuying by recent sellers and also some buying for trade account on the advance, which carried prices up to 15.60 for May, 16.13 for October and 16.33 for December. These figures seemed high enough to attract increased realizing, however, and after the initial demand had been supplied, the volume of business tapered off, prices becoming easier.

Detailed weather reports, showing good rains in west Texas, which has been complaining of droughty conditions, probably encouraged local or Southern selling during the early afternoon, but the bulk of the pressure was attributed to realizing. May declined to 15.45, October to 15.95 and December to 16.16, or back to approximately yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices were a shade up from the lowest on renewed covering. Failure of the opening advance to bring in a broader or more aggressive demand appeared to disappoint recent buyers and may have contributed to the more reactionary tone of the later market.

Private cables said the firmness of Liverpool was due to trade calling and covering, with American and continental buying on the American flood or weather news, and also reported improved home trade in cotton goods in Manchester.

The week-end figures showing a decrease of 204,980 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week, compared with the loss of 67,289 last year, led to bullish comment, but evidently without much effect on the market.

Port receipts today, 17,590 bales. United States port stocks, 1,806,476 bales. Exports today, 49,160, making 10,034,852 so far this season.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, May 13 (By the Associated Press).—Trading in many issues on the curb market today reached broad proportions, and the list as a whole displayed considerable strength. Buyers again were inclined to seek out usually inactive stocks with good earning or dividend prospects.

Public utilities were among the favorites in the buying movement, several new highs for the year, or longer, being established in this division, although there were a few soft spots. United Gas Improvement went up 2 points, to 108, while Southeastern Power & Light touched 33⅛, both new tops.

Oil shares exhibited several irregularities, Creole Syndicate and Pandem receding somewhat, while Ohio Oil, Penn-Mex and a few others showed further response to efforts to correct the overproduction crisis.

Rumors that a settlement has been reached in the Argentine meat war presumably were responsible for strength of Swift International, which went up nearly 2 points, to 23¼, a new high for the year. Brisk demand developed for Conde Nast Publications, which also touched a new top, at 37½. Tubize Artificial Silk soared 14¼ points, to 248¼, a new high for all time, while American-Hawaiian Steamship, Celanese of America common and first preferred, Procter & Gamble, Royal Baking Powder and U. S. Gypsum were among the numerous strong spots.

Reactionary tendencies were shown by a number of industrials and specialties, including Fajardo Sugar, Celotex Co., New Jersey Zinc, Palm Olive and a few others. Few of the losses, however, were greater than a point or so.

REACTIONARY TENDENCY SHOWN BY MOST BONDS

Few Outstandingly Strong Spots Develop in Light Trading.

FOREIGN GROUP IS QUIET

New York, May 13 (By the Associated Press).—Reactionary price tendencies developed in today's bond market, although there were a few outstanding strong spots. Volume of trading was the smallest for a full day's session in several weeks. Competition offered by new offerings, which have absorbed a large portion of the money immediately available for investment, was in a measure responsible for the inactivity.

Chesapeake Corporation 5s again were among the market leaders, but the demand was considerably less keen than during the two days following their listing on the exchange. There was some evidence, too, of profit-taking, the price shading off after an earlier advance. Erie "D" 4s were again active more than a point above yesterday's close, while the convertible 5s of Delaware & Hudson advanced substantially in sympathy with the stock. Southern Railway 5s were heavy.

A jump of nearly 6 points carried Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s to 187¾, a new high record, following a series of gains by this issue within recent days, but utilities otherwise were quiet.

Simms Petroleum 6s fell back a point to a new 1927 low in reflection of the omission of the dividend.

Foreign bonds were quiet and irregular and United States government issues received only moderate notice.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 13 (By A. P.).—With indications almost certain that the Manitoba wheat crop this season will be below normal, wheat prices tended upward today after averaging lower early. Lateness of corn planting was also a bullish factor. Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ½c net higher, corn ⅞c to 1¼c up, oats ⅛c off to ⅜@½c advance, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 35c.

Bearish sentiment which predominated at times today in wheat was largely associated with some Kansas reports that were of optimistic tenor, much in contrast with recent unfavorable advices from the Southwest in particular. A leading crop expert wired today that from Great Bend, Kans., to Phillipsburg, Kans., wheat is in the boot with some heads showing, and that unless something unforeseen occurs, that section of Kansas will harvest a larger crop than last year. Other reports from the Southwest today, however, were in general less favorable, with smaller yields forecast for Texas and Oklahoma, as compared with 1926.

Toward the end of the day, interest of wheat traders shifted more to advices from the Northwest, especially Canada, telling of serious increase of delay to seeding.

According to one report, the lateness of Canadian seeding will make it imperative that almost perfect conditions prevail the rest of the season and that it will be a year of anxiety until the crop is harvested. The province of Manitoba was reported today as practically under water, with snow and sleet westward and dust storms in southern Alberta.

Continued showery weather in the corn belt harassing planters gave independent strength to the corn market. Cash demand for corn improved, and country offerings were light. Commission houses were active buyers in the oats market. July oats reached the highest price yet this season.

Provisions responded to the upward trend of grain and to steadiness of hog values.

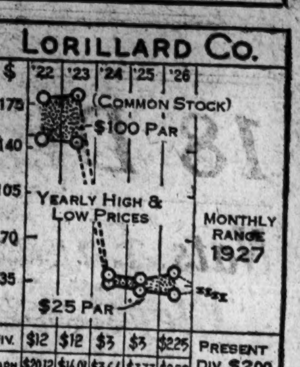
What's Behind Your Stock



P. Lorillard Company

The P. Lorillard Co. is one of the several large companies formed as a result of the Supreme Court order in 1911 that certain properties of the American Tobacco Co. be segregated into independent units. Until recently the company's production has consisted principally of smoking and plug tobaccos, little cigars and Turkish cigarettes. Now, however, the company is distributing a new cigarette called "Old Gold" which it is endeavoring to popularize in order that it may share in the large earnings enjoyed by concerns making the popular types of cigarettes.

The P. Lorillard Co., since the time of its organization, has reported rather wide and sometimes erratic fluctuations in earnings with the general trend for recent years being downward. In 1926 net income amounted to only about $100,000 more than in the corporation's initial year, but it is stated that last year's earnings fell partly as a result of the cost of introducing new products. Net income for 1926 was equal to $2.58 per share on the common stock, as compared with $3.77 earned in 1925. On the common shares there were regular dividend payments in former years, the rate being $12 per share from 1916 to 1923, inclusive. On the present $25 par value shares, dividends of $3 were maintained until the end of 1926, when a change in policy occurred which resulted in dividends of 2 per cent in stock per quarter instead of 3 per cent in cash.

Nats Engage Cleveland Today

Final Chicago Game Rained Out; Goslin Ready to Play.

City to Honor Speaker in First of Series of Four Contests.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CHICAGO, May 13.—The crippled Washington ball club was granted a reprieve today when rain here forced the postponement of the scheduled game with the White Sox. The Nationals moved on to Cleveland tonight, where they open a four-game series with the Indians tomorrow.

Today's postponement postponed the appearance of "Goose" Goslin in the Washington lineup. The slugging outfielder has completely recovered from his attack of pleurisy and was to play today. Manager Ray Schalk, of the White Sox, welcomed the rain, as he would have been forced to use a rookie pitcher this afternoon.

The reluctance of the White Sox to play the game today differed widely from the attitude of the Chicago team at the start of the series, when Schalk had three star twirlers to send in against the weak Washington team. It would have taken a combination of fire, flood and freezing to postpone the first three games. In fact, weather conditions were so poor that the first two games of the series should never have been started and, financially, it is doubtful if they paid for the baseballs used.

Although the Nats lost the only three games played here, they have not been far outclassed by any means. Thurston, Lisenbee and Marberry turned in fairly well-pitched efforts, but in each case they simply allowed one too many hits.

Seven, eight and nine respective bingles were made by the Sox and one of these in each game spelled the difference between victory and defeat.

In the opener a Texas league double by Thomas, which fell safe because Speaker guessed wrong as to his position, beat the Nationals; Ward's two-bagger did it in the Wednesday affair, while a scratch hit off Bucky Harris' glove spilled the beans yesterday.

As soon as this afternoon's fracas was declared off Tris Speaker took an early train for his home in Cleveland.

Speaker will be the "hero" of tomorrow's game, in name at least. The city is to turn out en masse to pay homage to the former Indian manager. The mayor has issued a proclamation urging citizens to attend, all of the civic and fraternal bodies are supporting the movement, and it no doubt will be a "red letter" day in the player's baseball life. Needless to say, several presentations will be made him by his many admirers.

Three Philly Homers Defeat Cubs, 4 to 1

Philadelphia, May 13 (By A. P.).—Three home-run drives, the first by Cy Williams and the others by Leach and Jimmy Wilson, gave Philadelphia a 4-to-1 victory over Chicago today in the final game of the series.

Hub Pruett missed a shutout victory when Tony Kaufman, the rival hurler, hit for the circuit in the fifth inning. Pruett only allowed three hits and struck out ten Chicago batters.

Hack Wilson, the Cub slugger, fanned three times.

Voigt Annexes Chevy Chase Golf Title

Defeats Shorey, 2 and 1, in Finals After Being Even at Turn.

Victor Always Leads in "In" Round; Standifer Also Wins.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

GEORGE J. VOIGT, District amateur and middle Atlantic champion, yesterday won the Chevy Chase club spring invitation golf tournament, and as he won the same event last year, established a record of winning the trophy for two successive years. He defeated John C. Shorey, a high school student, who is a member of the Argyle club, on the seventeenth green, 2 and 1.

Voigt reached the final round by a comparative easy victory over Harry G. Pitt, Congressional, 4 and 3, although Pitt defeated him last year in the semifinal round of the Congressional club tournament.

Shorey had a real battle against Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, in the semifinal round, this match being all square when the tenth tee was reached. It was still all even at the sixteenth tee, Shorey winning the fifteenth hole when Stevinson drove into a trap, and becoming 1 up when he also won the sixteenth. The seventeenth was halved, and with the eighteenth also halved the match was over.

When the first seven holes of the first nine had been played between Voigt and Shorey, the latter was 2 up. Voigt was up when Shorey's hooked drive lost him the second hole, and he was still holding his advantage when Shorey missed a 3-foot putt on the fourth for a birdie 2.

Then Voigt lost three holes in succession—the fifth when Shorey ran down a three-foot putt for a birdie 3, the sixth when he took three putts and the seventh when Voigt failed to reach the green with his second shot.

He won the eighth with a par 5, laying Shorey a stymie, and the ninth with a single putt for a par 3, so that the match was all even at the turn.

On the homeward journey Voigt was always in the lead. He won the tenth with two putts for a par 3, Shorey failing to reach the green with his tee shot, and the eleventh in sensational fashion. His second shot, played with an iron, hit the bank on the side of the ditch and trickled down into the shallow water. Instead of penalizing himself with a stroke by lifting, Voigt essayed to play the ball from its treacherous lie and landed it on the green, Shorey losing the hole by taking three putts.

Winning the thirteenth hole with a par 3 after Shorey had driven into a trap, Voigt was 3 up, and with the fourteenth and fifteenth halved, held this safe position until the sixteenth green, when Shorey holed a 20-foot

Hoyt Steady as Yanks Defeat Browns, 3 to 1

St. Louis, Mo., May 13 (By A. P.).—The St. Louis Browns outhit the New York Yankees today but Hoyt was effective in the pinches and the Yanks won 3 to 1, for their fourth straight victory and a clean sweep of the series. Sacrifices helped the visitors. Double plays checked scoring on both sides. Babe Ruth, in five times up, received three bases on balls, struck out, and flied out.

Red Sox Stop Tribe, 7-0; Lundgren Star

Cleveland, Ohio, May 13 (By A. P.). Boston made it two straight from Cleveland today, winning 7 to 0. It was the first time this season Cleveland has dropped an entire series, two games being postponed on account of rain. Dundgren, who won his first start at Detroit last week, held the Indians to three hits with the help of Flagstead's spectacular work in center. Lundgren also played a leading role in the attack on the Cleveland pitchers, contributing a three-base hit.

GALLERY SEES VOIGT DEFEAT SHOREY ON CHEVY CHASE LINKS

TECH BEATEN IN 12TH BY EASTERN

McAllister's Single Decides Game by 9-6 Score.

HARRY M'ALLISTER, of Eastern, stepped into the picture in the twelfth inning in the struggle yesterday between Eastern and Tech, at Wilson stadium, and poked out a single which sent Lesinsky and Rankin scooting over the plate to bring victory to Eastern which was beginning to seem neither possible or probable. That McAllister scored later, to bring the final score 9 to 6, is of minor importance.

When the tenth inning and the eleventh inning rolled by without any undue happenings, the fans settled back into their seats for some kind of a marathon contest.

There was so much crammed into the twelve frames that it is impossible to begin to narrate it. Eastern started the game with a big splurge, three hits, a walk and a couple of errors netting three runs.

Tech managed to shove one run across in the opening frame and came back with another tally in the third. Errors and wildness on the part of Quinn figured prominently in the scoring, as Tech got but two hits in the first five innings.

Tech grabbed the lead, 4 to 3, in the sixth by scoring twice on two successive singles, a walk and a hit by Demarest. Eastern came back with a big seventh inning rally, combining three hits and an error for three runs.

Tech seemed hopelessly lost, but the team was in a fighting mood, tying up the count at 6-all by garnering a run in the seventh and eighth innings.

Then Eastern went into the twelfth frame, putting Lisinsky and Rankin on base with scratch hits which provided the proper setting for McAllister's winning clout.

Mack Signs $200 Check Which Pays Cobb Fine

Detroit, May 13 (By A. P.).—A check for $200, representing the amount of the fine against Ty Cobb for his mixup with Umpire Ormsby, was on its way to President Ban Johnson in Chicago today, but it was not written by the Georgian. The league head who Tuesday reinstated both the former Tiger manager and Al Simmons after a suspension of several days, specified that both players must pay their fines by personal check within 48 hours.

"Bob Fothergill can sprint through the eye of a needle just as easily as I can send Johnson a personal check for $200, because I haven't a check," quoth Tyrus, whose salary is $75,000 a year. Whereupon Connie Mack, the Athletic's manager, wrote the check for Cobb and dispatched it to President Johnson with an explanation.

Willie Ritchie to Try Comeback on Coast

San Francisco, May 13 (By A. P.).—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, is going to try another comeback.

From authoritative sources it was learned today that the man who won the world's 135-pound crown here from Ad Wolgast in 1912 and lost it two years later to Freddie Welsh, has decided to take another whirl at the game that brought him fame and fortune.

Nearly 30 years old and weighing around 140 pounds, Ritchie has convinced himself that he can cope with the junior welterweights of the present generation. His age gives him no concern as he feels the care he has taken of himself since he left the ring will enable him to surmount the age barrier. The favored ten-round bouts now hold no misgivings.

A's Trounce Tigers; Ty Cobb Still Hitting

Detroit, May 13 (By A. P.).—Ty Cobb hit safely in his seventeenth successive game as the Athletics took the closing game of the series from the Tigers here today by the score of 10 to 3. The former Detroit manager kept his record intact by beating out a bunt in the fourth while Wells was in the box.

In winning the final game and thereby making it three out of four for the series, the Athletics hit three pitchers hard. Ehmke, on the other hand, held the Tiger attack well in check and after he was given a substantial lead at the expense of Gibson in the third inning, was never in trouble. Al Simmons contributed a home run, double and single in four times at bat.

Eddie Collins, captain of the Athletics, drew four bases on balls.

Derby Visitors Seek Confidential "Tips"

Louisville, Ky., May 12 (By A. P.).—Shoes and ships and sealing wax are not discussed by prospective derby visitors, but many other subjects equally at variance have been brought up in letters to Louisville authorities, it was disclosed today.

Derby letters to the Louisville Automobile club and city officials form an interesting study. Among the unusual requests made was that of a New York society woman who asked that a good extra chauffeur be hired to assist her in finding her way to Churchill Downs.

A Chicago woman had fears for her fine Persian cat. She desired, in case her feline showed nervous effects from the hectic derby to know the location of dog and cat hospitals.

Many "confidential" letters requested "tips" and "sure winners." Others inquired about systematic methods of betting and consistent winning.

Passes to the track were among the favors asked in the potpourri of requests.

Robins Beat Reds, 5-4, 5 Runs in 8th Decide

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 13 (By A. P.).—The Robins swept the three-game series with Cincinnati by coming out in front in today's fray by 5 to 4.

Jakie May was rushed to the rescue after three singles and two doubles had put the Cincinnati lead in jeopardy. Herman scored the tying run when Kelly fumbled Henline's grounder with two out and Flowers brought in what proved to be the deciding run on a wild pitch.

GIANTS LOSE TO CARDS, 11 TO 1

Sherdel Given 7-Run Lead in 1st; Hafey Stars at Bat.

NEW YORK, May 13 (By A. P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals turned on the Giants today and batted out an 11 to 1 victory, starting off with a seven run splurge in the initial inning, the Cards hammered Fitzsimmons out of the box before a man was out. The first four batters hit safely.

Clarkson, who succeeded Fitzsimmons, was little improvement, but Songer, recently purchased from Pittsburgh, pitched well through four and two-thirds innings when he gave way to Cheeves.

New York could do little with Willie Sherdel, Cardinal southpaw. An odd feature was that four of the seven Giants' hits went to Tyson, who had gone 36 times at bat without a hit and made his first hit since May 2.

Hafey, of St. Louis, hit a home run, double and single, the circuit blow coming with one aboard the bases.

Whitney Pair Favorite in Classic

West's Hopes Increase With Falling of Rain on Eve of Race.

Sande, Upon Osmand, Wins Favor for J. E. Widener Gelding.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13 (By A. P.). Promise of fair weather and a fast track for the tens of thousands of spectators and the eighteen racers in the fifty-third Kentucky derby tomorrow was marred late today by a heavy rain. Weather bureau experts had scanned their maps and said there would be some showers today in this part of Kentucky, but that it would be "generally fair" tomorrow. Those who remembered the deluge of two years ago—just as the weather bureau had forcast that year—said that the outlook was all that was needed to make tomorrow perfect. Then came the afternoon showers preceded by a darkened sky and accompanied by rather high winds and rain. Prior to the rain the track had been declared fast.

Should the rain make track muddy tomorrow chances for one of the Western horses to win the derby would be considerably improved. Royal Julian is a superior mudder, while Hydromel, Rolled Stocking and Fred Jr. have a liking for heavy going.

Kiev, of the Eastern horses, seems to crave a muddy track, as on his two outs this spring here he has not shown any real class on a fast track. Bostonian, of the Whitney stable, and Scapa Flow are the other "Eastern mudders."

The derby, at one mile and a quarter, will be worth $52,525 net to the winner if all 18 start. The second horse will win $6,000, the third $3,000 and the fourth $1,000. The winner also will take down a $5,000 gold cup.

The probable derby field contains all of the 3-year-olds that have been "prominently mentioned" in the pre-derby discussions, and two that had been considered doubtful starters. One, My Son, owned by Mrs. H. E. Croissant, of Chicago, who races under the "nom de course" of Crescent stable, was a surprise entry, as the son of Ballot—Wallflower II had not been looked for by the "punters."

It had not been thought that Mr. Kirkwood would accept the issue, and the decision as to whether War Eagle would go with Jock as the entry of the McLean stable remained open until the entries closed today.

Osmand, J. E. Widener's ante-post favorite, has been the topic

ALL CALLAO CAPTURES PIMLICO JUVENILE STAKES

Solace Beaten In Stretch Drive

Bourassa's Jockeying Decides Contest in Final Running.

Rooney Bolts at Start and Runs Away; Mergler Unhurt.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 13.—The spring juvenile stakes, which was provided as an attraction at Pimlico this afternoon, furnished a stirring contest in which the Greentree stable's All Callao was the winner over Solace after a long, hard stretch drive. Passing the winning mark, the first four were in a compact bunch. All Callao's margin was a scant half length and the next three, Solace, Thuron and Polish were noses apart.

All Callao had the inside post position and when the break came he was off on top. The leaders were well bunched in the first furlong, with All Callao in rather close quarters next to the rail. Bourassa was as busy as a bee bustling his mount in order to keep his position. He kept driving in a desperate effort to retain the lead and when the others bore out some entering the homestretch he drew away.

At the end All Callao's early efforts began to tell and Bourassa again went to a drive and in a desperate struggle stalled off a determined challenge from Solace. Prate, who ran coupled with All Callao, was carried very wide the entire trip and could never get up.

The stake had a net value to the winner of $5,740. Added excitement was lent to the running of the stake when Rooney, racing in the colors of William Garth, and ridden by J. C. Mergler, got the better of his rider while on the way to the post and ran away. He went the wrong way of the track and when he reached the gate leading off the track at the half mile pole, he bolted over the fence and fell. Quickly scrambling to his feet he continued on his way riderless and tore through the outside gate on to Belvedere avenue. The last seen of Rooney was on his way to the Green Spring valley. The stewards ordered the starter to dispatch the field without Rooney.

All bets on the colt stood according to the rule of the Maryland racing commission, which stipulate that after horses leave the paddock they are in the hands of the starter and all bets on them stand whether they start or not.

Jockey Mergler escaped with a shaking up.

J. W. Healey, acting for the Laurel Park stud, disposed of the steeplechaser, Horace Groom, to G. W. Elkins. The latter is shipping his stable to Brookline to participate in the racing there. Horace Groom and Fleetwood have been nominated in several of the events.

The body of Jockey Monte Edwards, who died at the South Baltimore general hospital last night, will be shipped to the home of his parents in Wallace, Idaho. It developed that Edwards suffered a broken back and broken ribs as a result of the accident when the French-bred colt Palaiseau fell in the fifth race. Palaiseau fell at the same spot that Ursa Major went down the other day.

Matt Brady found it necessary to destroy the Harry Payne Whitney jumper Ararat II, who fell in his race the other day. It was found that the horse suffered injuries to his back which the veterinarian pronounced a hopeless case.

18 DERBY HOPEFULS FACING SLOW TRACK

of discussion on all sides since his two races at the spring meet here. He was beaten in the stretch by Rolled Stocking in his start last Saturday and won by a nose from Jock in his last race Wednesday.

The big gelding has been termed a sprinter. It has been said that he could not last the derby route, but Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, is to be in the saddle, and many pick him to win. It is a matter of derby history that both the derbies won by Sande was with "sprinters which could not go the mile and one-quarter." Zev, last in the Preakness a week before, ran off with the derby in 1923, and two years ago Sande shoved Flying Ebony past the winning post ahead of Captain Hal, one of the best handicap horses in the country.

Ten Eastern and eight Western colts were named, giving the two sections fairly even representation in the traditional clash. The West has triumphed in the last three derbies and has hopes of adding another.

The Whitney entry, Bostonian and Whiskery, probably will be installed favorite, although Rolled Stocking doubtless will receive heavy backing from Kentuckians.

AVIATORS BEAT MARINES.

The Bolling Field nine defeated the Marine Barracks team 11 to 2, yesterday. Swanson, on the mound for the Aviators, yielded but four scattered hits.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—True Pal, $23.10, $8.20, $5.50; Birdwood, $4.00, $3.10; Fair Anita, $4.50.

True Pal, well handled, was kept in close pursuit of the pacemaker from the start, responded willingly to punishment and, closing gamely, wore Birdwood down and stoutly took command the last sixteenth. Birdwood was rushed along at his best speed to overtake Fair Anita, gained the lead rounding the turn, was hard ridden the entire journey and held on well to the end. Fair Anita broke fast and clear, saved ground all the way, but appeared to be in close quarters next the inner rail in stretch run and Jackson could not do her justice.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won ridden out. Place driving. Went to post at 3:08. Off at 3:12. Winner, C. Vanbergen's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Danger Signal, $12.80, $4.90, $3.60; Alex Woodliffe, $7.10, $4.50; Frank Andrews, $5.40.

Danger Signal, a keen factor throughout, gained command rounding the turn, went into a good lead entering the homestretch and held Alex Woodliffe safe under slight urging. Alex Woodliffe improved his position steadily and closed with good energy the last part of the trip. Frank Andrews forced a good pace, made several early efforts, but weakened the final quarter.

THIRD RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good for all but Hedgefence. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 3:41. Off at 3:42. Winner, F. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Flagship, $9.20, $5.60, $3.40; Allfey, $5.50, $2.90; Shadowdale, $2.40.

Flagship outran his field from the start, opened up a good lead on reaching the backstretch, was taken in hand and rated, shook off efforts from Hedgefence and was going well in hand the last part of the trip. Allfey saved ground all the way, moved up stoutly entering the homestretch, but could not menace the winner. Shadowdale, slow to begin and badly outrun early while racing extremely wide, finished resolutely, while covering more ground than the others.

FOURTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Spring Juvenile. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:24. Rooney	118	9	Ran off on way to post				J. C. Mergler	§

† Greentree Stable entry. ‡ W. Garth-Mrs. R. B. Dean entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—All Callao (Greentree Stable entry), $4.70, $2.80, $2.30; Solace, $22.50, $12.00; Thuron, $4.30.

All Callao, away forwardly, had to be hustled along in the early stages to maintain a brief lead while racing on the inside, stalled off keen opposition from Polish and Rose Eternal, continued with good courage when the real issue came and had enough in reserve to stall off Solace. Latter, a keen factor, came to the outside and finished full of run. Thuron moved to the leaders with a rush at stretch turn, where he raced into a pocket, secured clear passage along the inner rail the last furlong and closed stoutly.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. The Arlington handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good and fast. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 4:54. Off at 4:55. Winner, Mrs. W. J. Giblin's b. h. (5), by Sir Douglas—Maple Copse. Trained by R. E. Potts. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; fourth, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40, 1:47 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Grenier, $3.80, $2.70, $2.30; Beau of the West, $9.70, $3.30; Cogwheel, $3.00.

Grenier moved into the lead going to the first turn, opened up a winning advantage, was given a breathing spell before reaching the far turn, drew away into lead again when shaken up and easily held Beau of the West safe. Latter, bothered going to the first turn, moved into contention gamely, made a bold effort entering the homestretch, but was not good enough. Cogwheel raced well and had no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The Towson claiming handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 5:27. Off at 5:29. Winner, S. Louis' b. g. (6), by Sweep—Marjorie. Trained by J. P. Polk. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:14 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Lounger, $7.10, $3.80, $2.60; Suky, $5.20, $3.30; Ennui, $2.80.

Lounger, placed forwardly in the early running, moved into the lead with a rush on reaching the turn for home, saved ground and, under stout urging, held his opposition safe. Suky worked her way into contention fast, made a bold attempt entering homestretch, but bore out during the stretch run and just managed to outstay Ennui. Latter dropped back, came again the last furlong and closed with belated speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place easily. Went to post at 6:01. Off at 6:04. Winner, J. Reynold's ch. g. (6), by Crimper—Lady Lenore. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:50, 1:16 3-5, 1:43, 1:57.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Lanoil, $18.40, $8.60, $4.60; Blow Horn, $6.00, $4.40; Delusive (entry), $3.20.

Lanoil, badly outpaced in the early stages, was steered out into the middle of the track on the backstretch, where the footing is more solid; gained fast and, closing with good courage the last quarter, gradually wore down Blow Horn, to get up in the concluding strides.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

—BY BERT E. COLLYER—

FIFTY GRAND.

Some mazuma that a lot of millionaires are going to compete for in the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs. However, those who fail to get anything will not be missing any big steaks, which is more than can be said for some of the boys who have backed their choices in the "winter book."

Although almost all of the sharps are of the opinion that OSMAND is purely a sprinter and will not go the derby route I am still stringing with the Widener representative and Jockey Sande. Frankness, however, causes the admission that I think a trifle more of Sande than I do of OSMAND.

Money for RIP RAP is showing all over the country and is indicative that this colt has been given several doses of ozone by the astute Mr. Hirsch. BLACK PANTHER is doing nicely and will be close up at the finish, but the Whitney entry is such a strong one that it is quite likely to finish at least as good as second.

Those seeking apparently "sure shots" should shift their play over to Pimlico. It is the closing day of the spring session at the Baltimore course and the boys will be shooting from taw. The real hot tamale of the afternoon is the J. E. Griffith entry of SINGLE FOOT and CANTER in the mile and one-sixteenth handicap. This looks like taking money from the babies after the good race this pair ran on Thursday.

Aside from the derby, interest in the sport at Churchill Downs centers in the running of a handicap at six furlongs. It will bring out some speedy sprinters, but when the smoke of battle clears away it probably will be found that PRINCE OF WALES will be on the front end.

Out Aurora way, the good word comes from the chief of staff that AROMATIC is going to turn the tables on ELEVATE in the Promenade purse, which has been framed for juveniles.

COLUMBIA FAVORITE IN JUNIOR HIGH MEET TODAY

School Teams Contest at Eastern

McFarland, Langley Will Offer Stern Opposition.

Competitive Drill and Calisthenics Also on Program.

A NUMBER of scholastic marks seem certain to be toppled this morning at the Eastern High stadium when the fourth annual track meet for junior high schools will be run off in four weight classes.

Columbia, which nosed out MacFarland, 1926 winner, to take the honors last year, will be a favorite to repeat, but strong opposition is expected from Langley and MacFarland, with possible "dark horse" showings from the other schools, Powell, Jefferson, Hine and Stuart.

These three schools appear to have the meet sewed up among themselves, however, and have accounted for most of the records hung up in previous years, which the cinder path and field aspirants will shoot at today.

A competitive military and calisthenic drill will also be run off, with equal grading in both branches. Langley won this event last year, with MacFarland second, and Columbia third.

The coaches, who have drilled their charges for this meet, the high spot of Washington scholastic competition, are R. W. Axt, Langley; G. J. Miller, Jefferson; W. J. Conway and T. J. Donovan, MacFarland; E. J. Russell, Hine; T. A. Downing, Powell, and S. J. Carey and R. W. Falkman, Columbia.

The events for the various weight classes follow:

100-pound class—75-yard dash, running broad jump, running high jump, 440-yard relay.

115-pound class—100-yard dash, running broad jump, running high jump, 440-yard relay.

Unlimited class—100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, running broad jump, running high jump, shot put, 880-yard relay.

College Trackmen Active Here Today

Two track events, a dual contest between George Washington and Gallaudet at Kendall Green, and a decathlon championship open to members of the Catholic university track team will complete the local college athletic card today.

Out of town engagements have been carded, however, for Georgetown and Maryland teams. The Hilltop baseball team will oppose Navy at Annapolis, and Maryland's lacrosse twelve will play Stevens Tech at Hoboken, while Maryland netmen will meet Virginia at Charlottesville.

The decathlon competition at Catholic university will be held in conjunction with the scholastic track meet being sponsored at the Brookland stadium for Catholic high schools. The idea is a new one for the Cardinals, and is expected to result in an increase of interest in all forms of track and field work.

SCHOOLS TIE IN TRACK MEET

Dent-Wallach Teams in Deadlock; Burroughs Wins.

JOHN BURROUGHS SCHOOL won the Bloomingdale playground division field and track championship yesterday for the second consecutive year. Burroughs amassed 84 points, to 53 obtained by the second-place Brookland squad. Other point scorers followed thus: Langdon, 19; Whittier, 9, and Gage, 5.

The Garfield playground meet was held also and the unusual happened when Dent and Wallach finished in a tie with 43 points. Dent, however, gets the trophy awarded by the playground department since it won the most first places. Dent was leading Wallach by a wide margin until the 115-pound events started and then the latter squad came up on even terms. The little Smallwood team, composed of the smallest boys that have competed in the meets, was third with 24 points.

The track-weary playground officials will have a breathing spell until Monday, when young athletes from the Rosedale playground section will vie for honors. Columbia Heights' meets will be held Tuesday, and the Plaza events on Thursday, completing the elimination meets. The finals will be held next Saturday.

Tilden was leading M. Van Denbemde, 4—3, when the latter strained his back going after one of the American's cannonball services and withdrew, Eugank being substituted.

C. U. Yearlings Lose To Devitt Nine, 11 to 8

Devitt Prep defeated the Catholic University Freshman baseball team 11 to 8 yesterday in an erratic and free hitting contest in the Brookland stadium.

Gioffre's wildness aided Devitt in gaining a six-run lead in a hectic first inning spree. Dezendorf, working under a big advantage, did not extend himself in the box, but was forced to bear down in the latter innings, when several Frosh batting splurges had narrowed the score to three runs. He fanned 14.

Byng and Gilardo earned the hitting honors for the day.

MD. U. CUBS WIN THREE BATTLES

Tech Trackmen and Netmen, Western Nine Beaten.

THREE University of Maryland Freshmen teams vanquished Washington High school aggregations yesterday at College Park, in baseball, track and tennis.

The Yearling baseball team defeated Western High, 11 to 5; Freshmen trackmen defeated Tech, 72 2-3 to 44 1-3, and Freshmen netmen disposed of Tech's tennis team, 5 matches to 2.

On the diamond, the Old Line Freshmen spotted the Western High team to three runs, two of which Bobby Stevens drove in with a triple. This inning proved the last stand for Western, however, as the Maryland Freshmen solved Bryant's offerings for three runs in the third and four more in the fourth inning.

Maryland's edge over Tech in the dual meet was pronounced, especially in the track events, and the Manual Trainers earned but three first places to 10 for their hosts. McDonald, of Tech, was the individual star with 11 points.

Tech's tennis team was able to win but one singles and one doubles victory from Maryland.

New York, May 13 (By A. P.).—The petition of Walter Taylor, Cleveland fight promoter, for an injunction against Tex Rickard and the corporations allied with him to prevent the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey heavyweight fight May 19 was denied today by Federal Judge Goddard.

Taylor sought to prevent the match scheduled at the Yankee stadium on the ground that Maloney had a prior agreement with him to meet Johnny Risko in Cleveland on or before May 1. Maloney failed to go through with his contract at the request of Rickard, who feared that injury might incapacitate the Boston battler for the elimination tournament match.

CLEVELAND TO HONOR TRIS SPEAKER TODAY

pitching in this afternoon's game, but Manager Harris states that the southpaw will not be held over until tomorrow, as he plans to start Hollis Thurston in the opener with the Indians. Rain in Cleveland several days this week gives Manager McCallister an opportunity of using almost any one of his regular starters. As these two teams are tied for fifth place a great battle may be looked for.

Earl Koler, a right-handed pitcher who received a trial with the Birmingham Barons, reported at Comiskey park this afternoon and asked Manager Harris to give him the "once over." The rain ruined the day for him.

With "Goose" Goslin ready to play, Manager Harris is hopeful that his men will break their losing streak, which now totals four, and start a winning one of equal length. This is no reflection on the work of Sammy West, who has been subbing in left field, but Goslin is the Nats' big punch, and the team appears entirely different with him doing business at his old stand.

Walter Johnson has been working out daily, and reports from Coach Onslow are to the effect that the Old Master's arm is fast rounding into shape. Johnson still does not trust his injured leg and is favoring it to such an extent that there is no telling when he will be able to take his turn on the hill.

Manager Harris has no ideas on the subject, although he is praying that his pitching ace's return will be soon. "I'd rather be surprised than disappointed," said Bucky in discussing Johnson's case, "so I am just letting 'Barney' go his own way. He'll tell me when he's ready, and I certainly will be able to make room for him in my pitching assignment wheel."

According to a rumor here via the grapevine route, the Reds have asked waivers on Pitcher Jakie May. Manager Harris this morning declared that he knew nothing of it, but that if true the Nats would put in a bid for him, although the chances are that May would not be allowed to get out of the National league.

RICHMOND ASSOCIATION NAMES POOLE PRESIDENT

Local Bankers Gratified at Election by Federal Reserve Stockholders.

LANSTON LEADS STOCKS

By F. W. PATTERSON.

John Poole, president of the Federal-American National Bank, was yesterday elected general chairman of the Stockholders association of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, at the third annual meeting of the association, which was in session at Richmond, Va. The position of general chairman is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a member of the association so that the destinies of the organization will be guided by the Washington banker during the ensuing year. Mr. Poole succeeds Charles M. Gohen, of Huntington, W. Va., whose term as general chairman expired with yesterday's meeting.

The election of one of their number to so important a position was particularly gratifying to the local banking contingent which journeyed to Richmond to attend the conference, and as the general chairman-elect was detained in Washington on important business, the following "round-robin" telegram was dispatched to their new leader:

"We congratulate the newly elected president of the Stockholders association of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. Another honor to you and to Washington."

The membership of the Stockholders association is drawn from the 23 cities in the Fifth Federal Reserve district having member banks of the system, and includes the District, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. Attendance at this the third annual meeting of the association broke all previous records.

Washington bankers who attended the session were Victor B. Deyber, president Second National Bank, chairman of the advisory committee; Robert V. Fleming, president Riggs National Bank; Harry V. Haynes, president Farmers & Mechanics National Bank; Hillcary L. Offutt, jr., vice president District National Bank; Floyd E. Davis, president Lincoln National Bank; A. M. Nevius, vice president Riggs National Bank; H. H. McKee, president National Capital Bank; F. H. Cox and Walter J. Harrison, assistant cashiers Commercial National Bank; J. Frank White, cashier National Bank of Washington; W. J. Waller, vice president Federal-American National Bank, and Edwin C. Graham, director of the Richmond Bank.

Notice to Subscribers.

Subscribers to the recent issue of $2,500,000 preferred stock, 5½ per cent series of 1927 for the Potomac Electric Power Co. today will receive notice from the company of the amount each will receive, the work of the allotment committee having been completed. While the offering was $2,500,000, the amount which 7,357 subscribers asked for totaled $13,262,600. As the public utilities commission had authorized an issue up to $5,000,000 the directors, in view of the heavy oversubscription, decided to issue $5,000,000, so that the allotments are made on that basis.

W. F. Ham, president of the Potomac Electric Power Co., said last night that allotments would be made to subscribers as follows:

Lanston Leads Stocks.

Such trading as there was yesterday on the Washington Stock Exchange was dominated by Lanston Monotype shares. While this stock has been strong for several months the recent earnings statement has caused it to pick up to 98¾ and yesterday's transactions were all recorded at ¼ point higher, 100 shares changing hands in five lots at 99. Capital Traction sold in a 5-share lot at 104⅞, while a 50-share sale was made at 104¾. Chapin-Sacks 8 per cent preferred sold on the unlisted department at 99½.

While the bond division was more active than on the day before, trading was still quiet. Washington Railway & Electric general 6s sold at 104; Capital Traction 5s moved at 101¾, and Washington Gas Light 6s, series "B," sold at 105.

Brokers' Loans Expand.

Brokers' loans have expanded to the maximum of the year and almost to the previous high level, and the stock market is becoming increasingly sensitive to changes in the supply of funds available for lending on call, according to review of financial conditions in the current issue of Moody's.

"The demand for funds is expanding much more in New York than in the interior and either this should attract money from the interior, or else in case it fails to do so, it should result in firmer rates for call money," says the review. Normally the interior at this season should be able to lend freely in New York.

Aside from call money perhaps interest rates in general should show a downward trend, and the bond market remains in a strongly fortified position. For the present bonds look more attractive than stocks.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Anacostia Bank resulted in the reelection of the board of directors for the ensuing year. They are J. F. Campbell, A. E. Gude, George S. King, S. A. Manuel, Joseph J. Mundel, Maurice Otterback, L. W. Thompson, James E. Toner, Robert Thompson and Charles W. Warden. The report of President Otterback showed the bank to be in flourishing condition with all departments showing substantial gains over the preceding year.

The organization meeting of the board of directors brought about the reelection of the following officers: Maurice Otterback, president; J. F. Campbell and S. A. Manuel, vice presidents, and W. L. Koontz, cashier.

BERLIN CUTS CREDITS; STOCKS CRASH DOWN

it incumbent to intervene and today's crash, which followed on the heels of the warning issued by the Reichsbank and private banks, appears to have convinced government circles that further complications are not likely to occur.

Just how much wreckage has been left in the path of today's collapse in stock values is not yet discernible, but it is assumed that the bulk of victims comprise the army of German bourse fans who have been living in high hopes for six months while stocks were skyrocketing without the slightest economic or political justification. Whether Dr. Schacht intentionally timed his barrage to coincide with the traditional "Friday, the 13th," is not known, but it was suggested as one of the elements of humor in today's bourse tragedy.

Critics of Dr. Schacht, whose pressure on the Berlin banks resulted in today's announcement by which the first restriction amounting to 25 per cent will become effective about June 15 showed an inclination to blame the Dawes plan for the tumble in stock values. The latter suggestion was promptly dismissed as nonsensical by a leading cabinet member, who observed that the Dawes plan was made an everready "goat" both in Germany and elsewhere.

Leading banks say that even they were caught unawares by Dr. Schacht's edict restricting bank credits 25 per cent for the present and announcing further restrictions to follow in June and July.

Critics of the restriction policy declare that Dr. Schacht is making himself "dictator of the banks and the bourse." His edict, these critics say, "is nothing less than an attempt to throttle the country's bourse for the benefit of the currency."

The Berlin bankers alliance, comprising 370 firms, today adopted a resolution saying that the reichsbank's restrictions could not hold down the stock market indefinitely, as the imposed 25 per cent restriction will be spread over three dates, and declaring that the banks are agreed to carry out the prescribed edict with all possible leniency.

CITIZENS' CAMP QUOTA EXCEEDED IN DISTRICT

Time for Filing of Applications Will Close Soon After June 1.

The District of Columbia has exceeded its quota for this year's citizens' military training camps, 363 applications having been received, and the quota being 307.

An analysis yesterday of applications for Third or local corps area revealed that 900 more young men have applied for training than had done so at a corresponding date in last year's campaign, a total of 4,305 being on hand yesterday as compared to 3,405 in 1926.

All of the districts into which the corps area is divided, with the exception of Maryland, including Baltimore, have exceeded last year's totals of applications on a corresponding date, and besides the District, central and western Pennsylvania already have filed more applications than their assigned quotas. Quotas of applications have been exceeded in the District of Columbia, 26 counties in Pennsylvania, 3 in Maryland and 22 in Virginia. Time for filing applications will expire as soon as possible after June 1 and by that time it is hoped that the full quota of 6,000 will be filled.

Appalachian Council's New Members Named

(By the Associated Press.)

Verne Rhodes, consulting forester, of Asheville, N. C., and Paul R. Camp, president of the Camp Manufacturing Co., of Franklin, Va., have been named by Secretary Jardine as members of the Appalachian forest research advisory council, succeeding B. W. Kilgore, director of the North Carolina agricultural experiment station at Raleigh, and C. C. Smoot III, of Alexandria, Va., whose appointments have expired. All other members were reappointed.

The council, created in 1924, correlates the research activities of all forest agencies in the Appalachian States and advises the Department of Agriculture upon its forest research program, particularly as it applies to the work of the Appalachian forest experiment station at Asheville.

$55,000,000 POWER PLANT PERMIT ASKED

in a report given to Congress three years ago, except that it calls for an additional storage dam at Charles Town, W. Va., and for a dam and powerhouse near Harpers Ferry, W. Va.

The present plans call for four storage dams—near Charles Town, at Brooks Gap, near Broadway, Va.; on South branch, near Springfield, W. Va., and on the Great Cacapon, near Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Power is to be developed near Harpers Ferry, at Great Falls and at Chain bridge. The four reservoirs are to store 1,650,000 acre feet of water and will equalize the flow of the Potomac river to about 6,000 cubic feet a second.

Electric Company's Stand.

C. Melvin Sharpe, executive assistant to the president of the Potomac and Electric Power Co., said last night that if the Potomac River Corporation could offer power at a price lower than the cost of generating it here, the offer would be accepted.

"But we don't think it can be done," said Mr. Sharpe. "If we did, we would build a plant at Great Falls ourselves. When the talk of impounding the water and generating power for Washington at Great Falls first started, the Potomac Electric Power Co. purchased a thousand acres of land on the Virginia side of the falls, and we still own it."

"We spent thousands of dollars and employed numerous engineers to look the ground over and report on the feasibility of harnessing the water of the Potomac. Our findings were about as follows: First, there is not enough water for the purpose; second, the project would cost about $75,000,000, and, finally the project would not be a paying proposition, either from our standpoint or the standpoint of the users of power.

"The truth of the matter is that so many improvements have been made in the machinery for generating electric power by steam, that we believe such power is far cheaper than water power could be."

Conduits Cover Wide Field.

The Potomac Electric Power Co. has extended its conduits far out into Maryland in the past few years. Today it is supplying power to places as far as Gaithersburg and Upper Marlboro. In Virginia, the town of Rosslyn is the extent of its expansion.

With Pepco covering the territory in such thorough fashion, the question arises as to what territory will be open to the Potomac river corporation in the event it can't do business with the local power company.

According to word from Cleveland, where Robert J. Bulkley, the president, lives, the corporation expects to sell power over a wide area, an area including Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. It expects to do a specially good business in the industrial centers of West Virginia, including the counties of Jefferson, Buckley, Morgan, Hampshire, Hardy and Pendleton.

Directors of New Concern.

Directors of the Potomac River Corporation, in addition to Bulkley, are James R. Gloyd, a Cleveland contractor; James G. Bachman, a Cleveland lawyer; F. W. Ballard, a Cleveland engineer, and Joseph C. Hostetler, a lawyer. Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, is said to be a stockholder in the corporation.

The power project is said to have been suggested to Gloyd when he was motoring in the Shenandoah valley four years ago. On that occasion, he stopped at an old grist mill run by water power. He made some inquiries and found that F. W. Ballard, of Cleveland, had made a survey of the Shenandoah valley for power purposes. He got together with Ballard, and then the two of them set out to interest their friends in the scheme. One group was formed in Cleveland, and eventually an alliance was made with the Billebys Co., of Chicago, which is building a big hydroelectric station on the Ohio river at Louisville, Ky.

In making surveys recently, Gloyd's crew tied in its lines with some that had been run through by George Washington in 1750.

STREETS DISGRACE TO CAPITAL, HIGHWAY BUILDERS ARE TOLD

MacDonald, Agriculture Official, Criticizes Condition Before Association Meeting.

URGES LIMIT ON TRUCK WEIGHTS AS REMEDY

100,000 Lives, Toll of Traffic Accidents in Five Years, Report Shows.

The condition of the streets and highways of Washington was termed a disgrace and was bitterly criticized by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture, in an address to delegates of the annual meeting of the American Road Builders association last night in the Mayflower hotel.

"Twenty years ago the people of Washington were proud of the city's roads and streets," Mr. MacDonald declared, "but today we are ashamed of them. They are a disgrace to the Nation's Capital." Heavy truck traffic has torn up the streets so badly, causing patchwork repairing, that the main highways are very rough, he said.

A limitation on the weight of trucks was urged by the speaker as a remedy for the situation. John N. Mackall, chairman of the Maryland State roads commission, and Pyke Johnson, Washington representative of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, spoke in favor of a closer harmony between road builders and automobile manufacturers with an object of obtaining and keeping better roads throughout the nation. C. M. Babcock, newly elected president of the association, and Ray Hall, of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the Department of Commerce, also spoke.

100,000 Traffic Toll.

Traffic accidents on public highways during the last five years have resulted in a toll of more than 100,000 deaths and 3,000,000 persons injured, a survey committee of the association reported at the annual meeting yesterday. After receiving the report the executive committee and board of directors voted to conduct a nation-wide campaign to decrease highway mishaps.

Tentative plans for constructing $1,000,000,000 worth of good roads were discussed. The association hopes to see the plans realized at a congress of road officials, contractors and engineers, which it will sponsor in Cleveland in January. The afternoon sessions of the annual meeting, which celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the association, were held in the association headquarters in the Earle building.

The annual installation of officers was held last night at a banquet in the Mayflower hotel. Charles M. Babcock, chairman of the Minnesota State roads commission, was elected president to succeed H. G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia State highway commission.

Other officers elected were Samuel Hill, of Seattle; S. F. Beatty, of Chicago; W. A. Van Duzer, of the Pennsylvania State highway commission, and S. H. Henry, of Spruce Pines, N. C., vice presidents; Miss Ethel A. Birchland, of Westport, Conn., secretary, and James H. MacDonald, of New Haven, Conn., treasurer. The following were installed on the board of directors: J. R. Draney, New York; Richard Hopkins, Troy, N. Y.; A. E. Horst, Rock Island, Ill.; T. A. Little, Kansas City, Mo., and Fred R. White, Des Moines, Iowa.

Upham Heads Campaign.

Charles M. Upham, managing director of the association, was appointed chairman of the campaign to decrease highway casualties. Through the medium of lectures, motion pictures, placards, radio speeches, the press and the formation of a "careful drivers' club," which motorists will be requested to join by signing a pledge to drive with utmost precaution, the organization hopes to attain its objective.

The survey disclosed that of the casualties, 30,000 were school children and that the accidents resulted in property damage of more than $2,000,000,000. The survey was taken during the five-year period ended January 1. More accidents, according to the report, occurred between 4:30 and 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon than during any other two hours of the day.

The association was founded with comparatively few members in 1902 and has grown to be one of the largest highway organizations in the world.

Bartholomew Asks Zoning Code Changes

Harland Bartholomew, city planning expert of St. Louis, engaged to study Washington zoning by the National Capital park and planning commission, yesterday made a partial report before the zoning commission at a special meeting, in which he cited alleged structural weaknesses in the local zoning code and proposed five changes, as follows:

"Exclusion of semidetached houses from A restricted areas; exclusion of apartment houses from all A areas; creation of a new district for a modified form of row house, commonly called community houses; adoption of a regulation to govern population density; and creation of a zoning board of appeals independent of the commission." Bartholomew will present his views in further detail at a meeting to be held next month.

Fathers and Sons Together at Dinner

Fathers and sons who are members of the Episcopal Church will sit together at the men's fellowship dinner to be given at the City club in honor of the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, May 26, H. D. Amiss, chairman of the committee on arrangements, announced at a recent meeting of the interparochial committee held at St. Stephen's parish hall.

The committee voted to limit the number of tickets sold to 600, as a larger number will crowd the club ballroom. Sale of tickets will stop Wednesday until a check can be made to determine whether the allotted number has been sold. Further arrangements will be made at a meeting of the interparochial committee Monday evening.

Estimates for School Budgets Completed

Isaac Gans, chairman of the finance committee of the board of education, yesterday held a final session with board members and school officials at the Franklin school, completing estimates for items to be included in the 1929 school budget.

The estimates will be submitted to the District commissioners Monday, six weeks earlier than customary. Although not yet released for publication, it was said that the estimates fill 100 pages of typewritten matter. The commissioners have indicated they will submit copies of the report to the Citizens' advisory council and trade bodies.

CONVICTED MURDERER OF WIFE GETS 25 YEARS

Another, Found Guilty of Slaying, Is Remanded for Sentence.

GIRL TO REFORMATORY

Warner L. Queen, colored, who shot and killed his wife, Ada Queen, on March 8 at 426 Elm street northwest, was sentenced to serve 25 years in prison yesterday by Justice Hoehling in criminal court on a charge of second-degree murder. The accused had an argument with his wife, left her and then procured a pistol and engaged in target practice before returning to shoot her.

James A. Allen, colored, indicted on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the shooting of his brother-in-law, Frederick Griffin, was found guilty of second-degree murder by a jury sitting before Justice Hitz in criminal court. He was remanded for sentence. The jury recommended mercy for the accused. The shooting of Griffin followed a quarrel on November 28, 1926, at Eighth street and Barry place northwest. Assistant District Attorney E. Russell Kelly prosecuted Allen.

Jose Santos, South American negro, who obtained a total of $795 from James K. Wright by false pretenses, was sentenced by Justice Hoehling to serve five years. Santos represented himself as the son of an Argentine millionaire, and said that he possessed a fortune of $125,000 in his own name. Wright lives at 1647 Lamont street northwest.

Joseph Robinson was sentenced to serve five years and Randolph M. Burrows was sentenced to serve two years on a joint charge of breaking into the shop of William H. Gaines on March 20 and stealing clothing. Harry Myers, charged with stealing a trunk and contents belonging to the Washington Terminal Co. on March 25, was sentenced to serve five years.

Albert C. Dyer and William H. Smith were each sentenced to serve two years on a joint charge of robbing Edward Kelly of a watch on February 8. Paul H. Hawkins was sentenced to serve three years on a charge of forgery. Pauline Hicks, 17 years old, was sentenced to serve three years in the reformatory at Rutland, Vt., on a charge of grand larceny. The girl was engaged by a Washington society matron as a maid last February and stole jewelry valued at $1,000 and $34 in cash. The records show that she committed a similar offense in New York city.

WOMAN JUROR BRINGS NEW TRIAL REQUEST

All Federal Workers' Wives Disqualified, Convicted Slayer's Counsel Says.

Wives of government employes or other persons receiving money from the government in a pay envelope are not qualified to sit on a jury, according to a motion filed in criminal court yesterday by Attorney Abner Siegal, in which a new trial is demanded for Malcomb Howard, colored, who was convicted on an indictment charging first-degree murder.

The jury which convicted Howard was composed of ten men and Mrs. Lillie Green, wife of Joseph Green, a deputy marshal, and Miss Fannie M. Haar. Green is paid by the government and is himself disqualified for jury duty for that reason. His wife, because she is his wife, also is disqualified, according to Siegal.

Counsel for Howard says that the Court of Appeals decided in a case involving a property dispute that husband and wife are one, and consequently property held by them as tenants in common was also held by them as tenants by the entirety and could not be partitioned. Whether the minds of the husband and wife are one and whether the use of Green's money by his wife constitutes a single use in the eyes of the law will have to be determined by the court when Siegal's motion is argued May 20. Howard was charged with killing Jessie Nelson, also colored.

Schools Aid Memorial Fund.

A final check conducted yesterday on funds donated by children in the District public schools toward the erection of a memorial to the 535 District men who lost their lives in the world war indicated that $3,762.09 was collected in the schools for the purpose, Harry O. Hines, secretary of the board of education, said last night. Gifts averaged nearly 5 cents for each pupil in the schools, he said.

Coolidge Is Lauded On Chinese Stand

China would work out her own salvation if other nations of the world would "play fair" in their relations with the Orient, Clarence Kuangson Young, third secretary of the Chinese legation, yesterday told members of the Women's Alliance of the All Souls' Unitarian church, meeting in Pierce hall.

Mr. Young lauded President Coolidge's stand on the Chinese question, but condemned the exercise by European governments of extraterritorial rights in China. He predicted a satisfactory solution of the present difficulties will be reached if China is left to herself. Five delegates were elected to the general alliance, holding its annual conference in Boston May 24. They are Mrs. W. A. Maxon, Miss May A. Forniss, Mrs. U. B. G. Pierce, Mrs. James Robinson and Mrs. George A. Ricker. Mrs. Louis A. Bauer reported for the international committee, and Mrs. Pierce discussed the progress of the Emmerton school at Swansboro, S. C.

ARCHITECTS AGAIN NAME M. B. MEDARY HEAD OF INSTITUTE

Membership Gain of 168 for Year Is Announced at Banquet.

GOLD MEDALS AWARDED FOR ART ACHIEVEMENTS

Only Seven States Have Official Designers, Governors' Reports Show.

Milton B. Medary, jr., of Philadelphia, was reelected president of the American Institute of Architects, it was announced at the institute's sixtieth annual banquet last night in the Chamber of Commerce building. The balloting started Thursday.

William Emerson, of Boston, was chosen first vice persident; C. Herrick Hammond, of Chicago, second vice president; Frank C. Baldwin, of this city, secretary, and Edwin Bergstrom, of Los Angeles, treasurer.

Three men were elected to the board of directors—William H. Lord, of Asheville, N. C.; Olle J. Lorehn, of Houston, Tex., and Myron Hunt, of Los Angeles, Calif.

The total membership was announced as 3,162, a gain of 168 for the year. There are about 10,000 architects in the United States sufficiently engaged in practice to warrant their assumption of the title of architect, according to an announcement by the board of directors.

Medals for Art Work.

Two gold medals were awarded last night for outstanding achievement in the arts last year, one to Lee Lawrie, sculptor, of New York, and one to Frank G. Holmes, art director and pottery designer, of Trenton, N. J. The presentations were made by C. Grant La Farge, of New York.

The gold medal awarded in 1926 to Howard Van Doren Shaw, of Chicago, who died the day after the award was made, was presented to his widow last night, the citation being read by D. Everett Waid, of New York.

At the afternoon session Sullivan W. Jones, State architect of New York, reported that replies to a questionnaire sent to the governors of 48 States showed that in only 7 is there an official architect. A resolution was adopted by the institute declaring that an office of State architect should be created by act of legislature in every State "where the needs warrant, and that he should be responsible for the design and construction of all public buildings."

Speakers at Banquet.

Charles Moore, of this city, chairman of the national fine arts commission; George B. McClellan, former mayor of New York, and C. Grant LaFarge, of New York, were the principal speakers at the banquet last night.

Mr. Moore declared that the designing and construction of the new Federal buildings that are to be erected here will call for the services of the greatest architects, the greatest sculptors and the greatest painters in the country, and he expressed the hope that the men who are called in will create buildings that will be a lasting credit to their professions.

Col. McClellan made a plea for more collaboration among the various groups in the fine arts.
